Any moment..“Uproar in the Cabinet?”“What is the real mantra behind Modi’s ‘tea meeting’?

National Bureau Chief

New Delhi August 26:

In the hot politics, the discussions on the reshuffle of the Union Cabinet have once again heated up. The rumours that Prime Minister Narendra Modi will hold a 'Tea Party' with about 20 MPs at his residence on August 27 have sparked fresh speculation in Delhi political circles. The meeting has assumed further political significance in the backdrop of the Prime Minister leaving for a foreign tour on August 28. "Is the tea meeting a normal meeting? Or is it an attempt to open the door to new faces in the cabinet? This has now become a hot topic in Delhi politics." New president..new equations "After Nitin Naveen took charge as the BJP national president, there have been changes in the party's organizational affairs. The party has clearly signaled its future political strategy by giving priority to the new generation of leadership, BC and women's groups. In this context, the issue of 'one person, one post' has come to the fore as some of the leaders who have taken over the party's organizational responsibilities are also Union Ministers. "It has come to the fore. That is why the campaign is gaining momentum that there is a possibility of changes in the positions of some ministers to coordinate between party positions and government positions.

20 MPs.. why? "20, which is being advertised as Modi's invitation. The real interest in Delhi is now on the list of MPs. It is being advertised that it includes leaders from NDA partner parties as well as key BJP MPs. If this is true.. it will not only be a matter of cabinet expansion but also of social and regional equations keeping in mind the upcoming assembly elections." The re are also analyses suggesting that a review process may be in order. Especially in states like Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand, political calculations, BC vote bank, women's representation, and balance of allies are likely to become key factors in the composition of the cabinet. "Are allies more important?" "The role of allies in the NDA government also seems to be crucial this time. In order to further strengthen the coalition government, it is necessary to provide adequate representation to allies. If this cabinet reshuffle takes place, there is a possibility that the demands of allies will also have an impact along with the internal equations of the BJP. This means that this time the cabinet changes are likely to be a strategic composition with political future calculations, not just on the basis of performance. "Is the decision made in the tea?" But here is another question: Prime Minister Modi has also held tea meetings with MPs in the past after Parliament sessions and before foreign trips.

O Students and parents are struggling with financial difficulties. Dissatisfaction with Revant h's behavior among Congress workers. Fee reimbursement will not be released until dues are released. MP Etala Rajender's flag Students and parents not paying fee reimbursement dues. BJP MP Etala Rajender has expressed his deep anger at the government of who is causing trouble. The government is facing difficulties as students are unable to pay fees. He criticized that they are not paying attention. Thousands of crores of rupees are being raised through land sales. He questioned whether the government is not willing to pay the fees of poor students. He warned that if the arrears are not released immediately, another movement will be inevitable. Etala said that wherever he goes in the state, people are suffering because they voted for Revanth Reddy by mistake. He said that Congress workers are expressing dissatisfaction with Revant h's behavior. He said that party workers are saying Revant h should have been included in our party. He prevented the Congress from coming to power in the state for another 20 years." He criticized that the gov-

What happens to children if they don't pay their fees? The PEJU reimbursement scheme aims to provide quality education to the poor. Etala Rajender said that the government has brought in the children of those who work as labourers, Auto drivers, Vegetable sellers, he said, have joined colleges believing in fee reimbursement. He questioned where the students and their parents should go if they are not going to pay the fees after joining the studies. He said that colleges are facing difficulties in paying the salaries of the staff due to the arrears. Students are committing suicides due to non-payment of fees. Pay your fee arrears or else another movement. Etala alleged that there is concern among students and parents and said that the government should bear responsibility for their suicides. He demanded that fee reimbursement arrears be released immediately and poor students be provided with security with foreign universities. What's the point? "Oxford University campus in Telangana, London School of Business campus. Etala said that the state will not improve by setting up schools alone. He stated that those who studied in Telangana have risen to the highest positions in the world. He reminded that Osmania University student Shantanu Narayan has risen to the CEO of Adobe, Sundar Pichai to the CEO of Google, and Satya Nadella to the CEO of Microsoft. Arvind Krishna, Ravikumar R. Ajay Banga, Indra Nooyi, Vivek Murthy, Raj Subramaniam and others. They said that they are the ones who have studied in India. He said that it is the youth of Telangana who are conquering the sky through organizations like Smyroot. Etala recalled that Dr. BR Ambedkar had said that equality is possible only through education, and Kodari had said that the future of the country will be built in the classrooms. He said that former President APJ Abdul Kalam believed that the country will develop if the intelligence of the students develops. Prime Minister Narendra Modi also stated that they are trying to reduce the stress of the students by talking to them. It's time to bow our necks. Etala said that the Chief Minister of the state is like a father to four crore people. He criticized that Revanth Reddy is neglecting that responsibility. "Chief Minister Revanth Reddy has become a fool. It is time to share his brains," he commented. He alleged that 60 lakh families are suffering due to the lack of Rythu Bandhu and that the government is not caring about

Ajit Doval Meets Chinese Vice President

Dayyala Rakesh Bhanu

Bureau Chief New Delhi

August 26

National Security Advisor Ajit Doval, who is on a two-day visit to China, held a bilateral meeting with Chinese Vice President Han Zheng on Tuesday. The leaders of the two countries discussed promoting peace and stability in the border areas and further strengthening bilateral partnership. The 25th round of border talks between National Security Advisor Doval and Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi will be held on Tuesday. However, earlier this meeting was held between Ajit Doval and Chinese Vice President Han Zheng. The details of this meeting were posted by the Indian Embassy in China on the social media platform X. "August 25 National Security Advisor Ajit Doval met Chinese Vice President Han Zheng to discuss the India-China border issue. Dhobal and Han Zheng met ahead of the 25th round of special representatives' talks on the India-China border. In this meeting, the two discussed ways to strengthen peace and tranquility in the border areas. "In line with the consensus reached between the leaders of the two countries, bilateral relations will be further developed on economic, political and multilateral platforms." Discussions were held on further improvement," the Indian Embassy in China said. Special representative-level talks between National Security Advisor Ajit Doval and Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi are scheduled to take place on Tuesday. Chinese President Xi Jinping is also scheduled to visit Delhi for the BRI CS summit to be held on September 12-13. Ajit Doval's talks with Chinese leaders and officials before that have assumed great significance. On the other hand, it is noteworthy that these talks are taking place at a time when differences of opinion continue in India-China bilateral relations over the border and Arunachal Pradesh issues. Relations between India and China have been severely strained since the 2020 Galwan Valley clash. However, since then, the five parties have been taking steps to stabilize relations. Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chinese President Xi Jinping have met at key international forums such as the summit held in Tianjin last year. In this context, National Security Advisor Ajit Doval is on a two-day visit to China at a time when relations between Delhi and Beijing are improving. National Security Advisor Ajit Doval will meet Wang Yi. In the background, Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson Lin Zhiyan made key remarks on Monday. He announced the special representative-level talks. Chinese President Xi Jinping did not directly answer the question about his visit to India. He said that Dhobal and Wang Yi will hold extensive discussions on the border issue as well as other bilateral, regional and international relations. He said that the special representative meetings are the main platform for discussions between China and India on the border issue. He also revealed that this is an important platform for consultations between the two sides on issues of mutual interest. "In August last year, China and India successfully held the 24th round of talks. At that time, the two sides openly and in-depth exchanged views on the border issue and reached many common understandings. In this round of talks, talks will be held to keep the border areas peaceful and calm. The two sides will continue to have in-depth consultations on the border issue. In addition, the two sides will also exchange their views on bilateral relations, international and regional issues," said Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson Lin Zhiyan.

Is Economic War More Dangerous Than A Nuclear Bomb?

The US-Iran conflict has taken another crucial turn. As suspicions grow that the US has realized that it will not be easy to completely subdue Iran with weapons, Washington is now using its economic weapon. In addition to imposing new sanctions on Iran, the US is warning that action will be taken against countries and organizations that maintain economic relations with Tehran. This means that this is not just a fight between two countries. It is becoming a broader economic war that will affect world trade, the oil market, the dominance of the dollar, and international diplomacy. The latest measures, dubbed 'Operation Economic Outcast', target more than 60 individuals, entities and vessels linked to Iran's military activities, oil and petrochemical trade, shipping, aviation, technology sectors, gold and digital assets, the US Treasury Department said. The aim is to cut off Iran's ties with the global economy. The warning that foreign companies that continue to do business with Iran could face secondary sanctions underscores the severity of the decision. This is nothing new for the US. Sanctions have been in place since the 1979 Iranian Revolution, when relations between the two countries deteriorated. The sanctions became even more severe after the US withdrew from the nuclear deal in 2018. Washington has long sought to squeeze Iran's economy by imposing restrictions on its oil exports, banking system, and foreign exchange earnings. However, Iran has not completely surrendered. This has now become a major challenge for the US. Oil is crucial to Iran's economy. Although Iran accounts for 4% of global oil production, the Persian Gulf is of great importance due to its geographical location. A fifth of the world's oil consumption is transported through the Strait of Hormuz. If tensions rise in such a vital route, an energy crisis threatens not only Iran but also many countries, including India, China, Japan, South Korea, and Europe. Inflation is already a major challenge for the global economy. A sudden increase in oil prices will affect transportation costs, power generation, fertilizer, plastic, chemicals, and food prices. This will be even more burdensome for countries like India, which is heavily dependent on oil imports. Given that India meets more than 85 percent of its crude oil needs through imports, a prolonged West Asian crisis could lead to a rise in import bills, pressure on the rupee, and a resurgence of inflation. Another important element of the US strategy is the dominance of the dollar. The International Monetary Fund figures indicate that the dollar still accounts for 58 percent of international payments. The US is using this dominance to enforce sanctions on the global economy. Part of this is threatening to remove countries and companies that do business with Iran from the dollar-based economy. However, there is also an argument that this same approach could in the long run encourage alternative payment systems, trade in local currencies, and de-dollarization. Iran, however, has made it clear that it is not going to give in. Tehran says it has a two-year plan to deal with US sanctions and has prepared alternative ways to counter the economic pressure. Iran believes that countries like China and Russia will not fully accept US sanctions. Despite sanctions on Iran in the past, trade with Asian countries, alternative payment methods, and oil sales through intermediary countries have continued. Therefore, the question arises as to how far it is possible in practice to completely isolate a country with economic sanctions. Israel naturally welcomes the US actions. Israel's strategy is to weaken Iran's economic power by reducing its military capabilities and weapons programs. However, the intensification of the economic war risks further diminishing the prospects for peace in West Asia. If sanctions increase the burden on the people, nationalist sentiments may also strengthen instead of government opposition. The threats coming from Iran about the Strait of Hormuz are even more worrying. If oil transportation through that route is disrupted, prices on world markets are likely to rise sharply. While the US seeks to damage Iran's economic roots, Iran may try to weaponize its geopolitical influence over the world's energy supply. This is where the danger of the economic war turning into a global financial crisis lies. Is it reasonable for America to use its power to push the world into a dualistic policy of 'for us or against us'? We need to think. Sanctions affect not only the government of a country, but also the lives of ordinary people. If the Iranian people are burdened with additional burdens on food, medicine, employment, and living expenses, it becomes a humanitarian problem. So will economic pressure on Iran achieve America's goals? Or will it set the stage for another long-term conflict? Only time will tell. War requires weapons, economic warfare requires global cooperation. The real test is how well America can achieve that cooperation, and the onus is on the superpower to ensure that America's efforts to weaken Iran do not weaken the global economy. What the world needs is not another war. A diplomatic solution.

In Name Only.. Employment For The Youth

At a time when the unemployment rate in the state is breaking records, the job calendar announced by the TDP coalition government for the year 2026 has left the youth waiting with great hope for the government jobs. On Saturday, the Finance Department allowed the filling of 10,060 posts in various departments. After half a year of this and that, the government gave only a formal green signal for the filling of a few posts at the end of August. The notifications will be released in four phases. The notification will be issued one by one after considering the requirements, priority of posts, services provided to the people, revenue mobilization, infrastructure.. Aam Bhavani said that the notification will be issued one by one. Out of the 7,71,117 government posts sanctioned in the state, only 5,29,868 people are applying for them. About 2,41,309 are vacant. The unemployed are hoping that at least two lakh posts will be filled out of these. The government is only employing 1.75 lakh people on contract and outsourcing contracts at low salaries, and is not taking up permanent appointments. This is the attitude of whoever is in power in the era of World Bank sanctions and neo-liberal policies. In the padayatra organized by Lokesh in the name of Yuvagalam before the elections, and in the election campaigns of the alliance leaders Narendra Modi, Chandrababu and Pawan Kalyan, they have made it clear that they will be a job fair for the unemployed youth. The first of the super six schemes mentioned in the manifesto is 20 lakh jobs in five years and an unemployment allowance of Rs. 3 thousand per month. Along with these, they have promised a mega DNC and a job calendar every year. The first year, there was no hope of them. In the second year, they thought that they would fill all the vacant teacher posts. The recruitment was limited to 16 thousand. They forgot the promise of a special DNC for the tribal youth. There are still 20,000 teacher vacancies, but now they are saying that 2,991 posts will be filled in the job calendar. It is unfair that the unemployed are demanding that at least 10,000 be filled, including retirements. While the Home Minister himself revealed that there are 20,000 vacancies in the police department, while the youth are agitating to fill at least 11,000, only 2,265 posts have been allowed to be filled in the job calendar. While there are 5,000 vacancies in Group 1 and 2 posts, only 800 are being filled. Even though the AHA vacancies in the Librarian and Animal Husbandry departments were to be filled, they were ignored. That is why the government has not announced a job calendar. It has to be called a jobs calendar. The central and state rulers often say that there is little industrialization, expansion of the service sector or employment and job opportunities for the youth in divided Andhra Pradesh. Even after twelve years of division, they admit that there has been no change in the situation. Who is responsible? Educated youth are heading to Hyderabad, Bengaluru, Chennai and Mumbai for jobs. The Modi government revealed in Parliament last year that the unemployment rate in AP is 6.2. Surveys are declaring that it is higher than the national average. 6.16 lakh people have registered their names in employment exchanges in the state for jobs. If we count those who are not registered, skilled, semi-skilled, unskilled, the number of unemployed is several times higher. The government's propaganda that millions of people will get jobs and employment through Swarna Andhra 2047 and private investments coming in its light is not true, as can be seen from the lands allocated, the rice plantations established and the jobs obtained.

Since special status is an important part of the partition guarantees, there would have been some assurance for investments if the center had provided it. Even if they leave it and go abroad for investments "There are few things that can be attracted. If promises made to the unemployed and the youth are not fulfilled, there will be protests from Gen Z.

Statewide Discussion On 22A

Direct voice State Bureau Chief Hyderabad August 26 "Political parties are engaging in heated debates on this issue. At this time, it would be good for us to have some understanding of 22A..? Let's learn some things from a recent interview given by Bhumi Sunil (Meka Sunil Reddy), an expert in land and revenue laws, a prominent lawyer, the architect of the Bhu Bharati Act, and a resident of Mahabubabad district. Let's raise some awareness..!?" "What is the 22A list?" "This is a section that came to protect the property of the government and the people. The amendment to the Registration Act of 1908 in 2007 was to prohibit A. If there are points, then it came to prohibit them. The A-grades decided which lands should be kept under the authority. According to that, the lands included in the 22A list should be kept under registration. The sub-registrars should be aware of such a decision. Similarly, the collectors also have the authority and brought Section 22A into the registration department." "22. Who creates A lists?" "According to the decision taken, whichever is the survey, Khasranu village collectors, that is, according to what is in the web portal, the inside, government lands should be registered under 22A. The web portal has taken the decision to remove the survey, complete, until it is sent to the village. Experts are mentioning the possibilities of recording judgments and changes after the survey is com-

"If there is prohibited land in 22A, it should be removed, but the rest should be contacted? In Telangana, it is a matter of great concern if all the details are not sent through the Bhu Bharati portal. RDO and Tehsil Idars can also apply. Web Land / Bhu Bharati is to go into the lands. Corporation judgments are important in lands without agricultural land. What if patta land is included in 22A as Bhubharati land? The Bhoodan Board was contacted for information based on the land. If there are any, they should be registered. If there are no details, they should visit the sealing office or the Tahsildar and appeal to the Collector through an application. Anyone can appeal and get the tax paid. "What if Watta land is included in the 22A list as ZP?" "Is that land in the survey record? Or not? You should check. The collector who included the details in 22A should take a report and appeal to the RDO with a petition. "What if the land is kept as an endowment in 22A?" You should check whether the Endo is in the Endowment Department notification. If not, you should apply to the Collector to remove it from 22A, appeal to the RDO, and the applicant should contact the Endowment Board or Commissioner. "What should be done if the land is listed as ceiling surplus land in 22A? If there is a ceiling in the grievance, then you should check the letter. You should inquire about the thousands of proceedings of the RTO. If there are no proceedings, you can ask them to remove it. You should apply to the collector in Telangana. "What if the land is listed as assigned land / D-farm land / DKT land in list 224? You should check whether the assignment is in the register. If there is no record of anything, it should be removed. In Telangana, you should apply to the Collector. "What should be done if patta land is included in the 22A list as government land? Whether it is government land or not should be checked from Ansar/Raqaba. If it is not government land, then if it is registered in 22A, then an application should be made to the Collector to remove the records based on it. What if the land title is kept in court cases and placed in 22A? The court case verdict should be explained and the case number should be recorded. If you register it with any civil cases, you should know about it. Are there any court verdicts? Or not? Have you checked whether the disputes related to this land have been resolved? Are there any proceedings for it? Or not? You should appeal to the collector. In Telangana, you should apply to the collector. "New in the metropolis, central desk:

This Is The Real Internal Struggle In YSRCP..

“Will Jagan’s strategy work in the local fight?”

Dayyala Rakesh Bhanu
Direct Voice Inter State Bureau August 26"In Andhra Pradesh politics, another small war has started before the big elections. It is the local body election war that will take place from village to mandal. For the YSR Congress Party, these elections are not just a contest for local widows. They have become a test to answer the questions: Does the party have a future? Does the cadre still with it? Does it have the strength to fight at the village level if the leadership orders it? That is why Jagan is taking the local body elections so seriously. At a recent party meeting, he made it clear that candidates should be fielded in every seat and that unanimity would not be tolerated. He ordered that strong candidates should be selected and made to win, and that the party's political stance should be explained at every house. He also announced a plan for QR code identity cards, campaign materials, and regular meetings to revive the party machinery down to the village level. This means that in Jagan's view, local elections are no longer a simple election where "win, get the post, lose, lose". This is a political experiment to rebuild the party's real fear about the election results? This is where the YSRC's introspection begins. The political blow the party faced after the 2024 assembly elections is not small. The YSRC, which is limited to only 11 assembly seats, now needs to reprove its presence at the village level. That is why the party has won so many sarpanches, MPTCs and ZPTCs in the local body elections. Before that—"How many seats did it contest? How many places did it mobilize its cadre? In how many villages was the party flag seen? This has become crucial for Jagan. If YSRCP candidates are not in the fray in a large number of seats, it is not just an election defeat. It becomes a public sign of the party's institutional weakness. That is why Jagan is putting a brake on unanimity. Why do you say no to unanimity? In general, unanimity is not a rare thing in local politics. There are cases where personal relationships, families, social equations, and local interests in a village come together to prevent competition. But this shows another side to the opposition party. If an election is not held in a village, it is difficult to assess the strength of the party there. If there is no party candidate, the political consciousness of the activists may also decrease. That is not what Jagan wants now. It does not matter if the party loses.. but the party should not withdraw from the struggle seems to be the real idea behind this strategy. But the calculations are different at the field level! This is where the real challenge for Jagan's strategy lies. It is easy to sit in Tadepalli and field a candidate in every village. But who is that candidate? How much strength does he have in the village? Who will bear the election expenses? What is his social equation locally? How strong is the opponent? These are questions that need to be answered at the field level. Where there is no strong candidate, if someone is fielded simply on the party's orders, there is a risk of it becoming a competition even if the result is known in advance. That is where the real test for the YSRCP in-charges lies. Increasing pressure on in-charges? Another important aspect of Jagan's latest directives is the role of assembly constituency in-charges. If the party wants to have a candidate for each seat, the responsibility ultimately falls on the constituency-level leadership. This is easy in areas where the party has a strong leadership. But in areas where the party is weak, everything from finding candidates to campaigning and mobilizing workers may fall on the shoulders of the in-charges. This is likely to become a key point in the internal debate of the YSRCP. Should the party be sustained? Or should it accept the local adjustments? This is the real conflict. What Jagan wants is "existence" rather than victory." Jagan is not saying that YSRCP will win every seat in this election. But he is clearly saying that there should be competition everywhere. "It is clear that the strategy of competition in every seat is to bring the party cadre back into election mode. This is a risk from a political point of view. Because if the party contests with strong candidates and loses, it can claim it as a political struggle. But if it faces a series of defeats by fielding weak candidates, there is a possibility that the opponents will use it to campaign that YSRCP has weakened at the grass roots level. That is why the path chosen by Jagan is like a double-edged sword. This is a key test before 2029. Seeing the local body elections as just panchayat elections would be an underestimation of Jagan's strategy. There is still time for the 2029 assembly elections. But a party cannot be built on the eve of the elections. Village-level activists, booth-level network, local leadership, continuous contact with the people - all these are a process of years. That is why it can be said that Jagan is trying to make the party active at the village level from now on. If the YSRCP wins the local elections - the message will be sent that "the party is resurgent". If the party contests but loses heavily - the opponents' campaign that "the cadre has weakened" will gain strength. This is the real political significance of this election. "YCP's introspection... revolves around one question" That is why the current infighting in the YSRCP is not just about the distribution of posts. "Is the YSRCP worker still ready to fight if Jagan calls?" is the real question. Jagan now wants to know the answer to that question through the local body elections. Blocking consensus, fielding a candidate everywhere, campaigning door-to-door, and giving recognition to the village-level cadre - all these seem to be parts of the same strategy. However, giving orders in politics is one thing. Implementing them at the village level is another. What Jagan needs now is not the number of candidates. Not the number of candidates who win, not the number of cadres. But a cadre who fights. Not meetings in party offices. But the political movement seen in the villages. That is why the local body elections are crucial for the YSRCP. This is not an election. "This is a political rebirth test for the YSRCP. Will Jagan's strategy stand the test of time? Or will the ground realities question that strategy? The upcoming local battle will decide

Warangal MP Kadriyam Kavya Submitting a Representation to State Minister And In-Charge Minister For The Undivided Warangal District Ponguleti Srinivas Reddy, Requesting Measures To Allocate Railway Land for the construction of the new Kazipet Bus Station

Direct Voice Bureau
Chief Warangal August

26“Benefits of constructing the new bus station at the Kazipet Railway Stadium: The Kazipet Junction (Chourasta), which has not seen expansion for years, will be widened. The long-standing grievances of small-scale vendors will be resolved. The Railways will generate additional revenue through a commercial complex. The Kazipet Junction area will be beautified to serve as a welcoming gateway to Warangal city. Situated very close to the Kazipet Junction premises, the bus station at the railway stadium will attract a large number of passengers arriving via the many trains stopping at Kazipet. The YSR Nagar site should remain a residential colony (YSR Nagar Colony). Constructing a bus station there would make it inconvenient for passengers; after alighting at the railway station and crossing the junction, they would find it difficult to reach the YSR Nagar site and would likely resort to auto-rickshaws or private vehicles instead. If passenger footfall drops as a result, operating the bus station would become difficult for the RTC. The bus station project should not be linked to the YSR Nagar site; instead, the authorities should support the current residents by constructing and providing 'double-bedroom' houses for them at that very location. The 100-bed hospital sanctioned for Kazipet should be constructed on the remaining land. Building a large hospital here would make healthcare easily accessible to thousands of people from Kazipet and the surrounding villages. "This has been the motto of journalism since then.

Singareni Accelerates Focus on Critical Minerals Inspired by Naini, Focus Shifts to Devadurg Deputy Chief Minister Bhatti Vikramarka

Nathari Venkatesh State Bureau Chief Hyderabad August 26 Deputy Chief Minister Bhatti Vikramarka has directed Singareni officials to expedite exploration activities in the Devadurg gold and copper mineral block in Karnataka. On Wednesday, the Deputy Chief Minister held a high-level review meeting with senior Singareni officials at Mahatma Jyoti rao Phule Praja Bhavan on the company's new projects and future expansion plans. The meeting focused particularly on the Devadurg gold and copper exploration block secured by Singareni in Karnataka. Singareni CMD Dr. Buddhi Prakash Jyoti, Directors Suryanarayana, Venkateshwarlu and Tirumala Rao, and other senior officials participated in the meeting. The Deputy Chief Minister said he would visit the Devadurg block on Thursday along with senior Singareni officials to personally assess the ground realities and the progress of exploration activities. He said Singareni would seek the full cooperation of the Karnataka government in securing the necessary permissions, infrastructure and other support required for mineral exploration. He stated that successfully taking forward the Devadurg project would lay a strong foundation for Singareni's expansion from coal into the critical and strategic minerals sector. Bhatti Vikramarka emphasized that Singareni, with its long-standing experience in the mining sector, should no longer remain confined to coal mining and must expand into the exploration and mining of critical and strategic minerals. He assured that the Telangana government would extend all possible support in this endeavour. He said the objective of the Praja Prabhutva was to transform Singareni, a public sector enterprise that is the backbone of Telangana, into a more profitable and stronger organization that can be handed over as a robust institution to future generations. "Special Focus on Devadurg" The Deputy Chief Minister sought details from officials about the work undertaken so far in the Devadurg gold and copper mineral block, its geological conditions and the next steps required for assessing mineral deposits. He directed officials to prepare a comprehensive action plan to accelerate the exploration process. To personally understand the conditions and challenges at the ground level, he will visit the Devadurg block on Thursday along with a team of senior Singareni officials. He said discussions would also be held with the Karnataka government regarding the support required to speed up mineral exploration.

"Bhatti Vikramarka directed officials to transform the Devadurg block into a key opportunity for Singareni's expansion into the critical minerals sector. Participate in All Mineral Auctions. Bhatti Vikramarka instructed Singareni to expand its operations not only within the country but also at the international level. He directed officials to continuously monitor coal and critical mineral auctions being conducted at the national and international levels and make use of every opportunity beneficial to Singareni. He said Singareni should no longer restrict itself to coal mining but should establish a strong presence in the mining of other minerals as well. With mineral blocks containing critical resources such as vanadium and titanium likely to be put up for auction soon, he directed officials to prepare a comprehensive strategy well in advance to secure such blocks. He reiterated that the Praja Prabhutva would provide all necessary support for these efforts. In view of the rapid changes taking place globally in the energy and industrial sectors, the Deputy Chief Minister called upon Singareni to explore mining opportunities for critical minerals such as copper, graphite, lithium and cobalt. He said the company should identify new opportunities keeping in mind the growing importance of these minerals in the future. He said international consultants had been appointed to study mineral opportunities in countries including South Africa, Brazil, Australia and Chile. He directed officials to examine opportunities emerging internationally and move forward on projects that would be beneficial to Singareni. Coal Production to Match Demand. While expanding into the critical minerals sector, the Deputy Chief Minister stressed that special attention should continue to be given to coal production, which remains Singareni's core business. "With electricity demand increasing due to the impact of El Niño, he directed officials to take steps to increase coal production in line with demand. He said the prevailing drought-like conditions in the state had further increased the importance of electricity and energy security, and that Singareni should play a crucial role in this regard. Deputy Chief Minister Bhatti Vikramarka directed officials to move ahead with a robust action plan to transform Singareni into one of the country's leading organizations in the critical minerals sector while continuing to leverage its expertise in coal production.

Grand Birthday Celebrations for DCC Program Implementation Committee Chairman Pingili Venkatram Narasimha Reddy Food Donation to Orphaned Children and Cake-Cutting at the DCC President's Residence

Ch. Abhinay Bureau Chief Warangal August 26 The birthday celebrations of Pingili Venkatram Narasimha Reddy Chairman of the Hanumakonda District Kisan Congress and the DCC Program Implementation Committee were held in Hanumakonda on Wednesday. To mark the occasion, a food donation program was organized for the children at the 'Mallikamba Institute for the Mentally Handicapped and Disabled' in Balasamudram. Hanumakonda District Congress Committee President Inagala Venkatram Reddy attended the event as the chief guest and personally served food to the children. Subsequently, a grand birthday celebration was held at Inagala Venkatram Reddy's residence, where Pingili Venkatram Narasimha Reddy cut the cake

amidst Congress party members. Speaking on the occasion, Inagala Venkatram Reddy expressed his wish that Pingili Venkatram Narasimha Reddy would attain higher positions and enjoy a long, healthy life. He remarked that it was a pleasure to celebrate the birthday with party members while also engaging in charitable activities. Earlier, marking the occasion of his birthday, he visited the historic Bhadrakali Temple in Hanumakonda and performed special prayers. Congress party division presidents, mandal presidents, and leaders of affiliated organizations from the Wardhannapet constituency participated in the celebrations, extending birthday greetings to Pingili Venkatram Narasimha Reddy by presenting him with floral garlands and shawls.

Not Just Planting, But Nurturing Plants is Crucial: DSP Arun Kumar

Soma Giri Prasad Bureau Chief Bhadrachalam August 26 "With the aim of transforming Bhadrachalam town into a lush green landscape, a tree-planting drive was held on Wednesday at the Bhadrachalam Police Station premises under the aegis of 'Green Bhadrachalam'. Bhadrachalam DSP M. Arun Kumar and CI M. Nagaraju participated in planting the saplings. Speaking on the occasion, DSP Arun Kumar stated that environmental protection is everyone's responsibility. He noted that greenery expands only when plants are nurtured continuously after being planted. He urged everyone to extend their cooperation to the green initiatives undertaken by Green Bhadrachalam.

dri to transform Bhadrachalam into a green city." Members of Green Bhadrachalam emphasized that planting saplings should not be viewed merely as a one-time event, but that their care should be treated as an ongoing responsibility. They announced plans to organize further programs involving the public to enhance greenery across various parts of the town. The event was attended by Green Bhadrachalam President R. Ramakrishna Reddy, Secretary Ranjith Naik, Treasurer Uppada Ram Prasad Reddy, former President Dr. Golla Bhupathi Rao, Legal Advisor Pamaraju Thirumala Rao, Women's Secretary Savitri, and SI Ramakrishna, along with police personnel and Green Bhadrachalam members. During this event, held with the message "Every citizen must plant a sapling and safeguard the future," the organizers urged people to plant and nurture saplings. They called upon everyone to participate in building a green Bhadrachalam.

Collector Asked to Publish White Paper on 22-A Lands in Mulugu

Ch Abhinay Bureau Chief Warangal August 26: Advocate Shyam Prasad seeks survey-number-wise disclosure; alleges private properties included without proper verification. Advocate Bajar Shyam Prasad (Patel) has urged the Mulugu District Collector to publish a comprehensive White Paper on lands included in the prohibited properties list under Section 22-A of the Registration Act in the district. Shyam Prasad said the administration should disclose the total number of survey numbers included in the 22-A list, the specific legal provision invoked in each case and the documentary evidence relied upon while placing the properties under prohibition. "He alleged that some private properties may have been included in the prohibited list without proper verification of the original land records. He questioned whether the concerned Revenue authorities had thoroughly examined the complete chain of records, including Survey and Settlement records, Sethwar, ceiling proceedings, final orders, possession records, ROR/1-B and Pahani/Adangal, before recommending the inclusion of any property in the list. Final ceiling orders must be reflected in revenue records. The Advocate pointed out that in certain cases, ceiling proceedings had already reached their final stage through orders or judgments, but subsequent revenue records were allegedly not brought into conformity with those determinations.

He said the lands associated with Md. Omar Khan and T.V.K. Shastri in Mulugu district require particular scrutiny in this regard. If a competent authority has finally determined the status of a land in ceiling proceedings, the subsequent revenue records must be reconciled with that determination. A contradiction between final orders and revenue records cannot subsequently become a ground for restricting the owner's right to deal with the property," he said. Government must establish legal basis for its claim. Shyam Prasad said that wherever the Government claims a property as Government land, the authorities should clearly establish the source of Government title, the statutory authority under which the land was acquired, the proceedings through which it was taken into Government possession and the supporting documentary evidence. Merely describing a property as Government land in a revenue record cannot substitute for establishing the legal basis of the Government's claim, particularly where final orders or judgments concerning the land al-context of Article 300-A of the Constitution of India, which protects the right to property. "Survey-number-wise dis-

proceedings, final judgments and orders, ROR/1-B, Pahani/Adangal, Government possession records, current rev-

ready exist," he said. Landowners caught between Revenue and Registration Departments. He said landowners whose properties figure in the 22-A list are facing considerable difficulties when they approach the Registration Department. While Registration authorities insist on Revenue clearance or an NOC, Revenue authorities, in several instances, allegedly fail to provide a clear and reasoned determination regarding the actual status of the property. "This has created a situation in which genuine landowners are unable to sell, register, mortgage or otherwise deal with their properties. Citizens are being caught between the Revenue and Registration Departments," Shyam Prasad said. He added that restricting a person's ability to deal with his property without proper statutory authority raises serious concerns in the closure sought. The proposed White Paper, he said, should include: "Total number of properties included in the 22-A list; Village-wise and mandal-wise details; Classification of each property; Specific provision of Section 22-A invoked; Government Orders and proceedings supporting the inclusion; Ceiling case numbers and final orders, wherever applicable; Details of Government possession, wherever claimed; "Revenue records relied upon Number of private properties included in the list; Applications received for deletion from the 22-A list; Applications allowed, rejected and pending; and "Reasons for rejection or continued prohibition. Comprehensive reconciliation of land records demanded. Shyam Prasad called for a district-wide reconciliation of Survey and Settlement records, Sethwar, ceiling proceedings, final judgments and orders, ROR/1-B, Pahani/Adangal, Government possession records, current revue records and the 22-A prohibited properties list. "He demanded that properties lacking a valid statutory basis for prohibition be reviewed and, wherever legally warranted, removed from the prohibited list. "The people have a right to know how many properties are included in the 22-A list, why they are there, under which provision of law they were included, who authorized their inclusion and what documentary evidence supports the decision," he said. Shyam Prasad, urged the Mulugu District Collector to publish the proposed White Paper and undertake a transparent, survey-number-wise verification of the entire 22-A list, ensuring that genuine Government lands are protected while safeguarding the lawful property rights of private landowners. By advocate, B. Shyam Prasad

Mahabubabad FAC DD Desiram, who is deputing subject teachers in agency area schools, should be suspended

Bureau Chief Mulugu August 26 "The subject teachers who should be working for the future of students in the agency area mandals of Kothaguda, Gudur and Gangaram mandals of Mahabubabad district, who are supposed to work in the welfare schools of Kamaram, PG HM, English, Telugu, Madagudem, Kothaguda HWO, Kothaguda Girls Sadhiredy Palli, Sitanagar, Mattewada and Garla, were illegally deputed and why such deputations were made? FAC DD Desiram was questioned and said that as per the orders of Panchayat Raj Minister Varyulu Seethakka, deputations were given from the agency area to the plain area schools. Did the minister really say that Desiram, who is evading the answer, should be investigated and how the minister sent the teachers of this school on deputation should be clarified? Otherwise, it is necessary to know whether Desiram is playing tricks using the minister's name. If that is true, then what is the future of the students here? Agaboyna Ravi, working president of the Adivasi Rights Struggle Committee, demanded. LHPS State General Secretary Tejawat Vasu Naik, District President Boda Ramesh Naik, Tudungbe leaders, Koppula Somaiya, Alem Jampaiah, Eka Vijay Kumar, and Siddaboyna Lakshminarayana participated in the press conference organized in the premises of the Kothaguda Gram Panchayat.

Constable Dileep Saves a Life Constable Demonstrates Humanity in Epur Village

Warangal Bureau Chief – August 26: In Epur village, Gudur Mandal, Mahabubabad district, a young woman with a disability accidentally fell into a well. Constable Dileep, who happened to be passing by, learned of the incident and without a moment's hesitation or regard for his own safety climbed into the well. Displaying great courage and bravery, he reached the young woman, who was deep inside, and brought her out safely with the help of ropes. His timely response and skillful actions succeeded in saving a life. Villagers praised Constable Dileep for his courage, presence of mind, and humanity. Many commended him for stepping forward to rescue a person in distress, disregarding the risk to his own life.

MCR TMS Gets 600 OP Patients After Inauguration; EC Clears NIMS Tariffs For TMS, Infrastructure...

HYDERABAD: With the Dr Marri Chenna Reddy Telangana Institute of Medical Sciences (Tims) at Sanathnagar receiving an average of 600 out-patients a day, its executive council, at its first meeting on Tuesday, approved a series of measures to strengthen hospital services, standardise tariffs and improve infrastructure. At the meeting, Dr MCR Tims director Dr A. Narendra Kumar briefed health minister Damodar Rajanarsimha on the functioning of the institute. The executive council approved the adoption of service rules of the Nizam's Institute for Medical Sciences (Nims) for recruitment of doctors and staff. It also gave its nod to implementing the existing NIMS tariff structure at Tims, bringing uniformity in the charging structure between the two major state-run medical institutions and facilitate better financial planning. The council also approved arrangements for banking services to enable financial transactions of Tims-Sanathnagar to be managed through a trust and retention account (TRA). The hospital was preparing to commence surgeries after completing the sterilisation process of its ICUs, operation theatres, diagnostic equipment and other critical medical equipment. Dr Kumar informed the minister that surgeries would begin once the remaining sterilisation-related process was completed. To improve facilities for patients, attendants and staff, the executive council approved several infrastructure proposals, including a multi-level car parking facility and an additional toilet complex for patient attendants. The council also approved construction of hostels for postgraduate students, following the government's decision to start a PG college on the lines of the one at Nims. Health department principal secretary Dr Christina Z. Chongthu, TGM-SIDC MD Dr Gaurav Uppal, medical education director Dr A. Vani, public health director Dr Ravinder Nayak and Nims director Dr Rahul Devaraj attended the meeting.

Make The Dharna Demanding The Declaration Of PRC A Success

Direct voice Bureau Chief Bhadradi August 26: The leaders of the United Front have requested that the dharna to be held on the 27th of this month demanding the declaration of PRC for employees, teachers and pensioners should be declared a success. A press conference was organized at the TSUT district office under the auspices of TGEJAC on Tuesday. TGEJAC Chairman Amaraneni Rama Rao and Convener Sangam Venkata Pullaiah said that many legal issues related to employees are pending, mainly the Pay Revision Committee report due from 01-07-2023 should be brought and the PRC should be declared, the six pending DAs should be declared immediately the pending bills related to employees should be paid, the contributory pension scheme should be cancelled for employees and the old pension scheme should be continued. He said that the protest program will continue until the PRC is announced, and a large-scale dharna will be held in Hyderabad on the 10th of next month. Similarly, he said that all employed teachers and workers will attend duty wearing black badges from the 27th of this month in protest until the PRC is announced. He said that the PRC should be announced once every five years, and the central government should announce DA and DR once every six months. He said that among his election promises, he mainly promised to cancel the CPS for employees and continue the old pension system, but he did not keep the promise. Similarly, he asked for appropriate steps to be taken so that the health cards related to jobs are implemented properly. He asked for the release of Rs 2000 crore every month for the pending bills and payments related to employees. Along with these issues, all other pending issues were also asked to be resolved. State Secretary B. Raju, TSUT District General Secretary M Venkateshwarlu, S Venkateshwarlu, PRTU TS District General Secretary CH Prabhakar Rao, PRTU TG District Presidents B. Ravi, B Seetharamulu, Pensioners Association District President EGR Wesley, TRTF District President G

Durgayya, TSSTF District General Secretary S Balakrishna, TNGO Town President Vijayalakshmi, TNGO Vice President G Usha, Class IV Employees Association President Dinesh, Drivers Association President Srinivasa Rao, Revenue Association President Bhagavan Reddy, JL Association President Bandi Venkateshwarlu, TGO officials Murthy, Rajesh and other association leaders participated in this meeting.

Real Estate Interests Have Consumed The People Formed By The Government To Protect Them.

Direct Voice State Bureau Chief Hyderabad August 26 : Encroachment of tanks, canals and government lands in Hyderabad is not a new thing. For decades, political patronage, negligence of officials, and real estate interests have consumed the people formed by the government to protect them. The objective of HYDRA is necessary. But no matter how noble an organization is formed with an objective, it is not above the law. No one has the authority to trample on the rights of citizens in the name of public interest. Encroachments must be removed not citizens' rights. The Telangana High Court's strong comments on the demolition of a compound wall and watchman's room on a private land plot in Kondapur should be seen as a warning to the government. The land belonging to the petitioner is in survey number 60, while the government land is in survey number 59, the revenue officials told the court. Justice N.V. Shraavan Kumar questioned how the demolition could have been carried out without first conducting a physical survey and giving notice. What is even more worrying is the apparent inconsistency between government departments. While Hyderabad had earlier claimed that it had taken action on the orders of the Tahsildar, the Tahsildar clarified to the court that he had not given any such demolition orders. He explained that there was information that the police had sought protection for the removal of some structures in Survey No. 59, which is on government land. "Here begins the real question. On whose orders was it demolished? What records were examined? Who conducted the survey? Why was the citizen not given a chance to voice his case? Government lands, ponds and canals must be protected. No matter how influential the encroachment is, action should not be taken. But if the authorities enter into lawful private property in the name of removing encroachment, it becomes another type of encroachment. The High Court also reminded that minimum notice and legal process must be followed in the case of government land. This is not the first time that this has happened. On August 13, in another Hyderabad case, the High Court expressed strong objection to the demolitions being carried out without proper official evidence and notices, questioning whether Hyderabad was acting like a parallel government. The government should not view these series of legal interventions as political criticism but as an opportunity to rectify the shortcomings in the administrative system. Due process in a democracy is not a technical term. It is a shield that protects the citizen from abuse of power. Giving notice in advance, examining records, conducting a survey, hearing the victim's argument, and then making a reasoned decision are not obstacles that hinder the government. These are what give legitimacy to government action. Another important issue here is accountability, if an illegal construction is done, action will be taken against the person who built it. And if it is found that a citizen's property has been illeg ally demolished, who is responsible? If the government pays the compensation, ultimately that money will come from the people's taxes. If the wrongdoing official is not held personally responsible, such actions will continue to be repeated. That's why the government has a clear Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) for Hyderabad demolitions. "Before demolishing any structure, except in emergency situations, it should be mandatory to have a verification of land records, physical survey, joint verification of the concerned departments, written notice, opportunity for objections, and final order with reasons. There should be a digital record of every action. In case of wrongful demolition, action should be taken against the responsible along with a system of providing speedy compensation. Hyderabad should not be weakened; it should be strengthened in a more legal, transparent, and credible manner. Protecting the ponds is in the public interest. It is the government's responsibility to protect government lands. At the same time, it is also the government's responsibility to protect the property, honor, and due process of the citizen. The bulldozer may work fast. But it must be stopped according to the rules of the day, law, and the principles of service. But above all, it must be recognized that there are limits to power. There must be notice before the bulldozer. There must be a constitution before power. It must move. Encroachments must be demolished. Illegality

The Internal Crisis In The Ruling Congress Is Getting Worse Yamsani Srinivas- Senior Journalist

The internal crisis in the ruling Congress is getting worse. No matter which joint district you look at, internal disputes in the Congress party are getting worse and worse day by day. Chief Minister Revanth Reddy, who went on a foreign tour, has ended his tour half-heartedly and hastily reached Hyderabad. The political fire that was lit in the streets before his foreign tour is burning like a fire. The way Minister Konda Surekha's daughter Sushmita lashed out at Chief Minister Revanth Reddy and MLA Revuri Prakash Reddy is showing a preview of how the seats in the Congress are going to be divided. The diaper language she used is disgusting. The way the Congress women leaders lashed out at her in response is not the same as speaking to their own party members, it is even worse. In a way, Warangal joint Internal weaknesses, money-making politics, and the education that the Congress party has been given with butter, seem to be getting old and stale. On the one hand, the Congress party is unable to fulfill the promises it has made, on the other hand, there is dissatisfaction with the half-implementation, the state of stopping some, and the lack of funds is becoming a curse for the party, and on the other hand, there is a growing impatience among the Congress leaders. "The district appears to be divided between the Congress Konda faction and the rival factions. Meanwhile, the Congress factional fight has escalated in Palamuru district and senior Congress leader Chinna Reddy has expressed his displeasure openly. His rival Megha Reddy has met the Congress high command and complained against Chinna Reddy. Recently, the former minister Jeevan Reddy faction in Karimnagar district has joined the BRS. Chinna Reddy has announced that he will follow the same path. In Nalgonda district too, there is no coordination between any MLA and minister. Komatireddy Rajagopal Reddy who is aspiring for the ministerial post, is throwing stones and pepper at Chief Minister Revanth Reddy. While the Komatireddy Brothers, Janareddy Sons, Uttam Kumar Reddy couple, Venkataswamy family, Kadiyam Srihari family, Mallu brothers and more than half a dozen families are already sitting on double-decker seats in the Congress, the greedy attempts to bring the wives, sons and daughters of the current ministers into the fray have come to naught. The leaders are busy finding the depths of the power gap. There is no proper reconciliation even between the MPs and MLAs. For the last three years, the activists have been in despair and despair at the stage of filling up the nominated posts. The postponement of local body elections is increasing the impatience among the activists. Wherever you look, any wobble in the Congress has become a headache for the leadership. Meanwhile, on the one hand, internal conflicts are getting worse, on the other hand, even though the three-year rule is coming to an end, the lack of experience is striking, as the ministerial portfolios have not been taken into account. Except for one or two departments, the performance of any department is not satisfactory. The decision-making process in the departments of Revenue Minister Srinivasa Reddy has been controversial from the beginning. It will be. His failure with the 22A issue has clearly come to light. There is no end to the cycle of corruption allegations against the finance department. The recent public accusation made by a retired employee is shocking. On the other hand, dissatisfaction has come out over the selection of drivers in the transport department. Ministers of some departments are confined to Hyderabad except for occasionally rushing around in their own constituencies. Even in the education department, which is supervised by the Chief Minister himself, words are crossed but actions are not. Hyderabad has also fallen into crisis due to the High Court's insistence. Farmers continue to face shortage of fertilizers. On the other hand, crops are suffering due to the effects of El Nino. The irrigation water problem has become unsolvable. With groundwater levels eroding, there are signs of danger even for drinking water. There is no control over governance. In some departments, officials have become a kingdom of their own. Despite all these problems, it seems that politics for positions and even higher positions in the ruling Congress has fallen into a trap. The politics of profiting from internal weaknesses is a lesson for the Congress party. Therefore, the political environment seems to be getting old and stale. On the one hand, the Congress party is unable to fulfill the promises it has made, on the other hand, there is dissatisfaction with the half-implementation, the state of stopping some, and the lack of funds are becoming a curse for the party, while on the other hand, it seems that the Congress leaders are becoming impatient. Boredom, interruptions, meaningless and meaningless words, and language experiments are arising from that frustration. Diversion politics is over. The developments are changing towards perversion. There is no atmosphere for newly emerged parties and organizations to share the negative vote. People are getting tired of such experiments. The situation where the unemployed, workers, farmers, employees, and retired employees are not very satisfied is questioning the future of the party. The state is not able to receive even the developments that are favorable to the Congress at the Center. The internal crisis and governance failures within the ruling party have become a source of embarrassment for the opposition parties. Even if the leadership changes hands, there is no point in enduring it except to push the situation to the brink of further collapse. There is no time to recover. "The election campaign is already winding down. The results will depend on whether the Congress can satisfy the people in the remaining two years and remove internal uncertainty in the Congress. Once again, the weakness of the Congress in Telangana is approaching a point where it can strengthen the opposition. If that happens, then the future of the Congress in Telangana is in doubt!?"

We Pray For Peace For Vaishnav Viswanath's Soul And Extend Our Deepest Condolences To His Family Members

Direct Voice Bureau Chief Warangal August 26. The district's sports community pays tribute to the late Vaishnav Viswanath, a talented young cricketer from our district who brought honor to Orugallu cricket through his exceptional skills while representing Kakatiya University and Warangal district. He had earned great acclaim and was selected for the 'Warangal Warriors' team; tragically, he passed away after meeting with an accident while en route to the Rajiv Gandhi International Cricket Stadium in Hyderabad to participate in state-level cricket competitions. We pray for peace for Vaishnav Viswanath's soul and extend our deepest condolences to his family members.

GITAM Scholar Awarded Ph.D. for Research in Smartphone Cybersecurity - Dr. Koka Vijay

Dayyala Rakesh Bhanu
Direct Voice State Bureau Chief Hyderabad
August 26: GITAM Deemed to be University, Hyderabad, congratulated Dr. Koka Vijay on being awarded the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) in Computer Science and Engineering for his research on smartphone cybersecurity. Dr. Vijay conducted his doctoral research under the guidance of Dr. M. Kireet Muppavaram, Assistant Professor, School of Computer Science and Systems Engineering, GITAM Hyderabad. His thesis, titled "Adaptive Framework for Detecting and Mitigating Post-Installation Cyber Attacks on Smartphones," focuses on strengthening Android smartphone security against emerging threats that occur after application installation. "The research developed an adaptive security framework combining behavioral monitoring, machine learning and risk-based response mechanisms to detect threats such as fake applications, Man-in-the-Disk attacks, repackaging, privilege escalation and UI spoofing in real time. The proposed methods achieved 95.83% accuracy in fake-app detection and 97.33% in MitD attack detection, while the Dynamic Security Assessment Framework recorded 94.7% detection accuracy and significantly reduced successful post-installation attacks. "The research was validated using benchmark datasets and demonstrated improved

Come In Your Thousands For The Adivasi March At The Eturunagaram ITDA Center On September 7 Siddhaboyina Lakshminarayana, National General Secretary, Tudumdebba

Dayyala Rakesh Bhanu
State Bureau Hyderabad
August 26. Adivasi unemployed youth, step away from the libraries for one day and fight for your jobs. Siddhaboyina Lakshminarayana, National General Secretary of ASU-Tudumdebba, unveiled a poster and pamphlet at Kakatiya University. The launch took place at the university's main gate to mobilize support for the massive "Adivasi March" program, organized by the Adivasi Porata Samithi State Committee across ITDA centers in the state. Tudumdebba announced that the Adivasi Marches would be held at Eturunagaram (September 7), Utnoor (September 16), Bhadrachalam (September 21), and Mannanur (September 28). Speaking on the occasion, the speaker remarked that the survival of Adivasis in the state has become increasingly precarious; despite numerous rallies and public meetings held to highlight their grievances, the state government remains completely indifferent to the plight of Adivasis. Consequently, a call has been issued for state-wide movements to intensify the struggle. Key demands include: appointing a special commission to remove the Lambadas who have been usurping Adivasi reservation benefits for 50 years (1976-2026) from the Scheduled Tribe (ST) list; enacting a special law based on the Tribal Advisory Committee's resolution regarding Government Orders (GOs) for 29 departments in Fifth Schedule areas; ensuring that recruitment, promotions, and transfers are handled exclusively through the ITDA; allocating a 75% quota for Adivasis in constable posts and establishing an 'Agency DSC' for this purpose; and ensuring that recruitment for unemployed youth is conducted solely through the ITDA. An appeal was made for unemployed youth to participate in large numbers.

Nagarjuna releases trailer of Allari Naresh-starrer 'Ramba Oorvasi Menaka'

Telugu star Nagarjuna unveiled the trailer of Chandra Mohan Chintada's fantasy comedy Ramba Oorvasi Menaka, starring Allari Naresh, under Annapurna Studios. Slated for release on September 4, the film promises a quirky mix of mythology, humour, and whimsical fun.

Hyderabad: Telugu star Nagarjuna has now released the trailer of director Chandra Mohan Chintada's eagerly awaited comedy entertainer 'Ramba Oorvasi Menaka', featuring actor Allari Naresh in the lead, much to the delight of fans and film buffs. Exploring

Taking to his X timeline to release the trailer of the hilarious comedy entertainer, Nagarjuna wrote, "From EVV Satyanarayana garu to dear-est allarinaresh, this bond is truly close to my heart. So happy to collaborate with Naresh once again under the Annapurnastdious banner! Best wishes to the team of #RambaOorvasiMenaka. A complete laughter riot arriving in theatres on September 4th!"

For the unaware, Allari Naresh is back in a space that has long been synonymous with his brand of entertainment with his upcoming fantasy comedy 'Ramba Oorvasi Menaka'. Directed by Chandra Mohan Chintada and produced by Razesh Danda and Nimmakayala Prasad under Annapurna Studios and Hasya Movies, 'Ramba Oorvasi Menaka' is slated to hit screens on September 4.

The film promises a quirky mix of mythology, rural humour and whimsical fun, with the trailer unveiled by King Nagarjuna offering a glimpse into its unusual world.

Ramba, Oorvasi and Menaka descend on earth after years of prayers from the protagonist, Suri (Allari Naresh). However, the three celestial beauties arrive without their divine powers, turning their presence into a major problem for him. With a series of unexpected challenges piling up, Suri remains determined to face everything thrown his way by Lord Indra. Matters get even more chaotic with his girlfriend scolding him over the three apsaras living in his house, the police questioning him, and his mother fighting for her life in the hospital.

Allari Naresh seems to be undoubtedly the biggest highlight of the film, with his impeccable comic timing, energetic performance, and effortless dialogue delivery. He appears completely in his element, bringing the right mix of innocence, and humour to his character. Surabhi plays the female lead, while Vennela Kishore adds to the fun with his lively portrayal of Indra. Rashi Singh, Vishnupriya, and Prisha Singh portray the three celestial beauties and look apt in their respective roles.

If the trailer is any indication, the film seems to be a colourful and unconventional fantasy comedy, with Allari Naresh once again returning to the genre where his comic strengths are at their best.

On the technical front, the film has cinematography by Raam Reddy and production design by Brahma Kadali. Chaitan Bharadwaj has scored the music for this film, which has Chota K Prasad taking care of the editing.

Mamitha Baiju Stuns in a Classic Saree Look

Her hair is neatly tied back with jasmine flowers, complemented by a delicate gold necklace, earrings, green bangles, and a red bindi. Her bright smile lights up the frame.

In this elegant portrait, Malayalam and Tamil actress Mamitha Baiju radiates warmth and charm. She wears a rich emerald-green saree with intricate gold borders, paired with a vibrant purple blouse featuring puffed sleeves. Her hair is neatly tied back with jasmine flowers, complemented by a delicate gold necklace, earrings, green bangles, and a red bindi. Her bright smile lights up the frame.

Born on 22 June 2001 in Kidangoor, Kottayam, Kerala, Mamitha began as a child artist in Paavada (2016) and made her official debut with Sarvopari Palakkaran (2017). She gained critical notice with Kho Kho (2021) and Super Sharanya (2022). Her breakthrough came with the lead role of Reenu in the 2024 romantic comedy Premalu, which became one of the highest-grossing Malayalam films of all time.

What Is So Special About Romanchakam for Vanga Brothers?

There is an interesting buzz around the upcoming Telugu film Romanchakam. The movie is being presented by filmmaker Sandeep Reddy Vanga and produced by his brother Pranay Reddy Vanga under the Bhadrakali Pictures banner. Their involvement has naturally made many movie lovers curious about the project.

Sandeep Reddy Vanga is known for making films in a different style. With Arjun Reddy, he created a strong impact and started a new trend in Telugu cinema. His films received wide attention for their unique stories and bold presentation. So, when a filmmaker like Sandeep supports a film directed by someone else, people naturally wonder what is special about that project.

This is also the first time Sandeep Reddy Vanga is supporting a film outside his own direction. His brother Pranay Reddy Vanga is also actively promoting Romanchakam. The strong support from both brothers has increased interest among movie fans. Many are now expecting the film to offer something entertaining and different.

Unlike a huge commercial project, Romanchakam is a young buddy comedy. The movie mainly depends on its story, comedy, characters and performances. Sumanth Prabhaskar and Ananthika Sanilkumar are playing the lead roles. The cast also features Upendra Limaye, Venkatesh Kakumanu, Narendra Ravi, Mani and Sohan in important roles. Venugopal Reddy has written and directed the film.

Pranay Reddy Vanga recently revealed how the movie came together. According to him, Venugopal first narrated the story around 15 months ago. The director explained the complete story in a funny way and even acted out different characters while narrating it. This made the narration interesting and impressed the team. The makers also spent around three months rehearsing with the actors.

With the Vanga brothers backing the project and a young cast leading the story, Romanchakam has already created curiosity. Now, audiences are waiting to see what makes this small film special.
