A self-Respecting Speaker Of Bahujan Gaddar

Masterji is a unique pen and voice in Telugu cultural history. He has a history of devoting his life to songs for five decades. Not only that. He has carved out his own unique path in the era when the rise of red songs is uplifting the society. He has known from the beginning that social gaps must be removed before any change can come to this country. Thus, he dedicated his youth to art. Forgetting home and family, he is ready to awaken the nation. It is easy for anyone to walk on the path walked by the four. That is, to carve out a new path for oneself is not a matter of words. One has to face many things. Blame, criticism, blunt words, one thing is a challenge for oneself every day. Faced with such challenges, Masterji stood defiantly raising his self-respecting cultural flag on Telugu soil. Gaddar started in the 1970s itself. Vitthal Rave, who shouldered the revolutionary song, later became a Gaddar. At the same time, Gangadhar Sriaram, who went to teach dance forms to Janata Mandali artists, was this Masterji. He was a multifaceted genius. It was Masterji who taught other artists like Gaddar and Gaddar the rhythmic steps that suit the song. Gaddar himself said this on several occasions on stages. The revolutionary song created songs like folk songs, vallesuddus, and qawwali. But Masterji's song was not like that, he added a touch of fine music to the song. And even in terms of material, Masterji adopted a new path. That is the philosophical theory of the original. Masterji wrote songs with an original perspective before people like Kotha Shivamurthy, Gyara Yadaya, and Erra Upali. As Mahatma Jyotirao Phule mentioned in his book 'Gulangiri', he saw the history of India as before the Aryans and after the Aryans. Masterji was the one who broke the conspiracy of cultural aggression in all sectors. He rejected the Marxist philosophy that saw caste as a superficial aspect only. He appealed to Ambedkar that there would be no revolution in this country until the caste problem was solved. That is why he wrote many songs focusing on the caste problem. There may have been one or two songs on caste in the revolutionary movement. But, like Masterji, they did not show the solution to the caste problem in Ambedkarism. No matter which song Masterji took, it teaches the lesson of Ambedkar's political philosophy. It tells us historically why this society is like this. That is the philosophical strength of Masterji's songs. By the 1990s, the revolutionary movement on the one hand and existential consciousness on the other hand were suffocating Telugu society. During such a period, Kaniram stepped into Telugu culture. At that time, Kanshiram had great confidence in Masterji's song. He was confident that only Masterji could create a song that would awaken the masses. Masterji wrote many songs, following Kanshiram's call for the Bahujanas, who constitute one hundred and eighty-five percent, to get state power. He dismantled the exploitative strongholds of the ruling castes. He wrote songs like "Jojora Dalitanna" showing how the upper caste parties were deceiving the Bahujanas. He also exposed the caste system in the education system by saying "Vintiva Mallanna College Saduvulla Kulam Ke Gammathu". He praised the food habits of Dalits with self-respect by saying "Eddukura Tinnode Nethka Mudgunnade". In 2001, he participated in the Durban Conference in South Africa and wrote and sang the song "Deesreekhae) Am Emulae" and gained fans from all over the world. Thus, although there are many gems in Masterji's songs, the song that comes to mind when his name is mentioned is "Anduko Dandalu Baba Ambedkar...". This song has also completed fifty years. That was a time when the name of Ambedkar was not very well known to the common people. At such a time, Masterji presented the life history of Ambedkar through this song. Till today, how many songs on Ambedkarit is no exaggeration to say that this is the song that became the anthem of the Ambedkarist movement in Telugu.

Police assaults for protesting in black shirts? Former Minister Errabelli Dayakar Rao

Yamsani Sai Bureau Chief Warangal September 7: The treatment of women MLAs in the Assembly was despicable. They are perpetrating a barbaric rule using the police as a tool. Women have gained nothing during the 1,000 days of Congress rule. Former Minister Errabelli Dayakar Rao condemned the police assault on BRS MLAs and MLCs who were protesting in black shirts outside the Telangana Assembly, calling it inhumane. He questioned where these rules and logic were when Rahul Gandhi had gone to Parliament wearing a black shirt to protest in the past. He demanded to know, "Is there one rule for you and another for us?" Meanwhile, responding to a call from the BRS leadership to protest against the 1,000 days of Congress rule, a 'Vanta-Varpu' (cooking and dining) program was organized at the Palakurthi mandal headquarters. This event was led by Errabelli Dayakar Rao, his wife (and Errabelli Charitable Trust Chairperson) Usha Dayakar Rao, and BRS women leaders. Additionally, a road blockade was staged to protest the police assault on BRS legislators, and an effigy of CM Revanth Reddy was burned. District and mandal-level BRS leaders, women, and others participated in the program. Speaking on the occasion, Errabelli Dayakar Rao lashed out, describing the act of stifling the voices of women legislators and pulling at their sarees right within the Assembly as a despicable act. He expressed dismay at the inhumane behavior of the police within the Legislative Assembly itself. He criticized Revanth Reddy for running a "demonic regime" by using the police as a tool. Errabelli pointed out that even though the Congress government has completed 1,000 days in office, it has failed to fully implement the "Six Guarantees." He questioned why the "Mahalakshmi" scheme which promised Rs. 2,500 per month to women was not being implemented. He demanded that Revanth Reddy explain to the public and to women why the promises to provide them with scooters and laptops had not been fulfilled. He criticized the government for deceiving women with hollow promises regarding the Kalyana Lakshmi and Shaadi Mubarak schemes, as well as the pledge to provide tulam gold. He questioned why the promised monthly pensions of Rs. 4,000 for the elderly and single women, and Rs. 6,000 for persons with disabilities, were not being implemented. He warned that the Congress party would face its downfall if the Kalyana Lakshmi and Shaadi Mubarak schemes were not continued. Welfare Prioritized Under KCR's Rule. Errabelli stated that the public and women had lived happily during the tenure of the previous BRS government. He noted that schemes like Kalyana Lakshmi and the KCR Kit were implemented even before the people asked for them. He highlighted that the pension for the elderly was raised from Rs. 500 to Rs. 2,000, and a pension of Rs. 2,000 was provided to single women. He further mentioned that the KCR government worked to empower persons with disabilities by providing them with a pension of Rs. 4,000, enabling them to stand on their own feet. Errabelli stated that there are only two years left before the state is rid of the Congress, after which the KCR government will return to power. He asserted that KCR is the only leader who has worked and continues to work for the welfare of all sections of society. He further remarked that KCR's governance is the ultimate safeguard for Telangana.

MLA Kadiyam Srihari lashed out in the Assembly against the remarks made by BRS MLC Tata Madhu regarding the Speaker

Dayyala Rakesh Bhanu State Bureau Chief Hyderabad September 7: "It is distressing to hear the comments made by BRS leaders about the Speaker. They utter such arrogant words because they cannot tolerate the progress of Dalits. KCR never had genuine affection for Dalits; in fact, he harbors an aversion towards them. He implemented constitutional reservations only because it was mandatory, not out of any love for the community. Back then, he denied the status of Leader of the Opposition to Bhatti Vikramarka simply to avoid according him equal stature. Now, they avoid attending the Assembly because having a Dalit as Speaker would require them to stand up and address him as 'Mr. Speaker' (Adhyaksha). The BRS party and KCR have absolutely no respect for the Legislative Assembly. They speak about the Chief Minister in a disrespectful, singular, and arbitrary manner. Instead of utilizing the opportunity to discuss public issues within the Assembly, they engage in rowdy behavior outside the House. It is inappropriate to strip off shirts and act like hooligans towards the police; the public is observing our conduct and behavior as legislators. The House should unanimously approve the resolution introduced by the Chief Minister. Immediate legal action must be taken against those who made inappropriate remarks about the Speaker. The entire Assembly must stand in support of the Speaker. KCR stays away from the Assembly out of arrogance, unwilling to stand up and address a Dalit Speaker as "Mr. Speaker." Former Deputy Chief Minister and Station Ghanpur MLA Kadiyam Srihari lashed out at BRS MLC Tata Madhu for his comments regarding Legislative Assembly Speaker Gaddam Prasad Kumar. Speaking in the Telangana Legislative Assembly, Srihari expressed anger at the attitude of BRS leaders. He voiced his distress over the remarks made by BRS leaders against the Speaker, criticizing them for making arrogant statements simply because they cannot tolerate Dalits rising to high positions. He condemned the BRS leaders for harboring a sense of entitlement, believing they can say whatever they please regardless of the status of the Dalits involved. Srihari asserted that former Chief Minister KCR never held genuine affection for Dalits; aside from implementing constitutionally mandated reservations, he did nothing wholeheartedly for their welfare. He recalled how, in the past, the status of Leader of the Opposition was denied to Bhatti Vikramarka and Dalits solely to avoid according him equal status and respect. He alleged that KCR is currently avoiding the Assembly out of arrogance and the fear that, should he attend, he would be compelled to stand up and address the presiding officer as "Speaker" (Adhyaksha) a position currently held by a Dalit. They criticized BRS and KCR for confining themselves to their farmhouse instead of attending the Assembly, despite enjoying all the privileges and status associated with the role of the Leader of the Opposition; this, they argued, reflects the lack of respect BRS and KCR have for the Legislative Assembly. They lashed out at BRS leaders for engaging in hooliganism and rowdy behavior outside the House, rather than utilizing the opportunity to discuss public issues and question the government within the Assembly. They warned that it is unbecoming of public representatives to strip off their shirts and behave recklessly towards the police, noting that the public closely observes the conduct of legislators. They stated that BRS leaders are insulting the Assembly and the government by addressing the popularly elected Chief Minister disrespectfully and making reckless remarks during press conferences. In this context, they demanded that the House unanimously approve the resolution introduced by the Chief Minister in the Assembly and that immediate, strict legal action be taken against those who made inappropriate comments about the Speaker. They also called upon the entire Assembly to stand in support of the Speaker.

Two Years Of Coalition Rule 4 Pluses 3 Minuses

Inter State Bureau Amaravati September 7: "The Telugu Desam, Jana Sena and BJP coalition government in Andhra Pradesh has been in power for almost two and a half years (since June 2024). In this context, it is interesting to see how public opinion is on the coalition's rule. Moreover, public opinion has also become crucial for future decisions and strategies for moving forward in the run-up to the next elections. In this light, analysts say that people currently have mixed opinions on the coalition. "According to field observations, political analyses, and various surveys, public opinion is said to be moving in 4 pluses and 3 minuses. When it comes to positive aspects, the capital Amaravati and Polavaram renovation are working well. People are expressing positivity towards the acceleration of the capital Amaravati works, which were stalled during the previous government's tenure, and special attention is being paid to the Polavaram works. Similarly, the increase in welfare schemes and pensions has also brought positivity to the government. Increasing social pensions and providing them to the beneficiaries on time has created good trust among the people. At the same time, the atmosphere is also somewhat positive regarding the implementation of the Super Six promises given in the last elections. The phased launch of schemes like 'Salute to Mother' and 'Deepam 2.0' is having a positive impact on women voters. "Similarly, the investment and employment situation has also increased the positivity. Bringing big companies like Tata TCS and IBM to the state and revitalizing industries has increased the confidence in employment generation for the youth. Now, when it comes to the minuses... the delay in implementing the promises has become a problem for the government. There is some dissatisfaction among the people over the non implementation of the promises in the 'Super Six' such as unemployment allowance and 1500 for women. Similarly, the opposition parties are alleging that the government is taking on large amounts of debt for welfare schemes and development, which will further worsen the state's financial situation in the future. Surveys show that these are also being discussed among the people. Critics say that actions such as filing cases against those who criticize the government on social media and harassing opposition leaders are against the spirit of democracy.

We Will Protect the Rights of Singareni Workers Promises Made to Singareni Workers Must Be Implemented Immediately

Former MLA Gandra Venkata Ramana Reddy“

Yamsani Sai, Bureau Chief, Warangal September 7: The Congress government has ignored the promises made in its election manifesto. Workers need not fear anyone; we stand by you. Former MLA Gandra Venkata Ramana Reddy participated in a protest organized by TBGKS at their office in the Bhupalpally district headquarters, demanding the immediate implementation of promises made to Singareni workers in the Congress party's election manifesto. BRS and TBGKS leaders were present. On this occasion, workers including Puli Avinash, Kantala Manoj, Karu Kamalakar Reddy, Komara Sudheer, Konda Anudeep, and Jakku Kiran joined TBGKS in the presence of former MLA Gandra. "Speaking on the occasion, Gandra criticized the Congress party for making numerous promises to woo Singareni workers during the elections but completely ignoring their implementation after coming to power. He demanded that the government immediately take clear decisions regarding workers' welfare, rights, wages, and amenities. He further criticized the government for attempting to obstruct democratic protests organized by BRS and TBGKS by arranging counter-protests and using the police force. He stated that no matter how much print and electronic media are controlled, it is impossible to hide the facts in the age of social media. He expressed confidence that the BRS-affiliated TBGKS would achieve a resounding victory whenever the recognized union elections at Singareni are held. He confidently asserted that TBGKS would hoist its flag in Bhupalpally by expanding its strength from 400 to 800, 8,000 to 16,000, and 16,000 to 32,000 members. He emphasized that workers need not fear anyone, nor do they need to rely on anyone's charity for their livelihood. He noted that the workers toil hard to ensure production for the Singareni organization and made it clear that the BRS party would always stand by them to protect their legitimate rights. He also stated that there is a need to establish a mining engineering college in Bhupalpally. He stated that had he continued as an MLA, establishing a mining engineering college would have been a key item on his agenda. He recalled that during the BRS tenure, several developmental initiatives such as a degree college, a junior college, a medical college, and the establishment of the district headquarters were brought to Bhupalpally. He challenged the current government to sanction a mining engineering college for Bhupalpally within the remaining two months if they possessed the genuine will to do so. He assured that if the government failed to act, a BRS government led by KCR would establish the mining engineering college in Bhupalpally immediately upon returning to power. He noted that the presence of underground and open-cast mining operations in Bhupalpally offered excellent opportunities for local youth in the mining sector. Furthermore, he announced a policy to provide a 10% special reservation for the children of Singareni workers in mining engineering colleges. He emphasized that the BRS and TBGKS would continue to fight for the protection of workers' rights and the future of Bhupalpally's youth. "TBGKS leaders, workers, BRS party leaders, and activists participated in this event.

'Mindful Naxal' Given A Pill They All Came Out“

National Bureau Chief New Delhi September 7: Prime Minister explains to students the failures of previous governments • Criticism that the then government failed to deal with the 2008 financial crisis • Reveals that his government has dealt with crises like Corona and war effectively 'Wants India to fail. Did you give the 'Dimagi Naxal' pill? All of them "came out Prime Minister Narendra Modi has once again lashed out at opposition leaders in his own style. Reiterating the term 'Dimagi Naxal' that he had used earlier, he said that it worked like a homeopathic pill and exposed the true nature of the critics. Yesterday the Prime Minister addressed the centenary celebrations of Shri Ram College of Commerce (SRCC) in Delhi. Addressing the youth on this occasion, he made sharp criticisms by comparing the performance of his government with that of the previous governments. On this occasion, Modi said.. "You may have heard my speech from the Red Fort. I gave a homeopathic pill called 'Dimagi Naxal' from the Red Fort. According to the principles of homeopathy, when treatment is started, the disease initially becomes more severe. That is the nature of homeopathy," he explained. "Similarly, when I gave the 'Dimagi Naxal' pill, the Dimagi Naxals started coming out one by one. Now people are also seeing the true colors of those who are promoting this disease," he said. The Prime Minister severely criticized the way the then governments dealt with the crises faced by the country in the past. "I have told you many things. 'What is this? This is a country of 140 crore people. It is very easy. What has Modi done new?' Some may think. But is it really that easy? I want to take you back to the old days once again," he said, addressing the students. Referring to the Kedarnath disaster of 2013, he recalled "Then the entire government was in a quandary. They did not know what to do or how to respond." Similarly, he criticized the then government for not being able to deal effectively with the global financial crisis that hit in 2008. "When the banking crisis hit in 2008 the then government tried to cover up the crisis for years. They did not even have the courage to face it. India's entire banking system was brought to the brink of collapse," he said. Describing the challenges his government faced, Modi explained how it bravely faced them. "First came the Covid-19 pandemic that paralyzed the world. Then came the war between Russia and Ukraine. Trade and supply chains became weapons. There was a crisis in West Asia. Every time they said, 'India will not stand anymore'. My biggest admirers (critics) rejoiced, saying, 'Now Modi is trapped, he has fallen, now he will be crushed.' But the blessings of my countrymen are so powerful that every wish of those who want India to fail is not fulfilled," Modi commented. Modi had also visited the SRCC in 2013 when he was the Chief Minister of Gujarat. His speech to the students then became very popular on social media ahead of the 2014 Lok Sabha elections.

Open Chess Tournament for Unrated Players Under 15...

Boddu Sharath Kumar, Reporter, Dharma sagar | September 7: Organizers announced that an open chess tournament for unrated players under the age of 15 will be held on September 11 at the ZPHS Boys' School in Dhammasagar. The event is being organized by the Dhammasagar Chess Club in collaboration with Chess Network, the Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam Foundation, and the Lions Club of Hanumakonda Haritha. Aitha Srinivas, General Secretary of the Dhammasagar Chess Club, stated that the tournament will begin at 9:00 AM and urged schools, chess academies, and parents to encourage talented students to participate. He requested that player registrations be completed by September 10. The organizers emphasized that chess is not merely a game of winning and losing, but an intellectual sport that fosters essential life skills in students—such as critical thinking, foresight, strategic decision-making, memory, concentration, patience, and self-control. It was noted that qualities such as thinking before every move, anticipating an opponent's strategy, evaluating alternatives, and learning from mistakes are also beneficial to students in their academic pursuits. Organizers stated that introducing chess at a young age fosters the habit of examining problems from various perspectives and enhances decision-making skills, patience, competitiveness, and sportsmanship. Therefore, they emphasized the need to promote chess in schools not merely as a competitive sport, but as an integral part of the educational process. A special reception committee was constituted at the ZPHS Boys' School in Dhammasagar to ensure the tournament was conducted efficiently. Dr. Ponnala Ramayya and Krishna swamy served as chief patrons, while Venkata rajam, Devunuri Anand, and Lion Srinivas acted as patrons; Sridevi is the Mandal Educational Officer of Dhammasagar. Dharma Prakash (School Complex HM) serves as Working President, Aitha Srinivas as General Secretary, and Kavitha Suresh and Venugopal as Vice-Presidents. Prasanna is the Treasurer, while Padmaja, Rajamma, and Kiranmayi serve as Joint Secretaries. Ramakrishna, Suresh, and Srinivas are the Organizing Secretaries. Physical Directors from various schools, along with representatives and organizers from chess academies, will serve as committee members. A tournament poster was released on this occasion. Subsequently, the organizers urged various schools and chess academies in the district to ensure the participation of a large number of students. They appealed to donors, education enthusiasts, and sports lovers to support the event with cash or materials to further promote chess among students. They assured that the support received would be utilized for the students' benefit—specifically for chess boards, sports equipment, training, and the organization of future competitions. It was also announced that a working lunch would be provided to the participating players. The organizers stated that the event is being conducted with the motto "Chess in every school, thinking power in every student," and that their primary objective is to unearth the hidden chess talent among rural students and pave the way for them to compete at district, state, and national levels.

A Golden Path for Telangana Sports "Telangana Sports Policy to Transform Rural Talent into World Champions. Dhanusari Swapna "M.A. in Political Science Kakatiya University "B.P.Ed. – Palamuru University "NIS Sports Coach – Bengaluru "Mulugu District"

Gajula Praveen Kumar Bureau Chief Mulugu September 7: "The Telangana Sports Policy-2025, formulated by the State Government with the ambitious goal of positioning Telangana at the forefront of national and international sports, is set to bring new hope into the lives of sportspersons. Designed under the visionary leadership of Chief Minister A. Revanth Reddy, the policy marks the beginning of a new chapter in Telangana's sporting history. The unique feature of the policy is that it connects sports not only with physical fitness and recreation but also with education, employment health and personality development. The Government has prepared a comprehensive action plan to provide talented athletes with training, nutritious food, sports equipment, medical assistance, insurance, scholarships, cash incentives and employment opportunities. The policy is built on five major pillars: sports governance, a comprehensive sporting ecosystem, long-term athlete development, infrastructure development and career opportunities. The establishment of the Sports Hub of Telangana to coordinate sports associations, educational institutions, coaches, government departments and private organisations reflects the Government's foresight. Recognising the importance of identifying talent at an early age, the Government has given priority to talent scouting at the school level. Students will be scientifically assessed on parameters such as speed, physical fitness, endurance, body structure and sporting ability. Selected students will receive long-term training suited to their age, interests and capabilities. The Chief Minister's Cup competitions, conducted at the village, mandal, district and State levels, will serve as an excellent platform for identifying rural sporting talent. The establishment of the Young India Physical Education and Sports University is a historic step in the development of sports in Telangana. It will emerge as a centre for education and research in sports training, exercise science, sports medicine, nutrition, mental health and sports management. Through the Young India Sports Academy, world-class training will be provided in various disciplines, along with international coaching and overseas training opportunities. The Government has also announced substantial cash incentives for athletes who bring glory to Telangana. Gold medalists at the Olympic and Paralympic Games will receive ₹6 crore, silver medalists ₹4 crore and bronze medalists ₹2.5 crore. Even athletes participating in these prestigious events will receive an incentive of ₹15 lakh. "At the Asian and Para Asian Games, gold medalists will receive ₹3 crore, silver medalists ₹1.5

crore and bronze medalists ₹75 lakh. At the Commonwealth and Para Commonwealth Games, gold medalists will receive ₹1.5 crore, silver medalists ₹75 lakh and bronze medalists ₹50 lakh. Extending incentives to the coaches who train these champions further reflects the Government's comprehensive vision. The existing two per cent horizontal reservation for meritorious sportspersons in direct recruitment to government jobs provides them with valuable career security. Along with scholarships and educational assistance, athletes will be given opportunities to build careers as coaches, physical education teachers, sports administrators and mentors after completing their competitive sporting careers. Pension support for retired athletes and coaches also demonstrates the Government's respect for their contribution. "The policy gives special priority to girls, women and para-athletes by providing professional training, medical assistance, sports equipment, residential facilities and security. This inclusive approach reflects the Government's commitment to ensuring equal sporting opportunities for all. "The establishment of the Telangana Sports Development Fund is another significant decision aimed at providing continuous financial support for sports development. The decision to earmark ten per cent of the Crucial Balance Fund available with District Collectors every year for sports development will greatly benefit rural athletes. These funds will support the development of playgrounds, training centres, sports equipment, competitions and scholarships. Young people in the predominantly tribal Mulugu district possess natural physical ability, determination and sporting talent. The Telangana Sports Policy will expand opportunities to identify talented athletes from remote villages and tribal habitations and provide them with scientific training. "The policy will particularly benefit the youth of Mulugu district in disciplines such as archery, athletics, kabaddi, volleyball and hockey. By effectively utilising the training, financial assistance, sports equipment, residential facilities, medical services and employment opportunities provided by the State Government, Mulugu district can undoubtedly produce athletes of national and international stature. "The Telangana Sports Policy-2025 is not merely a policy document. It is a comprehensive action plan to identify talent and transform promising athletes into world-class champions. By bringing athlete welfare, scientific training, modern infrastructure, substantial cash incentives, education and employment opportunities under a single policy, the State Government has demonstrated its visionary approach. "Under the leadership of Chief Minister A. Revanth Reddy, the People's Government is honouring sporting talent and paving a golden path for the future of Telangana's youth. This landmark policy, designed to transform talent emerging from rural playgrounds into international medals, is ushering in a golden era for sports in Telangana.

Vegetables that generate steady income should be cultivated using water from borewells and open wells

Rakam Radhika Bureau Chief, Mahabubabad September 7: Promoting crop diversification under the 'Mission Vaividhyam' program, in accordance with the directives of District Collector Smt. Sneha Shabarish, IAS. While the district requires vegetable cultivation across 10,000 acres to meet demand, it is currently being cultivated on only 2,000 acres. Cultivation needs to be expanded to foster economic growth. Vegetable farming offers the potential for an income of lakhs of rupees, creates self-employment opportunities for rural youth and Self-Help Groups (SHGs), and attracts various government subsidies. A field visit was conducted on Monday in Sitarampuram village, Nellikudur Mandal, to inspect vegetable cultivation using trellis systems and mulching techniques. There is significant market demand for commonly consumed vegetables such as tomatoes, brinjal, okra, ridge gourd, bottle gourd, bitter melon, green chilies, cluster beans, leafy greens, beetroot, carrot, radish, cabbage, cauliflower, elephant foot yam, colocasia, ivy gourd, snake gourd, and onions. District Horticulture and Sericulture Officer Jinugu Mariyanna stated that by raising three to four crops annually, farmers can earn an income exceeding two lakh rupees per acre. He stated that one can earn a monthly income comparable to that of a software employee. He advised farmers to achieve financial growth by reducing the cultivation area of crops like paddy, maize, cotton, and chili in favor of growing vegetables. He urged farmers to cultivate vegetables which are crucial for cancer prevention using natural farming methods. Eat all vegetables; hate cancer.

Are Positions and Worldly Dispute

In recent times, changes and additions in the politics of the country, especially in the Telugu states, have not only aroused interest but also caused thought. Some key leaders and ministers of the ruling parties are changing here and there. Cases are being filed in the courts over defections. Those who have been in power for a long time are the ones who are telling others moral principles. They are complaining that those who have come from outside are being ignored while giving a big push to those who have always been there. Those who were the most loyal and right-wingers are shocking their former bosses. They are also expressing anger at the same level. Those who have been in the bureaucracy and the police system in the past and made various impressions are later coming to the public and speaking differently. Media articles and commentaries have also lost their news character and are becoming the main focus of propaganda. While the popularity of newspapers is declining overall, the fact that the media is also running with fixed and specific agendas is being proven in all cases, including the cockroach revolt. Gautam Adani's public call for more realistic assessment of GDP and ratings is just the latest example of this. Now, even the general public feels that there are specific influences behind the changes, additions, additions and exits in the parties. All these should be considered as evidence of the way in which the essence of the democratic system is being undermined and the dominance of the corporate business class is prevailing in the era of liberalization. Around personal quarrels...The thing that seems to be striking in all these developments is that in all the departures, separations, new formations and combinations, personal matters come to the fore more than social and public agendas, Kavitha, who rebelled against the BRS chief and his family, Vijayasai Reddy who quit YSRCP, Konda Surekha who was removed from Revanth Reddy's cabinet, whatever decisions are taken, personal matters are the main focus. Society and politics come later. Since they are coming from personal angles rather than political differences, they are unable to say where and on what issue they have differed. Moreover, they accuse others of insulting them or choosing someone else over them even though the universe is just. In other words, like in folk tales, they say that the king is good... the general and the ministers are at fault. Accordingly, the leaders of the respective parties also resorted to personal attacks or betrayal of trust without condemning them in terms of policy. They are cursing. In addition to their personal positions and grievances, family stories and pains, especially those that denigrate women, are filled with allegations and accusations in the form of controversies, video and audio leaks. The aforementioned media is also confusing their relationships and interests by portraying this or that. Corruption allegations and illegal dealings are also shown based on these relationships and not on values and facts. Issues like employment, job creation, agriculture, price increases, law and order, social discrimination, national sovereignty, and world peace are disappearing. What is more, none of them are willing to fight for them even if they are mistaken. In the media frenzy over many of the above mentioned controversies, even national and international developments are not mentioned. Moreover, now they are trying to use various twists to spread the same religious and Hindutva political sentiments that were vilified during the Modi era. They say that the pressure on them is so intense. They show the incumbents as competitors and support them. There is a great competition between the leaders of these parties over who is closer to Modi. That is why many do not even utter words like secularism, social justice, and people's sovereignty, and they only show appreciation or softness towards the Modi government, keeping in mind the interests of local power competition. There was a lot of discussion about Congress Chief Minister Revanth Reddy calling Modi 'Aide Bhai'. Now, as soon as he declared from the old basti that Asaduddin Akbaruddin Owaisi are also patriots like Modi and Amit Shah, the Union ministers have taken up the attack. Any religious politics is wrong. However, it is also wrong to confuse religion and patriotism. All of this only serves to create artificial controversies. 'Internal Affairs.. Whether Konda Surekha is wrong or the leadership is wrong is their internal matter. Vijayasai Reddy is right, Sajjala Ramakrishna Reddy wrote... Who they filed cases against and why they didn't file them is also their internal matter. What happened between Kavitha and her family is not really a matter of public concern. The good and bad policies of the previous KCR and Jagan governments and the benefits and losses to the people are related to the changes that need to be brought about now in democratic policies. The same applies to the now ruling Chandrababu Naidu-Pawan Kalyan, Revanth Reddy-Bhatti Vikram arka governments. Who among them gave whom how much priority and when? Which positions were given? Which were refused? When and what quarrels separated them? What is the connection between them and the people? When it comes to political criticism and allegations, what have they done? The courts should take decisions on what is being done or on the allegations of cases. Turning these into incessant panchayats and prolonging media frenzy and political discussions for days on end also leads to sidetracking the real discussion. Because many of them always mix here and there. The role of Ada Neel Ambani, who controls lakhs of crores of wealth and institutions, is behind everyone. In fact, most of these discussions are about business interests. Devis are immersed in scandals. If they cover up when they are good and then launch attacks, as if they say, 'There is no crime in the days of Kurimi', what is the value to anyone? Those who have been key officials in the respective governments can tell many things with authority. But it is crucial that they stand on the side of the people in terms of policies. Because in the era of globalization, corporate powers are manipulating governments and leading stories for their own interests. We have seen the controversy that went on in the American media about Indian corporate tycoon Adani, and later everything was settled as evidence in the courts, so we have to be critical in such situations too. Efforts on behalf of the people? It is commendable that some former high-ranking officials are playing a commendable role and taking initiatives in civil society in matters like environment, democratic freedoms, and protection of SC-ST rights. Some other prominent figures who are committed to secular democratic ideals are working hard to uncover the issues. The inability of the rulers to digest the role of pro-people intellectuals and launching various attacks on social media has also become a common occurrence. At the same time it is noticeable that people like A.B. Venkateswara Rao clearly state that they are politically right-wing. Others are declaring that they will come to power for social justice and Dalit rights. Their policies and premises need to be looked at. For example, Vijayasai Reddy announced that he would strengthen Modi's leadership. He brought in Kan Jihad in the Kakinada mass suicide incidents. Market strategists like Prashant Kishor have directly shown how globalization has made lobbying an industry more than ever before. Now it is expanding at various levels. Many more platforms and systems may emerge in the run-up to the next elections. With the discussions on surveys and public opinion polls, their influence will also increase. When it came to the news that Chief Minister Vijay, who won a sensational victory in Tamil Nadu, had increased his ratings a little in the surveys, the Congress could not bear it. It was only then that the CJP (D) was born with allegations against the CJP leaders. In this context, it is very important to be discerning about any development at any time and from any angle. The judiciary has also been criticized on many occasions, but the recent upheavals are unimaginable. CJI Suryakant reacted strongly to a textbook mentioning corruption in the judiciary. But after the Supreme Court judge made allegations against the temporary judge of the Rajasthan High Court and removed him, we are facing another attack. The Election Commission is attacking the right to vote and taking away crores of votes. If Subhash Chandra is given thousands of crores as a gift, then the judges themselves will be left in the lurch. These are the signs of institutional crises. When a neo-fascist state is carrying out attacks and suppression on freedom of expression, a broad democratic mobilization is of utmost importance. Such a broadness will be very helpful in confronting the rulers who want to control the media and even control social media and use their words to manipulate the media. However, these developments show that breadth and critical perspective are like two sides of the same coin.

Groundbreaking Ceremony for 'Indiramma' House

Kusam Raju, Bureau Chief, Vemulawada, September 7: A groundbreaking ceremony Bhoomi Puja was held for the construction of a house in the 14th Ward of Vemulawada as part of the state government's 'Indiramma' housing scheme, which aims to fulfill the dream of homeownership for the destitute who own land but lack a house. Driven by the vision of Chief Minister Revanth Reddy and with the support of Vemulawada MLA and Government Whip Adi Srinivas, the first installment of 25 lakh in 'Indiramma' housing funds was sanctioned for the family of Sunkara Veni, Sridevi, and Shravan. The groundbreaking ceremony for the construction work was conducted on this occasion. Participants in the event included Vemulawada Town Congress

President and 14th Ward Councilor Thumu Madhu, Ward Officer Parashuramulu, and 'Indiramma' committee members SK Sabir, Choppari Bhaskar, Manupati Parashuramulu, and Godishala Renuka. Sunkara Veni, Sridevi, and Shravan expressed their special gratitude to the leaders who helped secure the 'Indiramma' house for them. Subsequently, the leaders were felicitated in a grand manner.

Does Revanth Have A Second Chance?

YAMSANI Srinivaas internet Desk“Revanth Reddy's situation is like a house full of rubbish, not a festival. He has only one year left to overcome the growing opposition to the Congress government. No matter how many tricks he does in the last year, public opinion will not change. The responsibility has fallen on Chief Minister Revanth to make himself stronger and the party stronger. The fact that the party leadership stands by him in the Konda Surekha episode is a bit of a relief for Revanth Coming to power for a second term in Telugu is not a surprise. Only Chandrababu Naidu, YS Rajasekhara Reddy in the united state, and KCR after the state's separation were able to come to power for a second time only when the entire party machinery stood together and supported the Chief Minister. These same leaders were defeated when the entire party machinery did not support the Chief Ministers. If Chief Minister Revanth wants to come back to power, the entire Congress party must first embrace him. From workers to leaders, everyone should applaud Revanth's leadership. It is also the responsibility of Chief Minister Revanth to make everyone accept his leadership. Since the Congress leadership is also in power, this is a good opportunity for Revanth to establish himself as a strong leader. We should not be surprised to see groups in Congress. Otherwise, we should be surprised. Social equations alone are not enough to win elections. A positive opinion should be created among the people as a whole. At the same time, the people should also have faith in the leadership of any CM. “There is no doubt that Revanth will also remain as CM for a full five years. Being the Chief Minister for five years in Congress is a record. It would be a great thing to lead the party to a second term and continue in power. His power and capabilities will be revealed only when he can turn all the groups in the party towards him and prove that everyone is only the Revanth group. Only those who stand strong and escape the attacks from political opponents will emerge as true leaders. Will the Konda Surekha affair in the Telangana Congress Party cool down like a storm in a teacup? Or will it lead to new developments? This is a situation that cannot be said at the moment. In the Surekha episode, Chief Minister Revanth Reddy appears to have kept his word to the Congress high command by dismissing her and increasing his influence in the party and government. But, the challenges have not gone away. Although the Telangana Congress looks like one on the surface, it is internally divided into three groups. Till now there were two groups, Acha Congress and Vacha Congress. Now the Rajasekhara Reddy faction has also come to the fore. The party's opponents are describing Chief Minister Revanth Reddy as the representative of Pacha Congress. It is said that those who came from the Telugu Desam Party are Congress people. However, after the formation of Telangana, neither the Congress leaders nor the Rajasekhara Reddy faction could bring the party to power. Finally, after handing over the reins of the party to Revanth Reddy, who came from the Telugu Desam Party, the Congress came to power in the 2023 elections. Recognizing this fact, the Congress high command stood by Chief Minister Revanth Reddy no matter how many complaints were received against him. In the recent Surekha incident, too, it valued the Chief Minister's opinion and gave the green signal to dismiss her. However... before the party high command took this decision, there were no attempts to stop it. Two or three ministers tried to stop the dismissal decision. This is the reason why the decision was delayed. Konda says that these attempts were made with the intention that if Surekha is not dismissed, Revanth Reddy will become stronger. However, there is no way to reject Revanth Reddy and express regret over what happened. Even when Surekha was not ready, the party high command had to lean towards the decision of dismissal. Is Konda Surekha guilty of self-inflicted injury in this whole affair? Or was it strategic? We cannot say right now. She has a history of taking rash decisions in the past too. She was a follower of Rajasekhara Reddy in the Congress party. After Rajasekhara Reddy's death, Jagannathan Reddy wanted to become the Chief Minister. However, the party high command chose Konijeti Rosaiah as the Chief Minister. With this, Surekha, who had taken a sabbatical, resigned from the post of Minister and joined the YSR Congress Party. However, Telangana supporters strongly opposed Jagannathan Reddy. As a result, he had to close his shop in Telangana. With this, Surekha joined the Telangana Rashtra Samithi and became an MLA. Unable to fit in there either, she rejoined the Congress. Now let's come to the matter of the Rajasekhara Reddy faction, one of the three groups in the Congress party! The group that admired Rajasekhara Reddy extensively is unable to accept the leadership of Revanth Reddy from their area. It is said that when Rajasekhara Reddy was the Chief Minister, he did some good deeds for everyone in this group. This is why they all admired YSR. In addition to making melas that brought financial benefits, Rajasekhara Reddy used to show affection. Now, it is said that in the case of Revanth Reddy, along with affection, there is a shortage of good deeds that bring financial benefits. This is the reason why there are talks that Rajasekhara Reddy will bring the kingdom in Telangana. Now let's come to the matter of the original Congress party! As I said last week, Rajasekhara Reddy prevented the Telangana Congress leaders from growing strong. This is why many came to the fore as Chief Ministerial candidates, even though it was not known whether the party would win the 2014 elections. As a result, there was a shortage of leaders who could lead the party in the elections. Even though Telangana state was finally formed, the Congress stopped short of power. If the party came to power by chance, he wanted to become the Chief Minister, but no one could take responsibility for bringing the party to power. It was against this backdrop that Rahul Gandhi handed over the party factions to Revanth Reddy. With this, a third faction emerged in the Congress party, which the opponents call the Green Congress. All those in this faction had been in the Telugu Desam Party under a single leadership until then. Since they acted under Chandrababu's leadership as per his advice and instructions, they could not assimilate the Congress culture. The situation of this faction in the Congress is the same even today. Let's take the case of Minister Tummala Nageswara Rao. He is senior to the current ministers, he was in the ministries of NTR, Chandrababu Naidu and KCR. However, in the Congress party, he is seen as a junior. Even Tummala does not know what the Congress leadership is and how to get along with them. He joined the Congress party because of Revanth Reddy. Minister Sitakadi is also in a similar situation. This group is feeling a little uncomfortable due to the Congress culture not being able to stand alone. Now, the responsibility of coordinating these three groups and making himself and the party stronger has fallen on Chief Minister Revanth Reddy. The fact that the party leadership stood by him in the Surekha episode is a bit of a relief for Revanth Reddy. However, his situation is not like a festival when the house is empty. “He has only one year left to overcome the opposition. No matter how many tricks he performs in the last year, public opinion will not change. Coming to power for a second term for the Telugu Nath is not that surprising. Only Chandra Babu Naidu, YS Rajasekhara Reddy and KCR after the separation of the state were able to come to power for a second term in the united state. Let us now see under what circumstances these three were able to come to power for a second term. Chandrababu Naidu, who took over as the Chief Minister in 1996, also won the 1999 elections and came to power, creating a record for the first time. Telugu Desam Party founder NTR also failed to come to power for a second term. NTR, who took over as the Chief Minister in 1984, lost the 1989 elections. In contrast, there are many reasons why Chandrababu was able to win for the second time. Chandrababu had a strong eco-system between 1995-

99. He took many precautions without any room for dissent in the party. Everyone from activists to leaders supported him. They used to praise him saying, 'Our Chandrababu is like this and that'. Chandrababu also reached out to the people with many innovative programs. Many people used to comment at that time that Chandrababu had all the intelligence no matter what his mother raised him with. It was then proven that raising a leader benefits the party. Due to the great publicity about Chandrababu, the Telugu Desam Party was able to come to power again in the 1999 elections. Between 1999 and 2004, due to the change in Chandrababu's attitude, the party ranks also distanced themselves from him. As a result, he was defeated in the 2004 elections. Later, Rajasekhara Reddy, who took charge as the Chief Minister, was attacked by Congress leaders who distanced themselves from their natural characteristics. Although some people tried to oppose him initially... Rajasekhara Reddy failed to attract both the top brass and the party ranks. At the same time, he impressed the people by introducing welfare schemes like fee payment and Arogyasri. If all this were a tall order, all Congress leaders would have praised his leadership with open arms. He campaigned from village to village praising his qualities. For this reason, there is still an opinion that he would have come to power again in the 2009 elections, and even if Chiranjeevi had not formed the Praja Rajyam Party and the TDP had not formed an alliance with the Telangana Rashtra Samithi, Rajasekhara Reddy would have been defeated in the 2009 elections. This has brought to light the fact that if Telugu Naats want to come to power for the second time, he has to please the people a lot. Now let's come to the matter of KCR. After taking charge as the first Chief Minister of Telangana, KCR tried to bring discipline in the government. Although he could not completely stop corruption, especially political corruption... he was able to curb it. He created the impression that KCR meant Chandra Babu Naidu. At the same time, he implemented schemes like Mission Bhagiratha and Mission Kakatiya. At that time, like Chandrababu and Rajasekhara Reddy, the only word that was heard on the lips of the Telangana Rashtra Samithi ranks was KCR. From activists to leaders, everyone worked to enhance his leadership. Despite all this, he did not believe that he would win if he went to the Lok Sabha elections along with the Assembly elections, so he convinced the Central Election Commission to hold the Legislative Assembly elections six months earlier and won those elections. There is a feeling of resentment among the people towards the Congress government.

Telangana Defence Force President Kalvakuntla Kavitha staged a protest in Hanumakonda on Monday demanding immediate payment of reimbursement dues, release of scholarships and resolution of students' problems. She, along with hundreds of students, took out a rally from Ambedkar's statue to Hanumakonda Collectorate. Earlier, she garlanded Ambedkar's statue and paid homage. After reaching the Collectorate, Kavitha demanded that all the students be allowed inside and that the Collector listen to their problems. When the authorities did not allow her, she protested on the main road in front of the Collectorate's main gate along with the students. Kavitha, who sat on the road for about half an hour, came down with a bang and allowed the students into the Collectorate. “Reporting of problems to the collector Kavitha's fight over fee arrears Arrears for three years.” Speaking on the occasion, Kavitha alleged that the government is causing serious problems to students by not paying fee reimbursement dues. “This government has not been paying fee reimbursement dues for three years. This has led to the closure of small private colleges. Scholarships and fee dues to poor students are not being paid. Even the scooters to be given to students are not being given,” she said. Kavitha said that due to non-payment of fee reimbursement, college managements are not giving certificates to students even after completing the courses. She expressed her concern that lakhs of people are not getting their certificates even after completing their degrees and professional degrees. Keeping the future of the students in mind, she demanded that the government immediately pay the dues. Questions on Education System Kavitha criticized the Chief Minister for making different statements without a consistent policy on the education sector. He said that once he said that the intermediate education system would be abolished, and once again that polytechnic colleges would be merged with the Skill University. He suggested that the government should not experiment with the future of students. He demanded that the government make a clear statement on the issues of student fee reimbursement, scholarships and colleges in the assembly meetings. He said that students had walked four kilometers for fees and came in a rally, and he asked the government to recognize their difficulties and respond positively. He made it clear that they would continue the fight against the government until the fee reimbursement arrears are paid in full. Party flag hoisting in Taralapalli. Later, in Taralapalli, Hanumakonda district, Telangana Defence Force President Kavitha. After the officials allowed the students to enter the Collectorate premises, Kavitha along with the students met Hanumakonda District Collector Chahat Bajpai. The Collector explained that small private colleges are closing due to fee reimbursement arrears, and the management is not giving certificates to students who have completed the courses. Responding, the Collector said that three or four students come to the public meeting held at the Collectorate every Monday and complain that they are not receiving certificates due to fee reimbursement arrears. He said that they are trying to resolve the problem by talking to the management of the respective art colleges. Kavitha stated that the management of the colleges is also facing problems due to non-payment of fee arrears for years, and requested the government to take steps to resolve the issue. The Collector responded positively and sent the petition submitted by Kavitha to the higher authorities and assured that it would be resolved. “The party ranks gave a grand welcome. Kavitha, who unveiled the party flag there, said that she has come before the people with a new party with a strong determination to do good for the people. She said that her goal is that not a single rupee should be spent from the pockets of the people, especially in the fields of education and medicine. “I am a girl child who has been among you for 20 years. I have started a party with the intention of doing good for you. The color of our party flag is the favorite color of the goddess yellow. formed special pujas with Kavitha. As if the forest habitat is gone. Condition of Ayodhya puram farmers. Telangana Defence Force President Kalvakuntla Kavitha expressed concern that the situation of Ayodhya puram farmers is like being exiled. She visited the Railway Coach Factory in Ayodhyapuram on Monday. Speaking on the occasion, Kavitha assured all the victims who are losing their lands due to the Kazipet Coach Factory. On this occasion, the displaced people explained to Kavitha that they were being unfairly compensated as their lands were mixed with the lands of the Endowment Department. The victims said that when the land was acquired for the diesel factory in the past, the Endowment Department gave them 90 percent compensation and the Endowment Department gave them 10 percent. Now, if they are given Rs 33 lakhs as compensation per acre, they have been given only Rs 8 lakhs and the rest has been handed over to the Endowment Department.

They demanded justice in this matter. Ravita assured them that she would fight for justice in compensation for the displaced people. Kavitha reminded that when the Latur chicken factory in Maharashtra was set up, 734 jobs were given to the displaced people there. Similarly, here too, they said that one of the families of the land victims will get a job. They promised them that justice will be done to the victims before the coach factory starts. Kavitha said that she will write a letter to the Union Railway Minister as well as Union Ministers Kishan Reddy and Bandi Sanjay from our state regarding this issue. “Greater elections are the goal.” Kavitha advised the leaders and activists of the Telangana Defence Force to always be on the side of the people and among the people. She announced that her party will contest from all the seats in the upcoming Greater Warangal elections. She expressed confidence that her winning streak will begin from here.

Assembly fight

Nathari Venkatesh State Bureau Chief Hyderabad September 7: The political atmosphere heated up on the first day of the Telangana Assembly session. Along with a war of words between the ruling Congress and the opposition BRS, there was intense tension at the main gate of the Assembly. The police stopped BRS MLAs and MLCs from entering the Assembly wearing black T-shirts, which led to a dispute. In this sequence, a scuffle broke out between the police and BRS leaders, and the situation became tense for a while. BRS representatives came to the Assembly wearing black T-shirts to protest the government's failures. However, the police objected to them entering the Assembly premises wearing T-shirts with slogans. This led to an argument between BRS leaders and the police. The police took several BRS MLAs and MLCs into custody before the situation got out of control. There was also high drama when the police took former minister and BRS working president KTR into custody. Tension arose while KTR was being picked up and put into the car. BRS leaders alleged that the police behaved rudely while putting KTR into the police vehicle. KTR expressed his anger over this. He was furious at the way the government and the police were treating him. He warned that Revanth Reddy would be paid for this. At the same time, former minister Harish Rao also took off his T-shirt in protest against the police's behavior. BRS sources said that KP Vivek and Sudheer Reddy also took off their T-shirts. Later, they were taken into custody by the police. There were allegations that the police also misbehaved with BRS MLA Sunitha Lakshma Reddy while she was going to the assembly. She burst into tears after the police pulled her saree. She expressed her grief over how this should be done to a female representative. She was deeply emotional over this incident, and former minister Sabitha Indra Reddy consoled her. BRS leaders said that former minister Jagadish Reddy was injured in a scuffle with the police. These developments, which took place before the assembly began, created a tense atmosphere around the assembly for some time. On the other hand, KTR demanded that the assembly sessions be held for a month. He accused the government of not fulfilling the promises made by the Congress during the elections and made it clear that the assembly would be a platform for public issues and government failures. With this, the political fight between the ruling and opposition parties reached a critical level on the first day of the assembly sessions. There are chances that this dispute will escalate further in the coming days.

Ch.Abhinsy Bureau Chief Warangal September 7: Document writers hold sway at the Narsampet Sub-Registrar office, creating an unofficial parallel system. Work gets done only when routed through specific document writers; approaching the office directly often leads to objections or hurdles regarding registration. Going through these writers entails an additional charge of ₹10,000. Registration processes at the Narsampet Sub-Registrar office operate largely under the influence of document writers. People seeking to register properties are compelled to approach these writers first rather than contacting office staff directly. The writers' word has become decisive regarding property valuation, required documentation, and the specific details to be recorded in the documents. Consequently, there is talk that the external system is more powerful than the official administrative setup within the office. Questions are also arising regarding the implementation of regulations for the registration of flats, under-construction properties, and other immovable assets. In some instances, flats are being registered based on square-yard measurements. It remains to be verified whether the respective constructions have valid permissions, if layout and building approvals and ownership rights are in order, and if officials thoroughly examine these documents prior to registration. At the same time, an additional amount of up to ₹10,000 is being collected per registration over and above the mandatory stamp duty and registration fees payable to the government within the office. Document writers have formed a union and maintain a distinct system of their own within the office. While the registration process proceeds smoothly for documents prepared by union members, documents brought by non-union writers face objections, queries, and delays. There is also a practice of charging individuals up to ₹70,000 to join the union. Questions are being raised regarding whose authorization allows for such collections and what regulations permit the union to enjoy such preferential status within a government office. The special cooperation extended to union writers at the Sub-Registrar's office is also a matter requiring scrutiny. Disputes over staff shares and delays due to leave are also issues; unauthorized extra collections occur at the staff level during the registration process as well. In some instances, the total amount collected by the staff reportedly exceeds that collected by the Sub-

Registrar, leading to internal office conflicts over the sharing of these funds. Registration work is being delayed by factors such as attempts to transfer certain staff members and staff taking leave due to a lack of coordination with the Sub-Registrar. The public is facing further delays while the office is being managed by an in-charge Sub-Registrar. Although details regarding official fees and other charges are required to be clearly displayed, confusion persists regarding the amounts being collected. The true state of affairs could be revealed if higher officials conducted surprise inspections to examine CCTV footage, document registration records, challans, authorizations for document writers, and details of any excess charges.

Are drivers facilitating a racket within the RTA? "Do these vehicles belong to the officials?"

Gajula Praveen Kumar Bureau Chief, Mulugu September 7: Questions raised over vehicles plying with temporary numbers "Private individuals accompanying officials; extortion allegations centering on an AMVI's driver" "Why was another MVI posted on 'OD' (On Duty) when two AMVIs were already present?" "Controversy over login credentials; a barrage of questions regarding vehicle-related operations" "Affairs within the Mulugu District Transport Department are repeatedly becoming a topic of discussion. Following the incident where certificates were issued using the official login and digital signature of an officer who was not on duty, several other issues are now raising questions: the vehicles used for inspections and their number plates, the role of private individuals accompanying officials, and the posting of an additional officer on 'OD' (On Duty) status. Regarding vehicles that have completed registration but are still plying with temporary number plates, there is a need to disclose details concerning their ownership, usage, and departmental allocation. If private individuals are participating in official duties, it must be clarified who granted them this opportunity and what their responsibilities are. Do these vehicles belong to the officials? Transport department officials use vehicles to conduct inspections. However, the fact that some vehicles used for inspections in Mulugu bear temporary number plates has become a key issue. If these vehicles have already completed registration, why is a temporary number being used instead of a permanent registration number? Senior officials need to examine several key aspects: Were these vehicles officially allocated to the Transport Department, or did they belong to private individuals? Is there authorization for the department to use private vehicles? Are there bills, logbooks, and travel records documenting their usage? Are drivers playing a pivotal role? The presence of private individuals accompanying officials during vehicle inspections has become a matter requiring special scrutiny. Amidst the daily movement of lorries from sand quarries in Mulugu district, there is talk of collections amounting to ₹7,500 per month from each lorry. Reports suggest that a private driver associated with an Assistant Motor Vehicle Inspector (AMVI) plays a key role in this scheme; he reportedly oversees matters related to fines and payments during inspections. Examining the details of cash and digital transactions could clarify the actual situation. "Is a private individual calling the shots in the office too? Information indicates that the private driver is not merely driving the vehicle but is also interfering in office affairs. Who authorized a non-government employee to participate in official departmental business? How does he gain access to Transport Department records, inspection data, and challan details? It remains to be determined whether he has any authority to handle matters on behalf of the officials. The facts will come to light if the office CCTV footage, duty rosters, and details regarding inspection teams are examined. Why was an additional MVI brought in when there were already two AMVIs? Reports indicate that one MVI and two AMVIs are already performing duties in Mulugu district. Yet, it appears that Vinod Reddy, an AMVI from another district, has been deployed to Mulugu on 'OD' (On Duty/deputation) status. Why was an extra officer brought in on OD when the existing staff and officers were sufficient? Was this decision made specifically for inspecting sand lorries and heavy vehicles? Details regarding who issued the OD orders, the duration of the deputation, and the specific duties assigned need to be disclosed. Issues regarding login credentials have now shifted focus to vehicle-related matters; the earlier incident where certificates were issued using the login and digital signature of an officer not on duty had already raised questions about the Mulugu Transport Department. Recently, issues such as vehicles plying with temporary number plates, the involvement of private individuals, the role of drivers, and the deputation of an additional officer have come to light. Consequently, senior Transport Department officials need to conduct a comprehensive review of vehicle RCs, department allocation documents, logbooks, CCTV footage, inspection records, challans, OD orders, login details, and relevant digital transactions to ascertain the facts. Public confidence in the department will be established only if the lapse is identified and action is taken against those responsible.
