He stated that the government's clear objective is to build a drug-free youth and a drug-free India. He lauded the 'Nasha-Mukt Yuva' (Drug-free Youth) campaign launched by the Central Government and expressed happiness that a large number of people, especially the youth, are participating in it with enthusiasm and active engagement. Drug addiction devours entire families and society," the Prime Minister said, expressing concern. "I applaining why the youth should stay away from country intensifies in everyone's heart during the month of August. Prime Minister Modi stated that the 'Har Ghar Tiranga' campaign has further strengthened this sentiment. "This year has become even more special as we celebrate the 150th anniversary of 'Vande Mataram'. Celebrations involving the tricolour were not limited to India alone; this year, through the 'Suryapath Tiranga' initiative, our flag undertook a unique journey across the globe," he explained. "Speaking about the 'PM SVANidhi Yojana', the Prime Minister mentioned that the scheme has helped 35 lakh women across the country expand their businesses. He observed that when a woman's business grows, the future of her entire family moves forward along with it.

precipitate those who create awareness against drugs and those who step forward to help individuals battling addiction. Can you create powerful slogans, songs, and short plays that highlight the dangers of drugs while also showing the path to recovery?" the Prime Minister asked. He also urged content creators to produce information and content in various regional languages ??ex- plaining why the youth should stay away from drugs. The Prime Minister recalled how the month of August fills Indians with a sense of patriotism. He noted the significance of this month, which marks occasions such as National Handloom Day, Independence Day, and National Space Day, as well as the anniversaries of the Quit India Movement and the Partition Horrors Remembrance Day. He remarked that love for the

A change in the functioning of Tahsildars and Sub-Registrars is mandatory; the practice of making people run around offices will not be tolerated.

He advised them to examine every land-related application with a positive outlook, resolve issues as quickly as possible, and pay special attention to pending applications. The Minister emphasized that revenue officials bear the responsibility of effectively implementing the 'Bhu Bharati' Actan initiative launched by the state government to resolve long-standing land issues faced by the public for decades. He urged officials to provide services without causing inconvenience to the public while adhering to legal provisions and to work towards boosting public confidence in the revenue system. The Minister made these resolutions pending for days after citizens have submitted them for the resolution of land issues issues, and ensure that anyone visiting a revenue office leaves satisfied. Direct Supervision by Officials During Re-survey. He directed officials to seek an explanation from the concerned Tahsildar regarding this matter. He remarked that keeping ap-is inappropriate; officials must take responsibility for every application and resolve it within the stipulated timeframe. No Room for Practices That Inconvenience the Public. The Minister stated that Tahsildars and Sub-Registrars should address the grievances of the public visiting their offices with a service-oriented mind set. He made it clear that practices such as making people run around for unnecessary documents or procedures, or forcing them to wait for days to resolve even minor issues, must be avoided. The Minister emphasized that officials must remain accessible to the public, resolve their is-

The Threat To The States Himalayas Are Mountains Of Snow Glaciers

The river valleys that provide livelihood to millions of people in the world. But now this same Himalayan region is becoming a center of disasters due to climate change. The ice is melting rapidly. Glaciers are retreating. Newly formed glaciers are swelling. Landslides and avalanches are breaking off. Flash floods are flooding. The recent severe floods on the Nepal-Tibet border have once again put the severity of this danger before the eyes of the world. The ice in the Himalayas is melting. The mountains are becoming unstable. Glacial lakes are growing. The threat of flash floods is expanding. The latest tragedy on the Nepal-Tibet border is not limited to one region. If the Himalayas warm up.. the impact is likely to affect the lives of millions of people from the mountains to the plains.. and from the rivers. Floods in Ramalayas originate in high mountain areas. The first blow is to the river valleys below the glacier. Then the riverside villages, roads, bridges, and hydroelectric projects are affected. Finally, the river flow reaches the lower plains. That is why the danger chain of flood origination must be understood in advance. In India, the floods in the Himalayas are likely to directly affect mainly Sikkim, Arunachal Pradesh, Uttarakhand, Himachal Pradesh, Jammu and Kashmir, and Ladakh. However, as the flood water flows downstream along the rivers, it can also affect the plains states like West Bengal and Assam. Many rivers originating in Tibet enter India. After entering India, the Yarlung Tsangpo flows into the Siangga and then into Assam as the Brahmaputra. On the other hand, rivers like Teesta affect Sikkim and West Bengal. Therefore, flooding in the Himalayas is not a problem limited to the mountainous region. The threat can spread wherever the river flows. The extent of the damage depends on factors such as the size of the flood, the width of the river, the shape of the valley, the population downstream. Bridges, dams, tidal power projects, roads, etc. The water level in the Teesta river rose sharply due to the inundation of South Lonak Lake. In addition to the loss of life in this disaster, bridges, roads, buildings, and power projects were severely damaged. The 1,200 MW Teesta-AAA hydroelectric project was also severely affected. Thousands of people were directly or indirectly affected. More than 200 people lost their lives or went missing in the flash flood in Chamoli. Hydropower projects, roads, bridges, and infrastructure in the river valleys were severely damaged. The message of these two incidents is the same? In addition to the loss of life, there will be a huge impact on power, transport, agriculture, tourism and local economies. Massive floods and mudslides have wreaked havoc in the Nepal-Tibet border area. Initial estimates suggest that the sudden collapse of ice and rocks in the glacier created a huge flow of water. The floods that swept into the Bhote Kosi river valley destroyed villages, roads, bridges and power projects. Hundreds of people lost their lives and a large number of people went missing. Among the missing were foreigners, tourists and pilgrims. Later observations did not support the initial suspicion that an earthquake was the cause of the incident. Experts suggest that the collapse of the glacier, the flow of ice and rocks, and the sudden surge of water in the river combined to cause this disaster. Damaged roads, bridges and communication systems also became a major obstacle to relief efforts. Such disasters have occurred in the Himalayas in the past. In 2021, more than 200 people lost their lives due to avalanches and floods in the Chamoli region of Uttarakhand. In 2023, the South Lonak Lake in Sikkim overflowed and the glacial lake outburst flood caused huge loss of life and property. In 2024, heavy rains in Nepal, Hundreds of people died in floods and landslides. In the same year, a glacial lake outburst flood in the Thame region of Nepal destroyed houses, hotels, a school, and a health center. In 2025, massive floods also caused loss of life and property on the Nepal-Tibet border. The height of the Himalayas varies greatly depending on the region. While the foothills are a few hundred meters high... in the higher Himalayan regions, heights of more than 5,000 to 6,000 meters are common. Peaks like Everest are more than 8,000 meters high. In the Ramalaya states of India, many towns, villages, roads, and hydroelectric projects are located near river valleys. The value of properties affected by disasters is also increasing due to the increase in tourism, expansion of roads, and the increase in construction in hilly areas. When water suddenly flows from a glacier or glacial lake... it is not just water.

PM Modi to hold talks with Uzbekistan President Shavkat Mirziyoyev in Tashkent

Prime Minister Narendra Modi will visit Uzbekistan on Saturday for a two-day bilateral visit at President Shavkat Mirziyoyev's invitation. The two leaders are expected to discuss trade, investment, defence, technology, energy, education and other areas of bilateral cooperation.

New Delhi: Prime Minister Narendra Modi is set to visit Tashkent on Saturday for a two-day bilateral visit at the invitation of Uzbekistan President Shavkat Mirziyoyev.

This will be Prime Minister Modi's fourth visit to Uzbekistan and he is scheduled to hold delegation-level talks with President Mirziyoyev to further strengthen the strategic partnership between the two countries.

According to the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA), the two leaders would review cooperation in trade and investment, defence, digital connectivity, energy, education and people-to-people domains and set the agenda for the road ahead. They will also share perspectives on advancing the shared developmental visions of 'Viksit Bharat 2047' and 'Uzbekistan-2030'.

PM Modi is also expected to visit the Shastri Memorial in Tashkent and the Mahatma Gandhi Centre at the Tashkent State University of Oriental Studies.

This will be PM Modi's fourth visit to Uzbekistan, said Sibi George, Secretary (West) at MEA. He had earlier visited Uzbekistan and other Central Asian countries in 2015, followed by visits in 2016 and 2022 to attend the SCO Summits.

India and Uzbekistan have maintained extensive and fruitful engagements in both bilateral and multilateral formats over the past many years. The Uzbek President visited India for a State Visit in 2018 and also participated in the Vibrant Gujarat Global Summit in 2019. History PM Modi and Mirziyoyev met on the sidelines of COP28 in Dubai in 2023 and also in 2024, on the sidelines of the BRICS Summit in Kazan.

The leaders last met in 2025 on the sidelines of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) summit in Tianjin, China.

Discussions are expected to cover a wide range of areas of mutual interest and identify new avenues for strengthening bilateral cooperation, including trade and investment, critical minerals, healthcare, business-to-business engagement, education, space, technology, culture and people-to-people exchanges.

"This engagement will provide an opportunity to highlight the long-standing cultural ties between India and Uzbekistan, as well as the important role of academic and people-to-people exchange in further strengthening the bilateral relationship," Secretary George noted during a special media briefing on the visit of PM Modi to Uzbekistan and Kyrgyzstan on Thursday.

At the Tashkent State University, Prime Minister Modi will also interact with Indologists and scholars.

"The Prime Minister's visit will reaffirm the close, multi-faceted and growing strategic partnership between India and Uzbekistan," stated Secretary George.

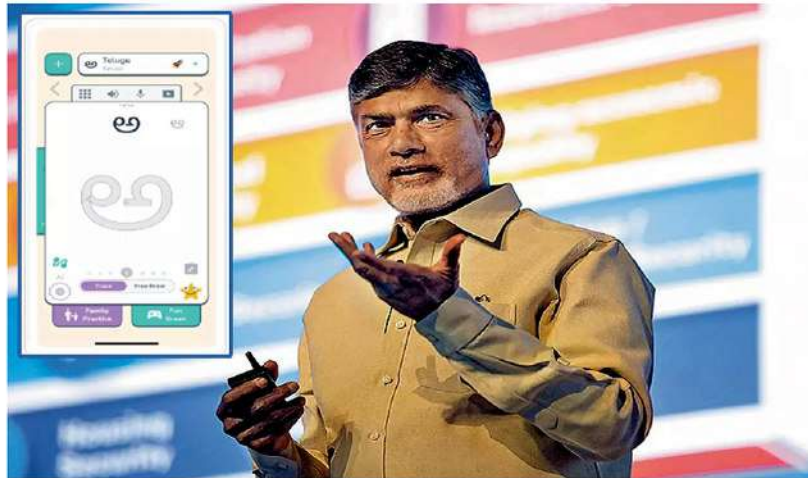

Following the State Visit to Uzbekistan, Prime Minister Modi will travel to Bishkek on August 31 to participate in the 26th SCO Summit. This year marks the 25th anniversary of the SCO and this year's theme is '25 Years of the SCO: Together Towards Sustainable Peace, Development, and Prosperity'.

In May, SCO Secretary General Nurlan Yermekbayev, a former Defence Minister of Kazakhstan, visited India and also the Nalanda University.

The programme elements for the upcoming SCO leadership summit in Bishkek include a welcome dinner on August 31 and the summit plenary the next day, where Prime Minister Modi will deliver his remarks. A number of bilateral engagements are also being planned on the sidelines in Bishkek.

CM Naidu Lauds Language App That Teaches Children To Learn Mother Tongue

Amaravati: On the occasion of Telugu Bhasha Dinotsavam (Telugu Language Day), on Saturday, a new educational app named Coolphabets was launched with the goal of helping children learn to read and write Indian languages, including Telugu. Announcing the launch, Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu recalled the famous words of the Vijayanagara king Sri Krishnadevarayalu - "Desa bhashalandu Telugu lessa" which means among all the languages of the land, Telugu is supreme, noting that the sentiment behind those words remains just as relevant today. He stressed that Telugu must not merely survive in everyday conversation but must stay vibrantly alive in written form, passed down through generations of readers and writers.

Speaking about the need for such an initiative, he observed that today's digital-first generation of children is growing increasingly distant from reading and handwriting in Telugu. He also emphasized that a love for the language and the script must be cultivated from early childhood if the Telugu lipi (script) is to continue shining in the hands of future generations.

"I congratulate Kollu Ranjith, Venkat Yeleti and their team. It is heartening that the app is being released on the occasion of Telugu Language Day. It is delightful that the app has been designed to examine children's handwriting with AI technology and provide necessary guidance. Technology should not distance us from our language... it should bring us closer. Our language, our script is the address of our culture, the identity of our Telugu community. I wish that our Telugu language should shine forever in future generations, the Chief Minister wrote in a message shared on social media

Congress Always Relied on Lies: Ramchander Rao

Hyderabad: Telangana BJP President N Ramchander Rao on Saturday targeted the Congress after Penguin Random House India backed out of publishing Congress Parliamentary Party chairperson Sonia Gandhi's memoir - Belonging: A Journey of Love, saying the publisher's decision to seek a fact-check of certain incidents raises questions over the claims made in the book.

Speaking to ANI, Rao said there had been "a lot of hype" around Sonia Gandhi's memoir, but the publisher's request for fact-checking itself showed that the Congress had "always relied on lies and tried to create stories."

"There has been a lot of hype around the memoir written by Sonia Gandhi. However, the publisher has now requested a fact-check of certain incidents, which itself shows that Congress has always relied on lies and tried to create stories. When an autobiography itself comes under scrutiny and requires fact-checking, the claims made by Congress leaders must definitely be questioned. The readers must also verify for themselves how many lies it contains," Rao said.

BJP National Spokesperson CR Kesavan, speaking in Chennai, also hit out at the Congress over its reaction to the memoir. "Congress leaders attempting to spin stories and fabricate a false narrative of fear over the release of Sonia Gandhi's memoir is not merely ironic; it is glaringly hypocritical," Kesavan said.

He questioned Congress leaders who were claiming that there was fear over the contents of the memoir, asking them to explain why the "Congress First Family" was allegedly "nervous and jittery" about making public 51 carton boxes containing correspondence of former Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

"These Congress leaders should tell their Congress First Family why the Congress First Family is so nervous and jittery that they are not making public the 51 carton boxes of Nehru's correspondence, which also contain Nehru's letters to Edwin Montagu," he said.

PM Modi Must Order Filing of FIR: Rahul on Kharge Purification Row

New Delhi: Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Saturday attacked the BJP-RSS over the 'shuddhikaran' (purification) ceremony carried out at the venue of a rally addressed by AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge in Haldwani earlier this month, saying it was a "crime" and Prime Minister Narendra Modi must order the registration of an FIR in the matter. The Leader of Opposition said this incident shows the BJP-RSS mindset that they do not want the Dalits to progress and live with respect and be successful. "We are demanding justice for the Congress president. Give the Congress president justice in Uttarakhand. It is the duty of the central and state governments to ensure that Kharge gets justice," he said at a press conference here.

Shouldn't BCs be taken into account

he census in India began in 1881 during the reign of Lord Barrippan. Since then, the practice of collecting the population census in the country has been continuing every ten years as per the Census Act of 1948. However, due to the impact of Covid worldwide in 2019, the Indian government was unable to continue the census in 2021. From 1881 to 1931, the British government also conducted a caste-based census as part of the census. However, in the census conducted 7 times from 1951 to 2011 after independence, only the SC and ST population was counted by caste. The majority population of the Other Backward Classes (OBCs) is not counted. There are counts for the forests, wildlife, forests, trees, rivers and water in the country. But, the governments have been ignoring the question of why OBCs are not counted for seven decades. Bowing to the demand from opposition political parties and backward classes to conduct a caste-based census as part of the census, the central government announced in 2025 that it would conduct a caste census as part of the census. However, the questionnaire released by the central government as part of the census, which consisted of 40 questions, did not include a column related to OBCs. "This is causing concern among OBC communities across the country. Will you give me a promise and then ignore it?" Jangana after independence "The backward classes continue to question the non-conduct of caste-based census as part of the 2011 census. They continue to voice their demand for a caste census. As a result of the pressure from the backward classes for a caste census, the then UPA government, for political reasons and to gain the support of OBCs, conducted a Socio-Economic Caste Census (SECC) in the 2011 census, but the governments refused to disclose the details related to castes in the census, saying that there were nearly 46 lakh errors during the caste census. In order to face a strong BJP in the 2024 Lok Sabha elections, the Congress party and its top leader Rahul Gandhi announced Hische Dari (Bhagidaari) Nyaya as part of Panch Nyaya in their election manifesto. They widely publicized that if they came to power at the Centre, they would conduct a caste census in the census, saying that it would be useful like an X-ray for the development of backward classes, and that they would lift the 50 percent limit on reservations and "Utne Abadi Jitne Bhagidari" (whoever has a lot, their share is equal). The promise of conducting a caste census worked well for the Congress politically. In contrast to the results of the 2014 and 2019 Lok Sabha elections, in 2024, the Congress party not only won 100 seats, but Rahul Gandhi also emerged as the Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha. The BJP could not even achieve the simple majority required to form the government. "The idea that Hinduism would be weakened if it were divided into castes was a factor in the Congress's strength gained through the caste census campaign. The RSS, which emerged from the 1990s, announced in a meeting in Kerala that it was not against the caste census. The BJP also changed its stance and announced that it would conduct a caste census in the census to be held from 2026 onwards, and with the support of the backward classes, it registered huge victories in the assembly elections in Haryana, Maharashtra, Bihar and Bengal. There was no mention of OBCs in the HA Leela as part of the first phase of the census. The second phase of the population enumeration was scheduled for August. The list of 40 questions released on the 14th also did not mention OBCs anywhere. The 8th question included nationality, the ninth question included religion, and the tenth question included questions related to SC and ST categories. However, the OBCs are expressing their views that the central government has failed to keep its word regarding the caste census as there are no questions related to OBCs. The central government, which collected the census with 29 questions in 2011, has included 10 additional questions this time along with the question of where the Covid vaccine was taken. The absence of mention of OBCs in the list of questions disappointed the backward classes. Unique code for the census of SC and ST categories The government has suggested that the open declaration should be given during the open period instead of following the drop-down method on the pretext that there are discrepancies between the central list and the state list regarding OBC castes. This means that it should be considered as injustice to the OBCs without doing proper calculations. Why this discrimination? How many OBCs are there in the country, who are the majority of the 1.47 billion population, and what is their status? Education, What is the share of political opportunities in economic matters? They want to know. They have that right. How does the government formulate its policies without knowing the conditions of the majority people? How does it decide the goals? The question arises as to how it will take steps towards a developed India. Governments have been discriminating against the development and welfare of OBCs for decades. If the governments are sincere about the development of OBCs, they would have fully implemented the Mandal Commission report! In 1980 itself, Mandal made it clear in his report that a caste census should be conducted for the comprehensive development of OBCs! At that time, the Congress and BJP governments Why have n't you come forward to conduct the census? The Bihar government in 2022 and the Telangana state governments in 2024 were able to conduct the caste census! And what are the objections of the central government towards the caste census? Can't the central government do what a state government can do! Only their stepmotherly love for the OBCs is stopping them from conducting the caste census. The caste census is not a quantitative process of dividing the population into castes and counting them, but a qualitative process of knowing their status. After the caste census, it was found that 34 percent of Biharis earn only Rs 200 per day, and out of the 134 BC castes in Telangana state, 69 castes are the most backward. Therefore, after the caste census, the government will have an opportunity to formulate its policies, set targets, make budget allocations, formulate schemes, and implement reservations more rationally based on the backwardness of the respective communities. Opposition leader Rahul Gandhi has written to the Prime Minister demanding that caste census be conducted in the census and OBC calculations should also be carried out in a drop-down manner. Instead of settling for mere letters, the Congress governments should take this opportunity to rectify the injustice done to the OBCs and should also take the responsibility of putting pressure on the Centre to include caste enumeration in the census. For the first time, the Census enumeration is being conducted using paperless technology, which has the potential to easily overcome the problems faced in the enumeration of OBCs. In this context, the government has included OB in the census questionnaire as per the wishes of the backward classes. "Let's hope the C column is also included.

GSLV-F17 To Launch EOS-05 On September 4

NELLORE: India is set to mark another milestone in its space programme with the launch of GSLV-F17 carrying EOS-05, the country's first-ever imaging satellite designed to operate from geosynchronous orbit, on September 4.

The GSLV-F17/EOS-05 mission is scheduled for 2.55 am from the Second Launch Pad at the Satish Dhawan Space Centre, Sriharikota. The launch vehicle will place EOS-05 into a Sub-Geosynchronous Transfer Orbit (Sub-GTO).

EOS-05 is a state-of-the-art Earth observation spacecraft designed to capture detailed images of the Earth and provide data for monitoring and other applications that require regular observation of the land and environment.

GSLV-F17 will be the 19th flight of India's Geosynchronous Satellite Launch Vehicle (GSLV). The mission will use a four-metre-diameter, ogive-shaped composite payload fairing to protect the satellite during its ascent.

EOS-05 is described as India's first imaging satellite designed to operate from geosynchronous orbit. It is a replacement for GISAT-1A, which was lost in a launch failure in 2021.

The mission will be closely watched following two successive PSLV mission failures in 2025 and early 2026. ISRO had temporarily paused launches to investigate the causes of the setbacks involving the launch vehicle. The failures had raised concerns, making the GSLV-F17/ EOS-05 mission particularly significant as the space agency seeks to reinforce confidence in its launch programme.

The satellite is expected to strengthen India's capabilities in Earth imaging, monitoring and other applications requiring advanced observation data.

The mission marks another significant step in India's expanding space-based Earth observation programme and its efforts to deploy increasingly advanced satellite systems for national applications.

Neglect of Journalists Will Not Be Tolerated“Struggle for Housing Plots and Welfare Action Plan for Agitation in October Meetings Scheduled for September – Says State Executive Member Mateti Venugopal at IJU Meeting

D Rakesh Bhanu Direct Voice Bureau Chief, Khammam August 30: Mateti Venugopal, State Executive Member of TUWJ (IJU), warned that any neglect towards journalists would not be tolerated and that they would mobilize journalists to launch a protest movement. He noted that while the government never outright refuses journalists' requests, it fails to complete the actual work; he questioned why there is a delay in making a decision regarding housing plots in Khammam, even though the land has been allocated by the government and the list of eligible journalists is already with the officials. The TUWJ (IJU) city committee meeting was held on Sunday at the local Mangalya Function Hall. Presided over by City President Cherukupalli Srinivas, the meeting saw Venugopal highlight the IJU's long history of struggle, stating that every welfare scheme implemented for journalists whether in the erstwhile Andhra Pradesh or the current Telangana was the result of IJU's agitation. He urged the government to honor the election-time promise to provide journalists with medical treatment via health cards on par with government employees. Noting that 400 journalists across the state have already lost their lives due to health issues, he urged that health cards be issued immediately to support those currently suffering from illness. He stated that the IJU demands the implementation of a pension scheme for journalists in the state, similar to the schemes already in place in states like Tamil Nadu and Kerala. He pointed out that the issue of housing sites for Khammam journalists has been pending for two decades; following IJU's agitation, the previous cabinet had passed a resolution allocating 23 acres of land to the society, and he called for immediate action to hand this land over to the journalists. He mentioned that the IJU had allowed some time based on assurances from ministers but warned that they would resort to agitation if there was any further delay. Venugopal stated that meetings across all constituencies would be completed in September, and a plan of action for the agitation would be announced in October, depending on the government's response. He affirmed that the IJU is working with the goal of ensuring journalist welfare, securing housing sites, and guaranteeing complete job security. Encroachers eyeing missionary lands“Union members held a massive rally to protect CBC assets

Mandal Srinivas Reddy has been involved in land grabbing on several occasions

D Rakesh Bhanu Direct Voice State Bureau Chief Warangal August 30: He is seriously hindering missionary service. He is hindering 150 years of service. He will not tolerate anything that comes to Christian properties. Mandal Srinivas Reddy is in contempt of court cases. We are initiating the formation of a new Tri Nagara Christian Committee. A case has been registered against Mandal Srinivas Reddy under Crime No. 223/2016. Mandal Srinivas Reddy said that CS No. 124/1994 orders should be considered. Srinivas Reddy. All sections should cooperate in protecting CBC properties. The organizations are appealing to CP Swetha Reddy to take strict action against the encroachers. Hanmakonda CBC organizations are concerned. The believers of the Hanmakonda Centenary Baptist Association organized a large-scale rally demanding strict action against the person who is occupying missionary properties. They warned the land grabber that they will organize peaceful rallies until the iron fist is imposed on the forced land acquisitions on Christian missionary properties. They said that it is extremely cruel for the land grabber to engage in encroachments despite the cooperation of local public representatives. The elders of the Hanmakonda Centenary Baptist Association, the CBC Association President, Dr. Christopher Secretary, T. Vijaya Swarup and other church elders strongly condemn and warn that some land grabbers are trying hard to obstruct the 150 years of missionary service. From 1994 to today, land grabbers have continued to occupy properties belonging to the Centenary Baptist Association for 36 years. He informed that cases have been filed against the encroachments and that judgments have been issued in favor of the Centenary Baptist Church, Hanmakonda against the land encroachments. He said that for the last three years, Mandal Srinivas Reddy, a member of the Hanmakonda area, with the encouragement of some land encroachments, has been encroaching on the most valuable Christian missionary lands and constructing buildings, creating serious obstacles to Christian service. As part of this, a peaceful rally was held on the main road in front of the church on Sunday, August 30, and a press conference was held at the Mission Hospital compound. Earlier, a petition was submitted to the Hanmakonda Police Station Officer regarding the lack of registered authority of the Centenary Baptist Church and the details of the cases that have been filed in the courts so far. The members of the congregation examined the methods by which Mandal Srinivas Reddy, along with some other people, carried out encroachments. Taking into account the evidence of assets and court cases, it was stated in the letter that strict action should be taken against Mandal Srinivas Reddy, who is regularly involved in encroachments, and his followers, taking into account the policies of forcible and violent land acquisitions. Subsequently, a press conference was held in the presence of the church elders, Trinagar Christian church elders, and church members. They all spoke and stated that Centenary Baptist Church is recognized as a church with a history of 146 years and that it is continuing to provide continuous services to thousands of lakhs of poor people under the auspices of the CBC Church Mission. It was informed that missionary services are being very useful, especially in providing education to orphans and providing medical care to the poor. CS No. 124/1994 dated 19/12/2024 Madras Whatever the verdict given by the High Court, such a verdict is historic and it is a matter of pride that a favorable verdict has come for the protection of missionary properties and for the protection of Christian properties. He complained that Mandal Srinivas Reddy, who is the 78th dependent in such a verdict, is a party to the court case and is creating false documents and encroaching on the land in complete violation of such a verdict. Srinivas Reddy, who filed a case in Amaravati under EA No. 387/2025, has not only filed a case in Amaravati against the properties related to the Telangana region but has also been completely opposed to the Amaravati court's "stay" order and is committing encroachments, he warned. The petitioner, Mandal Srinivas Reddy, who has obtained dismissal and expert orders in the case of EP No. 116/2024, 16/2003. Contempt Petition No. In cases 269/2003, 89/2003, he did not go into oral arguments until the court cases were completed, but instead of giving written statements to the court, he ignored all of them and not only engaged in land grabbing, but also engaged in violent land grabbing against the orders granted by the Madras Court, completely disrupting peace and security by continuing the encroachments. It was requested to protect the Christian community, missionary properties and missionary service from him. In the same context, he said that efforts are being made to form a new (body) committee under the auspices of the Trinagar Baptist Christian communities. He urged all the Trinagar Christian believers to cooperate in order to continue the Christian missionary services that are constantly available to the poor people. The Madras Court orders do not allow the purchase or sale of Christian missionary properties. However, despite the clear statement in the orders that all the illegally created documents on missionary properties are being cancelled, the land grabber Srinivas Reddy reminded that he is using his political influence to cause trouble to lakhs of Christians in every way. He said that everyone should cooperate in the construction of a boundary wall to protect the properties of the Christian community, that rallies and protests will continue in a peaceful manner in addition to the legal battle to protect the properties, and that all Christians should maintain unity and not succumb to any temptations in order to protect the properties. The continuation of such violent encroachments on just one Christian property is completely against the law, the rule of law, and the peace and security of the Mandal where such encroachments continue. He urged that Srinivas Reddy be severely punished. He warned that there is no record in history where those who have encroached on missionary properties or Christians have been spared. He warned that if the encroachment on missionary properties by a community where Christians worship faithfully should be stopped, thousands and lakhs of people will have to protest against the encroachments. In this huge rally and press conference, Centenary Baptist Association Senior Pastor Reverend GJ Niranjan Babu, Sangha President Dr. T. Christopher Ruben, Secretary T. Vijay Swarup, Vice President Dr. T. Moses Christopher, Vice President Dr. K. Vidyakar, Treasurer B. Vijay Kumar, Joint Secretary J. Daniel, Joint Secretary, N. Johnson Prasad, pastors Reverend Michael, Reverend Moses, Reverend Ranjith Kumar, Pastor Isaac, former Corporator Dinna, Pastor Joseph Prabhakar, T. Emmanuel, Puli Anil, Shravan Kumar, Jai Bheem organizations bureau representative Dr. Deverakonda. Nagesh and 200 Christian believers participated.

Relief Efforts In Nepal Are A Challenge

The massive flash floods in Nepal have once again demonstrated how much a natural disaster can shake a country. Heavy rains in the mountainous areas, swollen rivers, and landslides combined to inundate villages. While the loss of life and property is one thing, the humanitarian crisis that is being faced in the aftermath of the disaster is another. Finding the whereabouts of the missing, identifying the bodies, preserving them, handing them over to family members, removing the rubble, and restoring roads and bridges have become a major test of the Nepali government's capacity. "The current figures clearly show the gravity of the situation. According to official figures, the death toll has reached 616. More than 2,500 people are missing. Although rescue teams continue to search, mud, debris, damaged roads and disruptions in communication systems are hampering operations. The number of missing is particularly worrying. The death toll is likely to rise further as more bodies are likely to be recovered as rescue efforts intensify. Nepal, which is grappling with such a loss of life, is now facing another unexpected problem---the lack of adequate capacity to store dead bodies. The combined capacity of all mortuaries across the country is only about 350 bodies. But the death toll has already crossed 600. This is putting hospitals and mortuaries under severe pressure. With more than 2,500 people still missing, the situation is likely to become even more critical if the number of bodies increases in the coming days. "In such a situation the management of dead bodies cannot be seen as a mere administrative process. Behind every dead body, there is a family. Family members are waiting in uncertainty as to whether their loved one is alive or dead. That is why the identification process needs to be carried out in the most transparent and scientific manner. The approach followed by the Nepal Police has gained importance in this regard. The rescue teams are taking close-up photos as soon as the body is recovered. In cases where the face is not clearly visible, the body is first cleaned. Then, a special identification tag is attached to the body bag and it is taken to temporary storage centers. There, arrangements are being made to preserve the bodies at a temperature of about 0 degrees. When relatives of the missing come for information, they are shown photos of the bodies recovered so far and try to identify them. In the case of bodies that cannot be identified by face, collecting fingerprints and DNA samples is even more crucial. Even if relatives cannot immediately identify the body, these can be used to identify the body through scientific methods in the future. Since it is not possible to store bodies that have not been found by relatives or have not been claimed indefinitely, it is a necessary precaution to collect a separate tag, record, and biometric evidence for each body. Nepal has specific legal guidelines for the management of dead bodies that came into effect in 2021. Committees headed by the District Police Chief play a key role in the management of unidentified and unclaimed bodies. However, the large number of bodies arriving at the same time has put severe pressure on district-level systems. There is also a need to increase coordination with the central government. International cooperation is essential in such situations. Although Nepal initially took a limited stance on foreign search and rescue teams, it later agreed to receive specialized technical assistance. Experts from other countries, including India and China, are assisting in tunnel rescue, DNA testing, and forensic identification. India has already sent emergency equipment and tunnel rescue experts. The disaster also raises another important question. How prepared are countries to deal with the impacts of climate change in the Himalayan regions? Higher temperatures, melting snow, glacial instability, and landslides are likely to increase the risk of future flash floods. Therefore, it is necessary to strengthen early warning systems, satellite monitoring, safe infrastructure, and local disaster management capacities, not just to respond after a disaster. Nepal now has two responsibilities. The first is to search for every missing person, identify every body, and return them to their families with dignity. The second is to rebuild the devastated areas and build infrastructure to withstand future disasters. The receding waters are not the end of the disaster. Relief efforts in Nepal must continue until the victims are found, the dead are respected, the families are reassured, and the country is rebuilt.

Rakam Radhika, Bureau Chief, Mahabubabad August 30 : Sankepalli Srinivasa Reddy, President of the 'Shubhodayam' Literary, Cultural, and Social Service Organization, stated that Telugu literature should reach everyone from scholars to the common people. formal) style, meaning its poetic beauty was accessible only to scholars. He explained that, thanks to the efforts of Gidugu Ramamurthy, the language expanded into the Vyavaharika (colloquial/spoken) style, thereby reaching the common people. He added that, in recognition of this, the erstwhile united state and the current two Telugu states observe Acharya Gidugu Ramamurthy Pantulu's birthday as "Vyavaharika Telugu Bhasha Dinotsavam" (Colloquial Telugu Language Day). Speaking as the chief guest at the event presided over by the organization's founder, Anita, E. He urged everyone to raise awareness about how blood donation can save lives and expressed the hope that providing a better quality of life and a sense of security to Thalassemia patients would remain a primary goal for all. Dr. Kiran Kumar, Deputy Superintendent of Khammam Government General Hospital (GGH), emphasized sized that a bright future is just as important as good health for children; he urged them to overcome health challenges and strive for a successful future. He lauded Ravi and Anita, organizers of the Sankalpa Voluntary Service Organization, for their responsible dedication to children's welfare, a commendable act in today's society, where people often neglect even their own family members' needs. He called upon society to treat these children as equals and to adopt a positive attitude toward their health and future. During an interactive session, Dr. Kiran Kumar spoke directly with children suffering from Thalassemia and inquired about their future aspirations. He encouraged them to pursue their goals and grow into courageous individuals. Speaking on the occasion, ARRI Kamaraju stated that they are always ready to donate blood whenever these children require it. He noted that supporting the Sankalpa Voluntary Service Organization allows them to participate in humanitarian work, which brings them immense mental satisfaction. Buzz: Nikhil To Lock Horns With Devarakonda

One of the most delayed films in recent times, which is on the verge of postponement when it comes to its release, is none other than Nikhil's Swayambhu.

One of the most delayed films in recent times, which is on the verge of postponement when it comes to its release, is none other than Nikhil's Swayambhu. Riding high on the success of Karthikeya 2, the hero came up with this Magadheera-like epic film, whose release date was announced a couple of times but postponed again.

The latest update is that Nikhil wants to jump into the Dasara race by locking October 15th as the release date. Already, another period film, Vijay Devarakonda's Ranabali also locked the Dasara date only, as Mythri Movie Makers has recently announced that they are hitting cinemas on the 16th. All these days, with Superstar Rajnikanth's Jailer 2 locking the 15th, many thought that the Telugu slot would be locked by Megastar Chiranjeevi's Vishwambhara and hence no other movie announced their dates for Dasara.

Now that Vijay Deverakonda and Nikhil, both coming up with similar films, are on Dasara eve, some are thinking that even Naga Vamsi might push their #AK47 to Dasara, as that will be the only family film in the race at the Telugu box office. However, that call will be taken only after Jailer 2 jumps out of the race. Because Jailer 2 itself is a big competition, even at the Telugu box office, for all the films that are hitting cinemas.

Kayadu Fans Upset With Big Telugu Film

One of the biggest films that is coming from Tollywood in the next couple of months is none other than Nani's The Paradise.

One of the biggest films that is coming from Tollywood in the next couple of months is none other than Nani's The Paradise. Already, the teaser has unveiled the grand scale of the movie, and it was confirmed that the movie is hitting cinemas on September 25th without fail. However, one aspect of this film is upsetting the fans, and that's none other than Kayadu Lohar.

Other than announcing that Kayadu Lohar is the leading lady, so far, the heroine hasn't got any special boost from the team through any special videos. The film's first released songAya Sher featured only Nani; then the second single, which will be released in a day, features Keerthy Suresh. So when will a song featuring Kayadu be released? Currently, she's seen only in the teaser, but the makers haven't given any special attention to her, and that's wondering her fans.

While fans are upset that Kayadu's content is not coming out, with just one month ahead for the film's release, the makers are sure that when they release the song featuring Nani and Kayadu, it's going to be a stunner of sorts. At the same time, Nani is yet to start the promotions of the movie, while there is only 30 days away for the release.

Suriya's Vishwanath & Sons Emerges as a Big Winner in Telugu States?

Despite stiff competition from Irumudi and Toxic, Tamil star Suriya's latest film Vishwanath & Sons is reportedly performing strongly across several centres in Andhra Pradesh and Telangana.

According to a distributor, the film has already registered around Rs 30 crore share in the Telugu states, which is being described as a major achievement for Suriya's Telugu market. "The film has collected around Rs 54 crore gross in Andhra Pradesh and Telangana. For a Suriya-starrer, these are very encouraging numbers," he says.
