Hon'ble Union Minister G. Kishan Reddy Inspects Redevelopment Works at Amrit Stations in Telangana

Nathari Venkatesh
State Bureau Chief Hyderabad, August 31 : Hon'ble Union Minister for Coal and Mines, G. Kishan Reddy, inspected the progress of redevelopment works at the Sri Bala Brahmewara Jogulamba Halt, Gadwal, Mahabubnagar, and Jadcherla railway stations in Telangana today August 31 Mahabubnagar Member of Parliament Smt. D.K. Aruna, MLAs Vijayudu and Bandla Krishna Mohan Reddy, along with other public representatives, participated in the event. The Union Minister was accompanied by Hyderabad Division Railway Manager Santosh Kumar Varma and other senior officials. During his visit to these stations, G. Kishan Reddy thoroughly inspected the ongoing redevelopment activities and reviewed the project progress. He visited the construction sites within the stations and observed the safety measures being implemented. The Hon'ble Union Minister inspected the newly redeveloped facilities, including the station building, platforms, foot-over-bridges, parking areas, station premises, and lifts. Subsequently, while addressing the media at the railway stations, Hon'ble Union Minister Shri G. Kishan Reddy announced that 40 railway stations across Telangana are being redeveloped as 'Amrit Stations' at a cost exceeding ₹2,000 crore. He stated that, as part of this initiative, redevelopment works are being undertaken at Bala Brahmewara Jogulamba Halt, Gadwal, Mahabubnagar, and Jadcherla railway stations with a total outlay of ₹125.38 crore. The Minister highlighted that the redeveloped stations would feature world-class amenities and modern facilities, such as new station buildings, modernized waiting halls, booking counters, improved platforms, enhanced lighting, lifts, escalators, footover-bridges, upgraded station premises, improved station entrances, and better parking facilities. Shri G. Kishan Reddy noted that the work at Bala Brahmewara Jogulamba Halt is nearing completion, while progress at the other stations is proceeding at a rapid pace. Furthermore, he emphasized that railway infrastructure in Telangana is developing rapidly under the Central Government led by Hon'ble Prime Minister Narendra Modi. He stated that major railway development projects worth approximately ₹50,000 crore including new lines, doubling, tripling, quadrupling, and capacity enhancement works are progressing rapidly across the state. He also mentioned that 100 new passenger and express trains have been introduced in Telangana over the past decade. The Union Minister noted that three of the seven high-speed rail corridors announced in the budget pertain to Telangana: Hyderabad-Chennai via Vijayawada, Hyderabad-Bengaluru, and Hyderabad-Pune (via Mumbai). He remarked that these high-speed elevated rail corridors would be a game-changer for Telangana, significantly improving regional connectivity, fostering industrial growth, and helping to alleviate traffic congestion in Hyderabad, thereby driving transformative development for the state. Shri G. Kishan Reddy reiterated the Government of India's commitment to strengthening railway connectivity across every region of Telangana and providing modern, efficient links to major pilgrimage sites such as Alampur and Jogulamba Gadwal. He added that, to enhance safety and improve traffic flow, the Railways is eliminating level crossing gates and constructing Road Under Bridges (RUBs) and Road Over Bridges (ROBs) on a large scale across the Indian Railways network. He stated that this would help reduce congestion, improve traffic flow, and cut down on passenger waiting times.

Review Meeting the District Collectorate regarding the Progress of 'Indiramma' Houses, Resolution Of Revenue Issues, land-Related Matters, And Measures To Expedite The Delivery Of Government services to the public

Rakam Radhika Bureau Chief Mahabubabad August 31. A key review meeting was held at the Mahabubabad District Collectorate, presided over by the State Minister for Housing and Revenue, Ponguleti Srinivas Reddy, with the Collectors of the erstwhile Warangal districts. The meeting comprehensively discussed the implementation of housing schemes, the progress of 'Indiramma' houses, the resolution of revenue issues, land-related matters, and measures to deliver government services to the public more swiftly. Speaking on the occasion, Narsampet MLA Donthi Madhava Reddy highlighted the shortage of sand for 'Indiramma' houses. He requested the Minister to facilitate faster construction by authorizing sand supply from Bhupalpally district at rates lower than the market price, ensuring it reaches beneficiaries affordably. Several public representatives from the erstwhile Warangal districts, District Collectors, and state and district-level officials from the Revenue and Housing departments participated in this review meeting.

Natural Disasters Cause Severe Losses

PM CARES Fund information led by Prime Minister Modi himself. The use of the Moo has remained a mystery from the beginning. It is astonishing. The 2023-2024 timeline, revealed almost two and a half years late, 24, If we look at the annual accounts for 2024-25, who is this scheme for? Doubts about why are also growing. Rs. 8,452 crore. While in the account, parents lost their it is surprising that only Rs. 88 lakhs is spent on children. Various Even though natural disasters have caused severe losses in the states during this period, these funds It is a shame that not a single penny has been released from the state. When disasters occur In the name of immediate relief to the needy, the central government on March 27, 2020 Prime Minister Cares Fund has been set up and financial assistance has been sought from the public During the height of Covid, people are doing this to the best of their ability. Donations were made to the fund. Employees donated a portion of their salaries. They gave generously. Many organizations donated. The country People believed that this fund would be useful when needed. But, this This fund has not been used for any disaster in the past five years. This relief fund When it starts, the government's share will also be significant. Many people believe that the elderly will receive the necessary help. This scheme was considered while there is already a Prime Minister's National Relief Fund. Questions also arose as to why. However, the horrific events unfolded before our eyes. As the Covid pandemic continues, many people are flocking to PM CARES. Donations were sent. However, the question is how much money was raised through donations. Modi government to give details when confronted by the people of the country it refused. It declared that it was a trust and not a government organization. Even if details are sought under the Right to Information Act, the PM CARES Fund does not fall under that ambit. The Prime Minister, as ex-officio chairperson, has the portfolios of defence, home, finance Why is an institution of which ministers are ex-officio trustees called a government? There have been criticisms that it is getting worse. Parents due to Covid Children who have lost both parents need facilities like education, health, accommodation, and food. Government says it will use PM CARES funds to provide health facilities. Such children will get Rs. 10 lakhs after they turn 18. It has been announced that it will provide Rs. 20 thousand per year to each student. Financial assistance is to be provided at the rate of 3,383 people in 2024-25. While the children were supposed to receive this assistance, the expenditure shown in the accounts Only Rs. 87.85 lakhs! If you pay Rs. 20 thousand each It will be approximately Rs. 6.76 crore. The amount given when the scheme was announced Why is there such a difference between the guarantee and the actual amount spent? The government should say what has come. Also the use of PM CARES funds. It is decreasing year by year. In 2022-23, Rs. 346 crore was spent. While it fell to Rs. 15 crore in 2023-24. In 2024-25 it has come down to Rs. 88 lakhs. Meanwhile, a large amount of the funds is fixed into deposits. By the end of the financial year 2023-24 Rs. 6,641 crores are in fixed deposits. In the PM CARES affair Questions about transparency have persisted since the beginning. Information Refusing to come under the ambit of the Bill of Rights, avoiding CAG audit issues such as being, not making full audit details public The details released also include receipts, Opening balance, donation amount, interest, refunds, payments, closing balance it looks like this.

Russia-Ukraine War: Frozen front, burning hinterland

Aleksei Zakharov
There appears to be no endgame in sight after four-and-a-half years of fighting in Ukraine, with peace negotiations making no progress in 2026. If anything, with both Russia and Ukraine escalating strikes on energy facilities, logistics infrastructure, warehouses, as well as ports and vessels in the Black Sea, a protracted war looks increasingly likely.

The so-called "Anchorage formula", or, as the Russians call it, "the spirit of Anchorage", referring to the understandings Russia claims were reached at the 2025 Trump-Putin summit in Alaska, is firmly dead, while a new baseline for negotiations remains undefined. Both Moscow and Kyiv remain confident that they can sustain the war for several more months and gain the upper hand in negotiations through military pressure. So far, however, the escalation has produced no tangible results. Rather, it is creating a more dangerous situation in which the war could spill over into new territories and draw in new actors and domains.

Meanwhile, Ukraine has upped the cost of war for the Kremlin with spectacular strikes deep into Russian territory on refineries, warehouses, and military infrastructure. Russia has responded in kind. If anything, this tit-for-tat escalation is only blurring the lines between civilian and military targets.

In recent weeks, for instance, Russia has stepped up strikes against Ukrainian ports, grain terminals on the Black Sea and commercial vessels heading to them—dealing a heavy blow to Ukrainian agricultural exports, one of the country's few remaining sources of income. Russia has also destroyed nearly 250 petrol stations across various Ukrainian regions, particularly in the frontline-adjacent areas of the Kharkiv, Dnipro and Zaporizhzhia oblasts. Finally, capitalising on the Ukrainian shortage of interceptors for Patriot air defence systems, Russian forces have escalated strikes on the greater Kyiv area, home to many military and industrial facilities.

If the current trend of escalation continues without new agreements, Russia and Ukraine may be facing a brutal winter, in which economic strain inevitably spills over into a humanitarian crisis.

Despite neither side achieving its objectives, both could claim a form of victory: Kyiv for preserving its sovereignty, independence, and potential to further integrate into the European space; Moscow for creating a buffer zone on its borders and preventing Western military deployment on Ukrainian soil. The latter, however, would hinge on security guarantees offered to Ukraine, likely to be a point of hard negotiation.

Beyond Ukraine, Russia and European nations will also need to coordinate a new framework for coexistence—one that cools mutual hostility and brings more pragmatism to the relationship. Without a solid agreement on the future of European security architecture—itsself likely to be the subject of protracted negotiations that may ultimately fail—the relationship will remain fraught with the risk of a new conflict flaring up.

Additional factors that will keep any peace deal fragile include domestic developments in both Ukraine and Russia, two countries that will suffer a post-war hangover. The loss of territory will bedevil Ukraine's domestic politics for years to come, fuelling a sense of revanchism among constituencies pushing to regain lost lands. An economically weakened Russia, having expended vast resources in the war, would also seek clear mutual guarantees or deterrence mechanisms from the West. Beyond long-term economic issues, the country is likely to face deep social challenges in reintegrating all the demobilised soldiers back into society—something the Soviet Union grappled with in the late 1980s following the war in Afghanistan. Additionally, the social contract—a relatively high standard of living in exchange for reduced political freedoms—will come under further pressure in post-war Russia.

Although the Russia-Ukraine war is at an obvious deadlock, the conditions for the endgame have not yet ripened. For the diplomatic path to prevail, both sides must come to feel that continuing the war—wasting lives and economic and military resources—serves no strategic or political purpose. Kyiv and Moscow clearly are not there yet: both still hope to turn the tide of war in their favour.

Whether this 'escalate to de-escalate' approach can force a peaceful solution remains to be seen. One thing is clear: the Russia-Ukraine war will end in an armistice or a peace agreement rather than a total victory for either side.

China's economic powerhouse Shanghai faces growing signs of distress

Shanghai, once regarded as one of China's most prosperous, vibrant and internationally connected cities, is showing growing signs of a prolonged economic slowdown, raising concerns about the depth of the country's broader economic challenges, a report has said.

The city's economic difficulties have emerged from a combination of factors, including the lingering impact of the COVID-19 lockdowns, a prolonged weakness in the property market, deteriorating local government finances, subdued consumer spending and the departure of some foreign companies and highly paid workers, according to the Dawn report.

The slowdown is particularly significant because Shanghai has traditionally been viewed as one of China's key economic powerhouses.

As the country's largest urban economy by GDP, the city has long been among China's strongest fiscal performers and has played a crucial role in driving investment, trade, consumption and financial activity.

However, recent fiscal data suggest that even Shanghai is facing increasing pressure. China's Ministry of Finance reported in late July that none of the country's 31 provincial-level regions generated sufficient fiscal revenue during the first half of 2026 to fully cover their expenditures. Collectively, local governments recorded a fiscal self-sufficiency rate of only 56.3 per cent.

Shanghai, despite its relatively high income levels and strong economic base, is also spending more than it collects through its own revenue sources. The development highlights the growing pressure on local finances as property-related revenues weaken, corporate profitability remains under strain and tax bases come under pressure.

The deterioration in Shanghai carries wider significance for China's economy because it suggests that the country's slowdown is no longer limited to less-developed regions in central and western China.

Increasing fiscal stress in one of the country's richest and most internationally connected cities points to the broader effects of weak property activity, subdued business conditions and softer domestic demand.

The slowdown is increasingly visible in commercial districts, where shopping malls, restaurants and office complexes that were once crowded are seeing weaker footfall and business activity. (IANS/UNI)

The test for the word 'Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam' is not in America, "In India! should appear The speech given by Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) Sarseng Chalak Mohan Bhagwat

Direct Voice Square Garden New York August 31: at the 'Universal Oneness Celebration' held at Madison took on more political and cultural significance than a typical event for Indian diaspora. The event, organized by American Hindus for Engagement and Dialogue (AHAD), attracted an estimated 5,000-6,000 people, according to organizers. More than 250 Hindu-American organizations are participating, according to organizers. The main message of Bhagwat's speech was "Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam" - the whole world is one family. An Indian philosophical concept. He said that there is unity in diversity in the social nature of both India and America. He explained that Dharma is not just a religion, but the individual is more than the society. Dharma is to fulfill the responsibility towards humanity and nature. His comment that "a person who thinks that there should be no Muslims in India is not a true Hindu" is especially noteworthy. He gave the message that although the paths of all religions are different, humanity and truth are one. "This is where this speech faces its real socio-political test. No one needs to object to the idea that "the world is one family" as a universal human value. But it is also not right to ignore the historical and political controversies surrounding the organization that enunciates that concept. The RSS was founded in 1925 and completed its centenary in 2025. In India The ideological connection between the RSS and the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party is widely debated internationally, so it is natural to compare Bhagwat's message of integrity in America with the socio-political realities of his organization in India. The opposition to the program in the US has also gained prominence. New York Mayor Zohrab Mardani has criticized the RSS ideology as a view that marginalizes minorities. The US Commission on International Religious Freedom has also made serious allegations against the RSS during Bhagwat's visit to the US and recommended targeted sanctions against individuals associated with the organization. However, these are not final decisions of the US government: the RSS denies these allegations and says that it is only a cultural and service organization. "This argument is all the more interesting given the size of the Indian community in America. By 2022, there will be approximately 4.8 million Indians in the US. "The Pew Research Center estimates that there are 48 percent of Indian Americans who identify as Hindu. This means that the Hindu community in America is not just a spiritual group; it is a diaspora that is increasingly influential in the economic, educational, professional, and political spheres. However, simply dismissing Bhagwat's speech with criticism is equally incomplete. His public expression of values ??such as interfaith dialogue, service, mutual respect, and human unity is a welcome development. His participation in an ISKCON program in New York and the distribution of the 100,000th meal in the One Lakh Meals program for the homeless should also be seen as an attempt to connect service with spirituality. "But the real question is not how beautifully the slogan "Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam" sounds on stage: but how far it is put into practice in social life in India. The main thing is that it is visible. India Only if the values ??of religious freedom, equality and fraternity in the Constitution can provide equal security to every religion, India will stand as an example of true "unity in diversity" to the world. It is positive to convey the message that Muslims should be equal in India on the American stage. But is the same message felt in the life of every village, every religion and every minority in India? The question is whether it is felt in the life of every village, every religion and every minority in India. Only then will the world accept the phrase "the world is one family" as a living truth of Indian civilization, not just a catchy phrase in a speech. The policies followed by the RSS and its political affiliate BJP in India in the last twelve years have already been written in the pages of history, and Mohan Bhagwat's life at the end of his life was truly "It remains to be seen whether the policies to be followed in the future will be different from the "ideas of the RSS and (BJP)" taught from the experience of maturity.

On Congress failures Battle "BRS Poru bata from September 2 to 96 guarantees 420 promises to the public.. "We will expose Congress frauds with 'Badge Cards' "Former Chief Whip Dasyam Vinay Bhaskar's appeal to party ranks"

Yamsani SAI Bureau Chief Warangal August 31: On Congress failures Battle "BRS Poru bata from September 2 to 96 guarantees.. 420 promises to the public We will expose Congress frauds with 'Badge Cards' Former Chief Whip Dasyam Vinay Bhaskar's appeal to party ranks said. Innovative protest activities in Warangal West As the party completes 1,000 days in power, the BRS party is ready to fight to expose the promises made by the party, its failures in implementation and public problems. The BRS party has decided to take the failures of the Congress government to the people for eight days from September 2 to 9. As part of this, former Chief Whip and former MLA Dasyam Vinaybhaskar has called on the party ranks to expose the 'fake rule' of the Congress government in front of the people by organizing widespread innovative protest programs in the Warangal West constituency. On the call of BRS party working president KTR, a meeting of key leaders was held at the NiBRS party district office in Hanuma konda on Monday. On this occasion, Dasyam Vinaybhaskar gave direction to the party ranks. The people were once again reminded of the 420 promises, 13 declarations and six guarantees given by the Congress government during the elections. It was suggested that the failures in their implementation should be explained to each group. What happened to all the guarantees? Vinay Bhaskar criticized the Congress, which came to power by making vague promises before the elections. It announced that it would implement six guarantees within a hundred days. He alleged that many promises have not been implemented even after completing a thousand days of coming to power. He advised the party leaders to take the problems faced by farmers, students, women, unemployed, employees, youth, the poor and people of various professions to the people. We will be spending the day with 'outstanding cards' Vinaybhaskar suggested that the promises made by the Congress party to the respective sections and the dues related to them should once again be brought to the people in the form of 'dues cards'. He said that the issues like what were the promises made during the elections? How much has been implemented so far? How much is still pending? should be clearly explained to the people. He directed the party ranks to place the government's failures in implementing the promises before the people with evidence. The public should be told about failures in every field. "Vinaya Bhaskar said that there is a need to remind the people of the many areas in which the Congress government has failed in its thousand-day rule. He suggested that programs should be organized by identifying the problems related to each community and mentioning the promises made by the Congress to the respective communities.

Not limited to political criticism "Frauds Take it to the people" "Congress has deceived the people in the name of 420 promises.. 13 declarations.. six guarantees. The Congress, which came to power by promising to implement six guarantees in a hundred days.. now, even after completing a thousand days, it is not implementing many promises and is misleading the people. These deceptions should be taken to every household," said Dasyam Vinay Bhaskar. "The people should be reminded of how many areas the government has failed in its thousand-day rule... how many areas it has led to chaos. In addition to highlighting the failures in the implementation of promises, we should fight against the problems faced by the people. Innovative activities should be organized in Warangal West constituency for a week from September 2 and the failures of the Congress government should be widely taken to the people." This was his call to the party ranks. Former chairman Manaya Dava Reddy, former corporators, former division presidents, legal cell in-charges, women's division presidents, student wing leaders and others participated in this meeting. He said that the issues facing the people should be taken as the main issues and struggle programs should be formulated. "Innovative in Warangal West.. "Dasyam Vinaybhaskar has instructed party leaders to undertake innovative protest programs in Warangal West constituency for a week from September 2. He suggested that programs should be organized to bring the Congress government's failure to fulfill its promises, corruption, and governance failures to the public's attention. He called for exposing the Congress government's behavior by organizing programs that will get a response from the people.

MLA should open his mouth on the allegations coming from the camp office! "CPM Demand "

Soma Giri Prasad Bhadraddri August 31 "CPIM state committee members AJ Ramesh and district secretary MB Narsa Reddy demanded that local legislator Tellam Venkata Rao open his mouth and answer the people of the constituency on the allegations of financial frauds coming from the Bhadrachalam MLA camp office for the past few years. AJ Ramesh and MB Narsa Reddy spoke at the CPM town committee meeting held at the local Chandra Rao building on Monday. In the past six months, the MLA's main followers and personal assistants cheated people and made crores of rupees and said that it should be considered a very serious financial crime and fraud. He recalled that in the past, there were allegations that Nawab, who claimed to be the MLA's personal PA, had threatened officials and contractors in the name of MLA. He said that the same Nawab had cheated many people and made crores of rupees in the name of sand ramps, and the victims themselves had protested in Bhadrachalam. A J Ramesh Narsa Reddy reminded that within a short period of time, a person named Bharat, who used to spend a lot of time in the MLA camp office, absconded with 50 crores of people's money. He said that before forgetting these two incidents, Kalyan Kumar, who was the MLA's PA, had collected crores of rupees from many people in the name of jobs and promotions, and that it was actually the party workers who had filed a complaint at the police station. He said that it is the responsibility of the MLA to immediately investigate the allegations coming from the MLA camp office and inform the people of the truth. He said that such incidents have never happened in the past in Bhadrachalam, which has a long history of struggles. He recalled that the immortals Kunja Bujji, Sunnam Rajaiah, and former MP Dr. Media Baburao, who served this constituency as MLAs for 35 years, provided selfless and honest governance during their tenure. He said that it is shameful that such allegations are being made in such an exemplary constituency. He demanded that the MLA of Bhadrachalam constituency should open his mouth and inform the people of the constituency about these developments and conduct a transparent investigation into the allegations and provide speedy justice to the victims and take legal action against those who cheated the victims. He demanded that MLA Venkat Rao take the responsibility of recovering the entire amount of money collected from innocent people in the name of jobs from the victims. CPM Town Secretary Gaddam Swamy, leaders Sunnam Ganga, Erram Shetty Venkata Rama Rao, P Santosh Kumar, and D Seethalakshmi participated in this meeting.

The Goal Of The Public Government Is To Provide A Permanent Solution To Land Issues Land re-survey should be expedited across the state: Minister Ponguleti Srinivasa Reddy

Dayyala Rakesh Bhanu Direct Voice Bureau Chief Warangal August 31 Indiramma should increase the speed of house construction and special attention should be paid to the slow districts. If licensed surveyors do not attend their duties, notices should be issued and action should be taken. In the joint Warangal district, the joint Warangal district in-charge Minister Ponguleti Srinivasa Reddy and State Minister Dana sari Anasuya Seethakka held a review with the public representatives of the joint Warangal district, and the secretaries of the Revenue, Registration and Housing Departments at the Mahabubabad IDOC office. Ponguleti Srinivasa Reddy, Minister for Revenue, Housing, Information and Public Relations and Minister in-charge of the joint Warangal district, said that the main objective of the public government is to provide a permanent solution to land problems in the state and provide legal rights to every landowner. State Panchayat Raj and Rural Development Minister Danasari Anasuya along with Seethakka held a high-level review meeting on revenue, land re-survey, registration and housing issues in the joint Warangal district on Monday at the Mahabubabad IDOC office. In this meeting, the progress of land re-survey in the six districts under the joint Warangal district, survey work in non-cadastral and cadastral villages, performance of licensed surveyors, details of 22-A lands, plain titles, forest-revenue land boundary disputes, the Land Act that came into effect in place of Dharani, construction of new offices of the Registration Department, progress in construction of Indiramma houses, sanction of second phase of houses, free sand supply and other issues were comprehensively reviewed. Land re-survey should be expedited. The Minister directed the officials to expedite the land re-survey process across the state on a priority basis. He clarified that 70 revenue villages in each district should be selected as a target and the first phase of the land survey should be completed by the end of November. The second phase of the survey should be undertaken by March next year and the government's goal is to scientifically survey every inch of land in the state in the next year and a half, including agricultural, non-agricultural and residential properties. Officials informed the minister that re-survey work has been started in 18 villages out of 31 non-cadastral villages under the joint Warangal district, of which the survey has been completed in five villages and work is ongoing in another 13 villages. The minister ordered that survey work should be started immediately in the remaining 13 villages, 8 in Bhupalpally district and 5 in Janagama district. Similarly, 70 cadastral villages with maps have been notified, survey work is ongoing in 40 villages and the survey has been completed in seven villages, officials said. It was revealed that so far, re-survey has been completed in a total of 12 villages under the six districts, and work is ongoing in 53 villages. The minister clarified that licensed surveyors must participate in the land re-survey undertaken by the government with great ambition. He issued notices to surveyors who were confined to private surveys without attending re-survey duties and ordered them to take action. He warned that acts such as issuing certificates without going to the field level and acting contrary to government regulations would not be tolerated. He instructed the Collectors and Additional Collectors to prepare adequate number of trained personnel required for land survey work and to keep alternate personnel available. He advised the officers to monitor the survey work at the field level. Comprehensive report on 22-A lands in two days The Minister ordered that a comprehensive report with four columns be prepared in each district on what lands are under 22-A, how much of them are agricultural and non-agricultural lands, and what other details are there. He clarified that complete details should be submitted to the authorities within two days, working continuously for 24 hours, according to survey numbers. He suggested that the details of the lands of farmers who were mistakenly included in the 22-A list should be examined and the process of removing eligible lands from the list should be expedited. The minister said that in place of Dharani, the government has brought new Bhu Bharati agricultural and revenue laws, decentralized powers and assigned responsibilities to collectors, additional collectors, RDOs and tehsildar-level officials. He instructed the officials to provide revenue services to the people in a transparent manner without having to go around offices. He suggested that steps be taken to comprehensively examine the issues of plain title deeds and provide legal rights to every eligible farmer. The Minister ordered that the long-pending boundary disputes between forest and revenue lands be resolved permanently. He suggested that the collectors and forest department officials should meet jointly and undertake land measurements using scientific methods and determine the boundaries. He instructed the officials to take steps so that farmers who had previously obtained land titles for fallow lands do not face any difficulties or harassment while getting boreholes, electricity connections and other facilities. The construction of registration department offices should be expedited. The minister also reviewed the progress of the registration and stamps department. Officials said that as per the government orders issued on July 7, five sub-registrar offices have been sanctioned in Narsampet, Parakala, Mulugu, Janagama and Bhupalpally areas and one DIG office in Warangal. He said that proposals have been prepared to allocate 20 holes/one acre of SRSP land for the DIG office in Pallipulapeta, Hanu makonda district. Officials explained that eight of the 13 sub-registrar offices in the combined Warangal district are currently operating in private buildings. They said that 70 percent of the construction of the new building in Parakala has been completed. It has been decided to hand over the construction work of Bhimadevarapalli and Parakala to the Housing Department to expedite the construction work. Construction of Indiramma houses should be expedited. The Minister specifically reviewed the progress of construction of Indira Mamma houses in the joint Warangal district, the second phase of houses sanctioned, free sand supply and selection of beneficiaries. The Minister said that the government has spent about Rs. 1,200 crore so far for the construction of Indira Mamma houses. He expressed dissatisfaction that the construction is progressing satisfactorily in Jangaon and Mahabubabad districts, but the progress in Mulugu and Bhupalpally districts is not at the expected level. The minister said that out of 4,600 houses sanctioned in Bhupalpally district, only 854 houses have been completed so far, although the process for 3,946 houses has been completed. He said that the completion rate of houses in Mulugu district is also less than 50 percent. He directed the concerned collectors to take special action to expedite the construction of pending houses and complete the maximum number of houses by September 15. The goal is a slum-free Telangana. The minister said that the government has sanctioned 2,000 houses for each constituency in the second phase. He suggested that first priority be given to eligible families living in huts. Similarly, eligible families living with thatched roofs or other temporary roofs will be provided with financial assistance of Rs. 2 lakh under the roof replacement scheme to remove the old roof and build an RCC slab. Although the government has made the "Mana Isuku Vahanam" portal available to provide free sand to the beneficiaries of Indiramma Houses to curb illegal charges in the supply of free sand, the review revealed that some private tractor contractors and middlemen are charging exorbitant amounts from the beneficiaries in the name of additional transportation charges. The Minister expressed deep anger over complaints that sand quarries within a five-kilometer radius are charging up to Rs. 5,000 per tractor load of sand. He directed that the free sand supply system be streamlined so that no additional burden is placed on the beneficiaries. He advised the Collectors of all districts to determine the transport rates scientifically and onboard them in the system. Strict action if irregularities are committed in the sanction of Indiramma houses. He instructed the officials to conduct a thorough investigation and take strict action against those responsible if they are found to be committing irregularities in the selection and sanctioning process of Indiramma houses and taking money from the beneficiaries. The Minister clarified that complete transparency should be maintained in the selection of beneficiaries without any irregularities and that the officials should work responsibly to ensure that every eligible family receives government assistance. Services should be provided to farmers and the poor without any difficulties. Minister Ponguleti Srinivasa Reddy said that the main objective of the public government is to provide legal rights to the people, provide a permanent solution to land disputes and realize the dream of owning a house for the poor. He instructed the officials to work in coordination with each other and complete the set targets within the deadline. It was made clear that corruption, irregularities and negligence will not be tolerated in the implementation of government schemes. The meeting was attended by State Panchayat Raj and Rural Development Minister Danasari Anasuya Seethakka, Rajya Sabha member Vem Narender Reddy, Parliament member Porika Balam Nayak, Dr. Kadiyam Kavya, Government Whip Jatoth Ramachandru Nayak, Legislative Council member Basavaraju Saraiah, MLAs Murali Nayak, Kadiyam Srihari, Yashaswini Reddy, Donthi Madhavareddy, KR Nagaraju, Nayani Rajender Reddy, Gandra Satyanarayana Rao, Municipal Chairperson Gugu lothu Jyoti, Revenue, Registration and Housing Department Secretaries Lokesh Kumar, Rajiv Gandhi Hanumanth, V.P. Gautam, District Collectors Sneha Shabarish, Chahat Bajpai, Satyashardha, Sandeep Kumar Jha, Hemant Borkade Sahadeva Rao, Rahul Sharma, Forest Department officials P. Lavanya, G. Mukunda Reddy, B. Nikita, Vikas Meena, G. Kishtagaud, Additional Collectors, Revenue, Registration, Housing and other department officials participated.

"Telangana is working hard to get Maharashtra's permission..." Possibility of transporting 80 TMC to Sundilla by gravity Key inter-state talks in Delhi on September 1. Government's focus on restoration of Pranahita Chevella ayacut

The Telangana government is taking a key step towards reviving the Pranahita-Chevella project. State Irrigation and Civil Supplies Minister S Uttam Kumar Reddy has made it clear that their goal is to get Maharashtra's consent for the construction of a barrage at a level of 152 meters on the Pranahita river at Tummidihatti. He said that if this proposal is implemented, there will be a possibility of releasing about 80 TMC of Pranahita water up to the Sundilla barrage on gravity basis without heavy lifting. Ahead of the inter-state talks between Telangana and Maharashtra to be held in New Delhi on September 1 under the auspices of the Union Ministry of Jal Shakti, Minister Uttam Kumar Reddy held a high-level preparatory meeting at the Secretariat on Saturday. The meeting discussed in detail the technical and legal issues to be addressed in Delhi, the benefits to Telangana of the 152-meter barrage, the impact of flooding in Maharashtra, and the feasibility of moving water through gravity. To avoid danger Renaissance The key meeting in the presence of the CWC will be held on September 1st. The Chairman of the Water Commission (CWC) will preside over the meeting. Senior officials of Telangana and Maharashtra as well as heads of key directorates of the CWC will participate. The main issues to be discussed are the height of the barrage, submergence, technical feasibility and inter-state issues. Uttam Kumar Reddy said that the commencement of the process of official talks between the two states at the Centre is a key step in the revival of life-saving water. He said that the path for these talks has been paved as a result of continuous consultations and correspondence with the Centre under the leadership of CM Revanth Reddy. In the remaining Telangana government's first step is to set a target of 152 meters for Tummidihatti Revival of the Pranahita-Chevella project. 152 meters instead of 148 meters. The minister said that Maharashtra is trying to get its consent to build the barrage at a height of 152 meters instead of the 148 meters agreed upon by the previous government in 2016. He said that increasing the height by an additional two meters will provide significant technical benefits to Telangana in terms of water use and transfer. According to studies by the Central Water and Power Research Station (CWPRS) in Pune, about 1,150 acres in Maharashtra are likely to be inundated at 148 meters and over 2,500 acres at 152 meters. In view of the mandatory discussions with Maharashtra on the issue of inundation, he said that the 152-meter level, which would be of maximum benefit to Telangana, should have been discussed effectively in the past. 80 TMC by gravity alone. Uttam Kumar Reddy said that if a barrage is constructed at a level of 152 meters at Tummidihatti, about 80 TMC of life-saving water can be transported to Sundilla by gravity. With the need to rely on heavy lift irrigation systems reduced, electricity consumption and He said that transportation costs would be significantly reduced Gravity based water transportation would make the irrigation system more financially sustainable. The actual target of the Pranahita-Chevella Sujala Sravanti scheme is 16.40 lakh acres. The minister said that it was initially designed with the aim of providing irrigation to 16.40 lakh acres. He said that during the reconstruction and reorganization of the project, many areas in the original ayacut have lost the benefits of irrigation. Especially in the upper areas of the joint Adilabad district, about 2 lakh acres of effective irrigation has been provided. He said that the resource has been depleted. He said that the last ayacut areas in the joint Medak and Rangareddy districts were also part of the original Pranahita-Chevella project. Life-saving revival for ayacut restoration Uttam Kumar Reddy clarified that the life-saving revival plan being undertaken by the current government is not limited to the construction of a barrage at Tummidihatti. He said that the broader objective is to restore the previously proposed irrigation benefits in Adila Bad, Medak and Ranga Reddy areas. The Inter-State Agreements of 1975 and 1978 The minister stated that the legal and institutional background is the foundation of the Pranahit proposal. He made it clear that there will be no compromise on the benefits of river water that Telangana is entitled to. The government will try to maximize the benefits of Telangana by holding discussions with Maharashtra on the 152-meter proposal in the Delhi meeting on September 1. Uttam Mareddy said that the goal of Pranahit revival is to reduce the dependence on heavy lift irrigation, save electricity costs and provide irrigation water to the maximum ayacut.

Singareni Invited to Enter Critical Minerals Sector in Australia Monash University Delegation Meets Singareni CMD Dr. Buddaprakash Jyoti

Nathari Venkatesh State Bureau Chief Hyderabad August 31“Monash University, one of Australia’s leading research institutions, has invited Singareni to explore opportunities for collaboration in Australia, a country endowed with abundant critical mineral resources.“A delegation from Monash University met Singareni Chairman and Managing Director Dr. Buddaprakash Jyoti at Singareni Bhavan in Hyderabad on Monday evening and briefed him on the opportunities available in Australia’s critical minerals sector. The delegation stated that Australia is keen to encourage partnerships with international organisations in the critical minerals sector and invited Singareni, with its extensive experience in mining, to explore a mutually beneficial partnership.“The delegation observed that there is growing global demand for critical minerals and stated that Monash University is prepared to provide technical expertise in advanced technologies, environmentally sustainable mining practices and commercially viable strategic business initiatives in this sector.“The delegation also highlighted Monash University’s expertise in research, education, industry collaboration and transforming research outcomes into commercially viable technological solutions. It stated that the university has been working with industries and research institutions across the world in various sectors. The meeting primarily focused on the growing global importance of critical minerals and the opportunities available in their exploration, extraction, processing and refining, as well as the manufacture of value-added products. The Monash University delegation also explained the potential for creating additional value through downstream processing and refining rather than limiting operations to the extraction of raw minerals.“The delegation suggested that Singareni could utilise Monash University’s expertise in areas such as sustainable mining, environmentally friendly practices, mine closure planning, advanced technologies and the development of skilled human resources. On the occasion, Singareni officials made a PowerPoint presentation to the Monash University delegation explaining the company’s initiatives to enter the critical minerals sector. They also informed the delegation that Singareni had recently commenced exploration for gold and copper deposits in Karnataka. Singareni

CMD Dr. Buddaprakash Jyoti said that the company is examining opportunities across the world to establish mutually beneficial partnerships in the critical minerals sector. He said that possibilities for future cooperation between Singareni and Monash University would be explored in areas such as research, advanced technology, critical minerals and skill development. He further stated that a high-level team of Singareni officials would soon be sent to Australia to explore the opportunities available there. “The meeting was attended from Singareni Bhavan by Director (Personnel & Finance) Sri. Gowtham Potru and GM (Coordination & Marketing) Sri. T. Srinivas. From the Kothagudem Corporate Office, Director (Operations) L.V. Suryanarayana, Director (PP) K. Venkateshwarlu, GM (BD) Ramdas and GM (Exploration) Sri. Pankaj Kulshreshtha participated. BJP, BRS Baseless Allegations“Ready for discussion on Warangal development“MLA Nayini Rajender Reddy“

Yamsani SAI Bureau Chief Warangal August 31: What was not done in ten years of rule, we did in two and a half years. Don't believe in attempts to block development. West MLA Naini Rajender Reddy said that it is not right for some politically motivated BJP and BRS leaders to make baseless allegations without knowing the facts. The MLA spoke at a media conference organized at the Hanamakonda district Congress party office on Monday. MLA Naini lamented that some leaders are acting as if they cannot earn a living unless they criticize the Congress party. He criticized that they are trying to mislead the people with vulgar language and stories without subject. He suggested that if you want to make political criticism, you should speak with evidence and facts. Naini said that people have not forgotten that the state economy was severely damaged during the rule of previous governments. He alleged that the previous rulers neglected many issues related to employees and government institutions. He said that even though the economic conditions were challenging after the Congress government came to power, steps are being taken to resolve the problems of employees. Rs. 550 crore for drinking water He criticized BJP leaders for doing politics on the issue of fee reimbursement. He said that the Congress government is working sincerely on this issue keeping in mind the future of the students. MLA Naini said that after the Congress government came to power, it has given a lot of importance to the development of Parangal. About Rs.5,300 crore has been spent on the underground drainage project. He said that they are undertaking works with a fund of more than Rs. 550 crore for permanent drinking water facilities. He said that they are modernizing the water supply system keeping in mind the future needs of the city people. He said that they are installing a modern system in place of the filter beds of the Nizam era and are also increasing the capacity of the old pipes. Naini said that it is ridiculous that the BJP and BRS leaders, who have been in power for ten years, are now talking about the Warangal Airport issue. He criticized that they did not bring any relief to the airport when it was in the limelight for ten years. He said that after the Congress government came to power, it allocated huge funds for the needs of the airport and took it forward. In addition to working for the minor ailments Speeding up land acquisition The MLA said that the land acquisition process required for the construction of the ring road as part of the development of Parangal is being expedited. He said that Rs. 25 crores have been sanctioned for the development of the government ITI college recently and funds have also been brought for the polytechnic college. Naini said that CM Revanth Reddy is providing full support for the development of Warangal and is responding positively to the development funds he has asked for. Naini said that the Congress government is also working sincerely on the issue of the Kazipet coach factory. The Congress government has taken steps to acquire land for the coach factory and is working towards implementing the promise in the Bifurcation Act. “They said that they are going ahead. Politics during elections.” He challenged the BJP and BRS leaders to come out for a discussion on every issue related to the development of Kazipet and Warangal and to clarify before the people what they have done in the last ten years and what the Congress government has done since coming to power. Naini said that some leaders are criticizing the Congress party without knowing its history. He said that the role of Congress is very crucial in nation building. He alleged that many institutions and public sector institutions were built by Congress governments for the benefit of the country and that the BJP government is trying to sell them in the name of privatization. Naini criticized that some leaders have come out among the people and started doing politics in the backdrop of the approaching corporation elections. He asked the people not to trust seasonal politicians who come among the people only when the elections are coming. Don't believe baseless allegations He suggested that the people should evaluate the development of Warangal district after the last ten years of the Congress government came to power. “Take a decision by looking at the development happening before your eyes. Do not accept baseless allegations,” MLA Nayini Rajender Reddy appealed to the people. Is caste just an ideology? Or is it a physical reality?

Yamsani SAI Bureau Chief New Delhi August 31 "The argument that "there is no class in India, only caste" is often heard. But, from a Marxist perspective, this is a narrow, unfounded argument. In India, caste and class are not separate; they are intertwined. The ruling-anti-working class forces are using caste as a weapon to undermine the unity of the working class. To understand this comprehensively, the caste-class relationship must be seen in a historical perspective. Is caste just an ideology? Or is it a reality? "Bourgeois ideology presents caste as a purely cultural or religious issue, but Marxism rejects this. The caste system is not just a set of customs; it is a system of material exploitation linked to the relations of production. Historically, caste has determined the division of labor. The caste system has drawn a line on which caste should control which means of production and who should work. Thus, caste has served as a foundation for the exploitation of labor power. Is it conflict between castes and communities? Or unity? While there is some truth to the argument that caste antagonisms prevent class struggle from taking place in India, at a deeper level, caste itself is a form of class exploitation. Economic dominance - Caste dominance: In India, wealth, land, and the means of production are concentrated primarily in the hands of the upper castes. At the same time, the lower castes, Dalits, and Bahujans survive primarily as the working class, landless laborers, and unorganized sector workers. That is, caste is functioning as a class. Caste dominance in the hands of the upper castes is becoming an economic and social tool for the oppression of the working class. "Class exploitation as the foundation of caste A central question that often arises in Indian socio-political debates is: "Is there class in India, or is there only caste? If there are both, what is the relationship between them?" "Traditional bourgeois sociology, as well as some existentialist political tendencies, portray Indian society as a mere intersection of castes. As capitalism develops in India, class contradictions intensify, but the bourgeoisie uses caste identities to sidestep them. On the other hand, some sections of the traditional left also see caste as merely a 'superstructure'. They have waved their hands at the idea of 'feudalism'. But, if we look at it through the historical materialism of Marxism, caste and class in India are not two separate entities; they are complex material realities that are intertwined and breathe life into each other. It is imperative for every activist working for the emancipation of the working class to understand this complexity deeply. From a historical materialist perspective, is caste just an ideology? A material system? "Bourgeois ideology presents caste as a matter of religion, culture, or simply ideas. They argue that caste can be eliminated by preaching that "all are created by the same God," or by providing legal equality. But Marxists prioritize material conditions over feelings. Relations of Production and Caste: In ancient India, the caste system became a material foundation for maintaining monopoly over the means of production (land, resources, labor) and perpetuating the division of labor. The caste system provided a material answer to the questions of who should exploit whose labor? Who should have the right to education, weapons, and land? Who should be left with only hard labor? Division of Labor: As Karl Marx said, even though the physical mode of production in a society changes, the old social relations continue in new forms. As long as feudal (landlord) relations of production were strong in India, the caste system provided the cheap labor force and the mechanism of oppression required for that feudal mode of production. Therefore, caste is not just a cultural custom; it is a socio-economic system of exploitation. The conflict between caste and class coexistence? harmony? There is some truth in the statement that "caste is functioning as class in India", but it is not entirely adequate. The contradiction between caste and class is very dynamic. Consolidation of economic dominance and caste dominance: Even today in India, wealth, industrial ownership, land tenure, and high-level jobs are concentrated primarily in the hands of the upper castes. In contrast, the lion's share of the labor force, landless agricultural laborers, unorganized sector workers, and sanitation workers, mostly come from the Dalit, Adivasi, and Bahujana (SC, ST, OBC) castes. Caste-based class exploitation: An upper caste landlord or capitalist in his factory. Or just a farm worker. Not only class-wise, but also caste-wise. He oppresses even with dominance. There is caste it becomes an additional weapon that the ruling class uses against the working class. Class contradictions within castes: However, this equation does not stop there. Today, class divisions are clearly visible in all castes. A small middle class and bourgeoisie have emerged from the Dalit and Bahujan castes. Similarly, in the backward castes (OBCs), there are serious gaps between the economically strong forces and the poor working classes. Therefore, caste cannot be seen in just one color: serious class contradictions are hidden within the caste itself. Conspiracy of the rulers: Use of caste identities to break the unity of the working class. Capitalism and the domestic bourgeois-landlord coalition constantly implement the principle of "divide and rule" to maintain their power. Transforming class struggle into caste struggle: If the poor, workers and peasants of the country unite against their common enemy, capitalist exploitation, the thrones of the rulers will move. To avoid this, the ruler. Anti-worker forces deliberately incite casteism. Using caste as a pawn in electoral politics, the class consciousness of the working class and inter-caste clashes: By creating animosity between the poor of one caste and the poor of another caste, the ruling media and ideological machinery work to divert the public's attention from the real exploitative capitalist. Casteism is being used as a very dangerous bourgeois weapon to shatter the unity of the working class. Revolutionary solution: Class struggle along with caste abolition. How should the morphists resolve this complex contradiction? The revolutionary movement has always rejected the mechanical argument that "if there is a class struggle, the caste problem will be solved first of all". As Dr. B.R. Ambedkar said, it is impossible to achieve true social equality without the abolition of caste. At the same time, changing only castes without ending capitalist exploitation will only change the form of exploitation, not end it. (Dual Struggle Class struggle: The economic and political struggle for social ownership of the means of production, against exploitation, for minimum wages, an eight-hour workday, and redistribution of wealth. Social revolution: The struggle against Brahminical dominance, untouchability, and caste oppression, in the cultural and social sphere. "These two struggles are not separate; they are two sides of the same coin, and Dalit and Bahujan workers cannot achieve full class consciousness without being freed from caste oppression. Similarly, the abolition of caste is not possible without ending caste exploitation. Class and caste are inseparable complex realities in India. Communists fighting for the emancipation of the working class must understand this contradiction scientifically. While bringing the workers (class) of all castes onto the platform of anti-exploitation, they must stand on the side of the oppressed in every caste. Only when the class struggle is combined with the goal of caste abolition, will the real revolutionary conch shell be filled in India; the construction of an exploitation-free, egalitarian socialist society will be possible. Rahul Gandhi CJP Democratic practice should be taken as an ideal Merugu Rajaiah 9441440791

Rahul Gandhi is a rare leader in Indian parliamentary politics. His grandfather Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru was four, his grandmother Indira Gandhi was four. His father Rajiv Gandhi was the Prime Minister for one term. His grandmother Indira Gandhi was killed by her bodyguards, and his father Rajiv Gandhi was killed in a suicide bombing by the Sri Lanka Liberation Tigers. However, he is working with the people to solve their problems without fear. He undertook the "Bharat Jodo Yatra" with the aim of uniting the people by eradicating the growing economic inequalities, social divisions and political intolerance in the country. He started from Kanyakumari in the state of Kerala on 7 September 2022 and ended in Srinagar on 30 January 2023. He traveled nearly 4,000 kilometers in 12 states and 2 union territories and met the people. Again, on 14 January 2024, he started the "Bharat Jodo Nyaya Yatra" from Thoubal in the state of Manipur and ended in Mumbai, Maharashtra on 20 March 2024. He traveled nearly 6,200 kilometers by bus and foot across 14 states and districts to address the socio-political inequalities of the people, provide youth employment and public. He said that justice should be provided to the poor. During the Pada Yatra, the children, the elderly, the workers, the farmers, the students, the youth came together and I assured them of the difficulties and problems they faced. During the Yatra, Even in real life, he maintains his good health by wearing the most ordinary clothes - pants, T-shirt, healthy eating habits, and martial arts, swimming, running, and yoga whenever he gets time. 20. On 26 May 3, the Any UG (Yesh Naal Eligibility cum Entrance Test Undergraduate) exam was held. Based on the results of this exam, "There is an opportunity to pursue MBBS, BDS, BAMS, BHMS doctor degrees in the existing medical colleges. About 22.8 lakh people appeared for the entrance exam to get a seat in the medical degrees. The Union Education Ministry canceled the NEET exam due to the question papers being tampered with without disclosing the results of the exam. This has caused concern among lakhs of students and their parents. In which, about 20 students who suffered severe mental distress committed suicide, their families alleged. While the youth were recovering from the pain of the cancellation of the NEET exams, allegations were made that Chief Justice Justin Suryakant, who presided over the Supreme Court bench on May 15, described the youth as cockroaches. News went viral that the youth are resorting to social media, journalism and RG applications to attack the system and are living like cockroaches and parasites. The next day, on May 16, it was clarified that the youth were not being addressed, but were being described as the pillars of the country's development. On May 15, the Supreme Court had distorted the words and said that they were referring to the case of those who entered the legal profession with fake and bogus certificates. The explanation came. Political campaign strategist and former student of Boston University, USA, Abhijit Deepke launched the Boddhanka Meme (Google Form Movement) on May 16. The Cockroaches Janata Party (C) JP) was also responsible for the co-convenor Ashutosh Kanka and Saurav Das. I have moved forward with the online meme. The youth movement, which was born on social media as a satire on unemployment and corruption, has gathered thousands of followers in just 20 days. "The protest was called for at Jantar Mantar in Delhi on June 2026. On June 7, a rally was held in Delhi to spread the message. On June 20, a demonstration was held at Antar Mantar. On June 21, water activists were called to the venue. The protests at Antar Mantar from June 22 to 27 received support from across the country. On June 26, prominent environmentalist Engineer Sonam Wangchuk sat on an indefinite hunger strike. In support, All India Students Association (AISA) Neha Bora, Amin Amitoj, Manish Kumar, Hamid, and others from SF (All India Students Federation), SFI (Students Federation of India) Gulab Ran Pratira, Aniket Markebitlu, M. Apart from the BJP and its affiliated parties, MPs from parties like Congress, Trinamool Congress, Samajwadi Party, Aam Aadmi Party, NCP, Shiv Sena and others visited the hunger strike camp and expressed their support. On the 19th day of the indefinite fast, Sonam Wangchuk lost 9.1 kg by Palai 17. On July 18, Sonam Wangchuk was removed from the fast and admitted to Sister Jung Hospital on the basis of a petition filed in the Delhi High Court to prevent her death. With that, Abhijit Deepke, who was on an indefinite fast, resigned on the request of the father of a student who committed suicide due to NEET paper leakage. On July 20, on the first day of the monsoon session, the slogan "Chalo Sannar. Maree Chalo Parliament" received an unexpected response. Nearly one lakh people. Participated. Delhi Police, CRPF, Dapidi Action Force used lathi charge and tear gas on the protesters. The protest venue was destroyed. About 60 protesters were injured. 65 medico-legal cases related to protesters and police were registered at Ram Manohar Lohia Hospital till 7 pm. July 21st Lok Sabha, Rajya Sabha Opposition Leaders Rahul Gandhi, Mallikarjun Kharge, Priyanka Gandhi Vadra. The leaders of Lagu have been accused of protesting against the government. "They tried to march towards Prime Minister Narendra Modi's official residence on Lok Kalyan Marg to protest against the oppression of women. The police immediately alerted them and stopped them, causing them to fall on the road. They protested. Trinamool Congress leader Saket Gokhale filed an application on August 10 alleging that the protesters were fired with "air guns". It is understood that the air gun is a pellet gun. Instead of bullets, small spherical metal pellets are fired. These pellet guns are used for hunting. They are also used in unusual situations. It is reported that pellet guns were used to prevent loss of life after 112 people were killed in police firing during the Kashmir riots in 2010. During these protests, 19-year-old Sail Loraj was seriously injured in pellet gun shots. He has been roaming around the police station since August 14 to submit an application stating that he has more than 200 pellet gun bullets in his body and that the chances of regaining sight in the injured eye are one percent. Rahul Gandhi responded to the police's refusal to take the application and register a case. Pellet gun On August 21, along with leaders like Rahul Gandhi, Priyanka Gandhi and others, Soil Lonaj, who was suffering from a mental illness, went to the Mandir Mard police station to file an application. Since they did not receive any positive response, they went to the Parliament Street police station. This is what Deputy Commissioner of Police Sachin Sharma met. However, "A protest was held in front of the DCP office after facing a protest. After almost six hours of protest, an FIR (First Information Report) was registered against unidentified persons after reviewing the medical reports. It is understood that a case has been registered under Section 118(1) of the Indian Penal Code Act, 2023, which describes voluntary infliction of injury by means of dangerous weapons or implements. A doctor who treats people's illnesses can contribute to the welfare of the people only when he has attained maturity in his practice. It is the minimum responsibility of the government to conduct the exams without leaking the paper that qualifies for admission to study medicine. After years of studying hard day and night and writing the exam, it is easy for the government to cancel the exams on the grounds that the paper has leaked. It is also easy for the government to conduct the exams again. "But there is no way in democracy for the government to suppress the demands of millions of students and their parents for a policy that will prevent government inefficiency. The vote. The exam papers have been leaked many times in the past and the spirit of democracy has been undermined, leading lakhs of people to take to the streets against the government. The Janata Party, which is a metaphor for the country's capital, Delhi, has been fighting without food and sleep for a month, and the Chalo Sansad March, which was beaten up by lorries and tear gas, has led to Dharmendra resigning as the Chief Education Minister on July 25. The case was registered at the Lochab police station after the opposition MP Rahul Gandhi, who was seriously injured by pellet gun firing during the protest, stayed away for six hours. They happily accept power when it is handed over through due process. But they launch attacks only when there is a shirk of responsibility by pointing out management mistakes. If Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan takes moral responsibility for the water test paper leak and resigns and orders an inquiry, the people will be okay with it. But the youth Lakhs of people have come out against the government for making inappropriate comments and insulting the spirit of democracy, saying that exam papers have been leaked many times in the past. The Janata Party, in the guise of a month-long sit-in at Jantar Mantar in the national capital, Delhi. On July 26, Dharmendra Pradhan, who was beaten up by lorries and tear gas shells in the Chalo Sansad Mars, resigned as the Education Minister. Rahul Gandhi, the Lok Sabha MP who was severely injured by pellet gun firing during the protest, waited for 5 hours at the Lorab police station to register a case. Perhaps in a parliamentary democracy, "The victimized citizen at the police station. The leader of each party in the Lok Sabha sat at the police station for six hours to register a case. This may be the same incident. Even now, the representatives of the legislative assemblies, the bureaucracy (bureaucracy) management, supervision, punctuality, service attitude are the hallmarks of democracy. People want to adopt the practice and implement a people-friendly governance.

Ahead of upcoming festive season, PM Modi urges people to go 'Vocal for Local'

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Sunday urged people to embrace the spirit of 'Vocal for Local' during the upcoming festive season and give preference to products made in India while making purchases for their homes. Addressing the 137th episode of his monthly radio programme 'Mann Ki Baat', PM Modi said festivals and celebrations not only help preserve India's traditions and cultural heritage but also provide people with opportunities to connect. He noted that several important festivals are scheduled to be celebrated in the coming days and months. "Our festivals and celebrations not only uphold our traditions but also provide us with opportunities to connect with one another. In the coming days, we are set to celebrate several more significant festivals. The holy festival of Janmashtami falls on September 4th. We will also celebrate Vishwakarma Puja in September. On this occasion, we should honour the artisans, craftspeople, and Vishwakarma friends in our communities," the Prime Minister said. He also pointed out that Deepawali was approaching in the coming months and said preparations for the festival had already begun gradually. "Deepawali is also approaching in a few months, and preparations for it are already gradually underway. During this festive season, I once again urge you to be 'Vocal for Local'," PM Modi said. Emphasising that the 'Vocal for Local' campaign goes beyond purchasing traditional earthen lamps during festivals, the Prime Minister urged people to check whether the products they buy for their homes are manufactured in India. "There must be many people around you who are bringing about significant change in society through their small yet impactful efforts. Do write about them for 'Mann Ki Baat'. The experiences you share could become a source of new inspiration for someone, somewhere in the country," he said. (IANS/UNI)

India rebalances economic partnership with US, China

India has succeeded in rebalancing its economic partnership with both the US and China during 2026 with a negotiated settlement of the tariff dispute that escalated in 2025 with Washington and a calibrated easing of restrictions on Chinese capital for the first time since the border clashes in 2020, according to an article. The US relationship settled first. On February 2, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and President Donald Trump agreed, over the phone, to bring the reciprocal tariff on Indian goods down to 18 per cent from 25 per cent, while dropping the additional 25 per cent punitive duty tied to Russian oil purchases altogether. Both governments have publicly reaffirmed that the India arrangement would hold regardless of the US Supreme Court judgment on tariffs. Washington has since layered on separate Section 301 duties of 10 per cent, though roughly 45 per cent of Indian exports remain outside their scope, and quartz surface products have been hit with safeguard tariffs running as high as 55 per cent. The net effect is a tariff regime that is lower and more predictable than it was a year ago, states the article by Alok Kumar Kanojia in Geopolitical Monitor. Overseas investors put a record $4.2 billion into Indian government bonds in June, the strongest monthly inflow since August 2024, at a time when inflation had fallen to 2.1 per cent, and the RBI Governor was describing the domestic setup as a "Goldilocks" phase. Whether this rebalancing holds will depend on things well outside India's control, from the durability of the Section 301 tariffs to whether the border talks ahead of the BRICS summit produce anything beyond another round of communiqués. Higher education enrolment grows to 4.50 crore in a decade

Higher education enrolment in India has risen steadily in a decade, growing 31.5 per cent from 3.42 crore students in 2014-15 to 4.50 crore in 2023-24, an official factsheet said on Sunday. The gross enrolment ratio (GER) in higher education rose from 23.7 per cent in 2014-15 to 29.5 per cent in 2022-23, and further to 30 per cent in 2023-24. This steady increase reflects growing access to and participation in higher education, supporting NEP 2020's target of raising the GER to 50 per cent by 2035, the official statement said. The All India Survey on Higher Education (AISHE), conducted annually by the Ministry of Education, provides a comprehensive evidence base on Higher Education Institutions (HEIs) across the country. According to AISHE reports, India's higher education network has expanded significantly over the decade. The number of universities increased from 760 in 2014-15 to 1,289 in 2023-24, representing a growth of 69.6 per cent. The number of colleges rose from 38,498 to 48,246, an increase of 25.3 per cent. Standalone institutions increased from 12,276 to 15,221, registering about 24 per cent growth. Female enrolment in higher education has witnessed steady growth over the past decade. It grew by 42.2 per cent, rising from 1.57 crore in 2014-15 to 2.24 crore in 2023-24, outpacing the growth in total enrolment during the decade. Notably, Gender Parity Index (GPI) in higher education improved significantly, rising from 0.92 in 2014-15 to 1.08 in 2023-24. GPI for the SC category increased from 0.91 to 1.11, while ST category GPI rose from 0.81 to 1.08 during the same period. The rising GPI points to increasing parity favouring females. The progress highlights the impact of government initiatives in promoting equity, inclusion, and balanced participation in higher education, said the factsheet. The share of SC enrolment rose from 13.44 per cent in 2014-15 to 15.5 per cent in 2023-24 in total enrolment. During the same period, the share of ST enrolment increased from 4.8 per cent to 6.4 per cent. OBC participation climbed from 32.8 per cent to 40.1 per cent, registering the largest increase in enrolment share among all social categories. According to the factsheet, Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) enrolments in higher education have increased steadily over the past decade. (IANS)

Army Aviation pilots pull off daring rescue at 18,600 ft near Nun Kun

Indian Army Aviation pilots successfully carried out a high-altitude casualty evacuation at 18,600 feet near the Nun Kun massif, overcoming strong winds and extremely challenging terrain to rescue a person stranded on a steep mountain slope. The pilots faced a narrow window for a successful evacuation as daylight rapidly faded at that altitude. At such extreme elevation, thin air significantly reduces engine performance and rotor lift. To compensate for the difficult conditions and reduce the aircraft's weight, the crew removed all non-essential equipment from the helicopter before undertaking the mission. The aircraft was also operated with strictly limited fuel, allowing the crew to maximise the available lift capacity while retaining enough range to complete the evacuation and return from the remote location safely. In a post on X late on Saturday, the official account of the Fire and Fury Corps of the Indian Army said, "In a daring rescue mission at 18,600 ft near Nun Kun, Indian Army Aviation pilots evacuated a casualty from an extremely challenging slope with no landing space and strong winds. With the helicopter lightened by removing non-essential equipment and carrying limited fuel, the aviators executed the evacuation with exceptional precision, courage and determination, including a critical landing with one skid touching the slope." The pilots maintained a precarious low hover while carefully balancing the aircraft, with one skid touching the mountain slope to stabilise the helicopter. (IANS)

South Korea attracts more than 2 million foreign medical tourists in 2025

The number of foreign medical tourists coming to South Korea topped 2 million last year amid growing global interest in the country's medical services, a report showed on Sunday. A total of 2.01 million foreigners visited South Korea for medical, dental and surgical care in 2025, up 71.9 percent from a year earlier, according to an annual report by the state-run Korea Health Industry Development Institute. By country, 618,000, or 30.8 percent, were from China, followed by 600,000 from Japan, 185,000 from Taiwan and 173,000 from the United States, reports Yonhap news agency. Among dermatology clinics, 459,000 Chinese patients received treatment, followed by 399,000 Japanese patients. At plastic surgery clinics, 97,000 Japanese patients received treatment, followed by 57,000 Chinese patients. Meanwhile, separate data by the Korea Tourism Organization showed that foreign medical tourists spent 213.08 billion won

(US$154.35 million) in July, up 66.5 percent from a year earlier. The monthly figure remained above 200 billion won for five straight months from March through July. By country, Chinese visitors spent 57.7 billion won, followed by Americans with 44 billion won and Japanese with 28.5 billion won. By type of establishment, 54.9 percent of foreign medical tourists' spending was at dermatology clinics, followed by plastic surgery clinics at 19.3 percent and pharmacies at 12.9 percent. (IANS)

Tim Cook's Apple era: From $350 bn giant to $4 tn powerhouse

When Tim Cook took over as chief executive of Apple in August 2011, following Steve Jobs' second departure from the company amid his deteriorating health, expectations were sky-high and doubts were equally strong. Cook was widely viewed as an operations and supply-chain expert rather than a traditional product guy like Jobs. The key question at the time was whether he could sustain Apple's extraordinary run of innovation and growth. Fifteen years later, the numbers offer a compelling answer. Under Cook, Apple's market capitalisation has surged from roughly $350 billion to around $4 trillion, while its stock has jumped nearly 25-fold. Apple shares, which traded at about $13 when Cook assumed the top job, have risen 2,359.2% to $319.70 at the latest close. Apple's annual revenue has also grown dramatically, rising from about $108 billion in 2011 to more than $400 billion. The expansion has been supported by resilient iPhone demand, a rapidly growing services business and the company's continued global expansion. One of Cook's biggest achievements has been transforming Apple into a business that extends well beyond hardware. Services including the App Store, Apple Music and Apple Pay have become an increasingly important growth engine. The services segment now generates more than $100 billion annually and carries broader margins than Apple's hardware business. Cook also oversaw a major shift in Apple's chip strategy. The company moved away from its dependence on Intel and began designing its own processors for Mac computers under the Apple Silicon platform. (IANS/UNI)

Haryana aims to reduce maternal, neonatal mortality

Haryana Chief Minister Nayab Singh Saini said on Sunday that the state government is implementing the 'SAMRIDHI' to reduce maternal and neonatal mortality and ensure timely and quality healthcare services for pregnant women. The state government aims to register every pregnant woman in the state on the portal and continuously monitor her health throughout pregnancy, during delivery and in the post-partum period, he added. The Chief Minister said the 'SAMRIDHI' portal, state-level command centre and 102

Maternal and Child Health Call Centre will be integrated through modern technology. The integrated system will help ensure better healthcare services for pregnant women, timely identification of high-risk pregnancies and prompt referral to higher-level health facilities whenever required. The Chief Minister added that every pregnant woman will be mandatorily registered and provided a unique identity, enabling all health information related to her pregnancy to be securely maintained at a single place. The system will cover women receiving treatment at government hospitals as well as private hospitals and medical colleges. Irrespective of the hospital where a woman receives treatment, her essential health information will be updated on the portal through her identity, ensuring the availability of a comprehensive digital record of her pregnancy. Under the 'SAMRIDHI' system, high-risk pregnancies will be identified on time. ANMs, doctors and health officials will receive timely information and alerts regarding necessary examinations, upcoming deliveries, follow-ups and other services. (IANS/UNI)

"Indiramma Houses Towers": First Step Towards Home Ownership for 7,340 Families

State Bureau Chief Hyderabad August 31: Selection process conducted with complete transparency and without political interference; application window open until September 3 for Musheerabad, Chandra yangutta, LB Nagar, and Goshamahall; facility available to correct constituency details online. The lottery process to select beneficiaries for the first phase of 7,340 flats part of the state government's prestigious "Indiramma Houses Towers" scheme aimed at realizing the dream of home ownership for low-income groups within the Outer Ring Road limits has been completed. The lottery process, spanning four days and covering 16 Assembly constituencies in the city, concluded on Monday. It is noteworthy that the process was inaugurated on August 28 by the Hon'ble Minister for Revenue, Housing, and Information, Sri Ponguleti Srinivasa Reddy. "Lotteries were conducted to select beneficiaries for 480 flats in each of the 15 constituencies, with the exception of the Secunderabad Cantonment constituency.

Since only 140 flats are being constructed in the first phase within the Secunderabad Cantonment area, the lottery there was conducted for those 140 flats. Beneficiaries for a total of 7,340 flats were selected through a lottery system. The government undertook these pilot projects on available public land with the aim of providing housing within the same constituency where residents live, thereby preventing the need for them to relocate and abandon their livelihoods, children's education, or jobs. The demand survey conducted by the Telangana Housing Board for the 7,340 proposed flats attracted 60,720 applications. Following a preliminary screening, a lottery was conducted openly and with complete transparency free from any political or other interference involving the eligible applicants. The lottery process took place between August 28 and August 31 within the respective constituencies, in the presence of applicants, public representatives, and officials. Applicants expressed satisfaction with the lottery process. This initiative brought fresh joy to thousands of low-income families selected in the lottery ahead of the festive season. Applications are being accepted until September 3 for four additional constituencies. While there are 25 Assembly constituencies within the Outer Ring Road (ORR) limits, the first phase of the lottery process has already been completed in 16 of them. Applications are currently being accepted for 'Indiramma Illu' (Indiramma Homes) towers in four other constituencies: Musheerabad, Chandra yangutta, LB Nagar, and Goshamahall. The deadline for submitting applications is September 3. The Telangana Housing Board has urged eligible individuals to avail themselves of this opportunity. The government is taking steps to identify suitable sites in the remaining constituencies and issue notifications in a phased manner. Did you enter the wrong constituency? Option to change it online. It came to the Housing Board's notice that some applicants for the 'Indiramma Houses Towers' had mistakenly selected a constituency other than their actual residential constituency. To avoid inconvenience to such applicants, the Telangana Housing Board has provided a facility on its website to update the constituency details entered in the application. The Board advised applicants who selected the wrong constituency to utilize this opportunity and correct their details. Details of selected candidates available online Scope for raising objections. Housing Board Vice-Chairman Sri V.P. Gautham announced that the details of applicants selected through the lottery are being made available to the public on the official website tghb.telanganagov.in. He stated that an opportunity is being provided for the public to raise objections if they possess information indicating that any of the selected candidates do not meet the scheme's eligibility criteria. It was stated that objections regarding the selection could be submitted online via the Housing Board website and that teams of officials would conduct field-level verification to examine the details of every applicant selected in the lottery. Allotments will be finalized only after verifying eligibility criteria such as family details, residence, income, and existing home ownership. "The government's goal is to ensure that 'Indiramma' houses reach truly eligible families with complete transparency. That is why we are implementing a multi-level verification system that includes the lottery process, the acceptance of public objections, and field-level inspections," said Mr. V.P. Gowtham. He urged applicants selected in the lottery to cooperate with the visiting officials by providing the necessary information and documents. Those who did not get a house need not be disheartened more projects coming soon Housing Board Vice Chairman Mr. V.P. Gowtham stated that applicants who applied in the first phase but were not selected in the lottery need not be disheartened. "This is just the beginning. The process of providing homes to eligible low-income families will continue uninterrupted. More families will get the opportunity in upcoming projects," he said.

Unified Warangal District Mala Mahanadu leaders besiege the State Secretariat The G.O. 99 given in the SC classification should be cancelled "The roster point should be reduced from 22 to 16" National Mala Mahanadu State Secretary Thuppari Narasimha Swamy

Reporter Parkala August 31: The unified Warangal district leaders who besieged the State Secretariat on the call of the National Mala Manadu, calling for the cancellation of the 99 G.O. given with the state classification and amending the roster system so that the number is 16, accused the National Mala Manadu State Secretary Thuppari Narasimha Swamy of injustice to the Mala caste in the SC classification and the state government of dividing the Mala castes in the state in the name of classification and making the Dalits unfit for development. The State Secretariat was besieged on the call of the State Committee President Pilli Sudhakar. If injustice is done to Dalits in the name of classification, then keep quiet. Reservation should be increased for Dalits, but they said that they will confront the state government at every step, which is doing injustice to them by separating them in the name of classification. They said that they will not hesitate to attack the houses of MLAs in all constituencies of the state. If necessary, all MLAs from the Mala caste should not hesitate to resign. They should recognize that caste is more important than their positions, otherwise they will confront the Mala ministers at every step in Telangana. They said that they will all come together and see the government through, they said. The leaders of the joint Warangal district participated in this program in a large scale. District leaders Pasuvula Lakshminarayana Vangeti Prabhakar, Geesukonda Mandal President Nampally Srinivas and others participated in this program.
